Auto Mechanic Course Plans Will Be Made

Garage owners and shop foremen have been called to attend a meeting Thursday, May 11, at 8 p. m. in the vocational department of the Salem senior high school to organize and develop plans for a supplementary automobile mechanics training class.

The class will operate at night, probably twice a week, to assist men engaged in automobile mechanics to become better skilled in their particular work. It is designed also to assist employers in upgrading personnel and employees in becoming better qualified in their trade.

A representative of the office of defense transportation and Miss Florence Mills of the US employment service will attend the meeting. The two agencies are interested in development of more qualified automobile mechanics, it was explained Tuesday in the offices of the department of vocational education.

E. T. Barnett, supervisor of vocational education locally, expects to have the group at the meeting recommend a qualified technician to act as instructor for the class, which will open as soon as the course material has been compiled and a definite group of men enrolled.

Dr. Scotford Friday Speaker

Dr. John R. Scotford of New York, editor of Advance, the national publication of 6000 Congregational churches in America, will speak to a group of laymen of the First Congregational and Knight Memorial churches of Salem at a supper meeting to be held May 12, at the Cherrio Inn, 325 Court street.

He has traveled extensively in the United States, specializing in off-the-beaten path journeys that have supplied him with material on peoples and conditions. In 1928 he made a trip through 10 of the republics of South America, and has also visited Mexico three times.

Presiding officer at the dinner will be Dr. William C. Jones of Eugene and formerly professor at Willamette university. Dr. Jones is president of the state Congregational Laymen's Fellowship. The Rev. Paul A. Davies, executive secretary of the Oregon Congregational conference will be present.

3 New WAC's Think Adair Nice Place

CAMP ADAIR, May 8—A mighty nice place so far—was the consensus of the three newest WAC officers who arrived at Camp Adair recently for duty and took up residence in their new quarters—the first WAC barracks to open on the post. The officers are 1st Lt. Daisy E. Taylor, post adjutant; 1st Lt. Marie L. Matranga, assistant transportation officer; and 1st Lt. Gertrude Goldberg, assistant registrar, medical section.

Lt. Taylor hails from San Jose, Calif., and has been in the service since October, 1942. Enlisting as a private, she attended OCS at the completion of her basic training. Her first assignment upon graduation was commanding officer at the Montana recruiting and induction district where she remained for 14 months. Interesting though her duties were, she desired closer contact with the army and applied for transfer. Sidelight on her career is the fact that she and her husband enlisted in the army the same day and now he is a pfc. Her hobby is horseback riding. She likes her work and hopes to make the WAC her career.

Lt. Matranga, bringing a touch of the deep south with her direct from her home town of New Orleans, La., took her basic at Des Moines, Iowa. Her last camp before coming to Camp Adair was Pine Bluff, Ark., but her fondest memories are of her stay at Daytona Beach, Fla. The lieutenant is justly proud of her recreational background and claims tennis as her first love. In 1941 she won the singles championship in her home town.

Lt. Goldberg, the only WAC quartered at the station hospital, hails from Basenhurst in the heart of Brooklyn, N.Y. She enlisted in Sept., 1942, and since receiving her commission has seen service in a number of camps, including the aircraft warning corps in Boston. She also came to Camp Adair from Pine Bluff, Ark., with the exception of a short stay at Seattle.

The Rev. John L. Sawyer of Eugene, president of the Pacific Synod led the convention in its deliberations. The Rev. W. L. Eck, DD., of Portland was re-elected secretary. The Wednesday sessions begin at 8:45 p. m. and conclude at 6:30. At that time the Rev. F. C. Weigman, president of Midland college, Fremont, Neb., will address the convention.

Dr. Weigman will also speak in the morning on "Figs from Thistles." At four in the afternoon Dr. Reinartz, who is serving as the representative of the United Lutheran church, will speak on "When Johnnie Comes Marching Home." Committee reports will constitute much of the work for the day.

Col. Townsend Speaks at USO Albany Meet

Col. C. E. Townsend of Camp Adair was the guest speaker at the Willamette valley USO area staff conference which was held at Albany USO yesterday morning, with Adj. B. J. Glaeser of Salem presiding. Mrs. Townsend accompanied her husband.

Relaxation, recreation, entertainment and health are the fields in which the USO serves the enlisted man best, said Col. Townsend, recalling the pre-USO days in which he as a young officer worked 18 hours a day, seven days a week trying to establish a program called "morale-building." He advised keeping the perfected USO program simple because while it remains the same the men are always changing and to try to add too many things tends to break the basic program down.

Col. Townsend gave a graphic account of his experience in the combat area in Italy with special reference to the difference between men's attitudes toward recreation before and after such experience. Comments following his address indicated a much deeper understanding of the returning soldier by USO officials than before hearing him.

Adj. Henry H. Koerner of San Francisco, regional supervisor of the Salvation Army-USO attended the conference as a guest of Adj. Glaeser who represented the Court street USO. Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Anthony represented the Chemeketa street USO.

The next meeting will be held on June 6 at Corvallis USO with special services officers as guests.

Gervais Has Dump Problem

The county court met Tuesday with Gus Moisan, mayor of Gervais, who was in Salem seeking a solution to the problem of overflowing garbage disposal grounds in his town. Moisan is asking for help in selecting a suitable site for a new dump.

County Judge Grant Murphy indicated that the problem of dump grounds for rural areas has long been a difficult one, and that the lack of adequate facilities frequently made people resort to the use of county roadsides. He stated that some scheme of cooperation with the towns in order to secure grounds might be worked out whereby counties and towns would pay an equal share of the cost. Steps to work out such a plan of cooperation would probably be taken in the near future, he added.

DAN HARMON for CONGRESS

The Republican Party promises the people a positive progressive program. To be consistent with such a program, the Republican Party must elect a "Progressive Congressman" from this district. DAN HARMON is such a man.

He is a successful business man and bonafide farmer, the first such man to represent us in Congress for over fifty years.

To re-elect the same old crowd of political wheel-horses to Congress would be most inconsistent with the Republican program of progressiveness.

Do we want success or seniority?
Pd. Pol. Adv.—Dan Harmon for Congress Committee
