United Lines Fly 18 Million Service Miles

Just two years after it first undertook military contract operations for the army air transport command, United Air Lines today reported that it had flown a grand total of more than 18 million airplane miles in such services over the Pacific, to Alaska and within this country.

United disclosed that, since beginning trans-Pacific operations for the air transport command in the fall of 1942, it has flown the Pacific more than 1,300 times and has chalked up 1,800 flights over Alaska, moving men and materials urgently needed in combat areas as well as returning the ill and wounded to the United States. In addition, the company has maintained regular service between various army air posts in this country.

As of March 31, according to the announcement, United has flown almost 9,000,000 airplane miles in trans-Pacific operations; nearly 4,000,000 airplane miles in its Alaskan operations, and 5,000,000 miles in domestic military transport services. Such operations, officials pointed out, have been separate from United's regularly scheduled passenger-mail-express flight from coast to coast and the length of the Pacific coast.

Child Steals $22.50 Brooch

Because a sales attendant at Stevens Jewelry store seemed somewhat dubious Tuesday about the manner of acquisition of a brooch presented to him for sale by a 12-year-old girl, police learned Thursday that the child had stolen the pin, valued at $22.50, from the Brown Jewelry store.

A troop of five small girls first marched into the Stevens Jewelry store with an agate heart locket on a silver chain. When this was turned down for sale, one of them came back later with the brooch. The jeweler asked her where she got it, and one of the other children said she had stolen it after the youngster changed her story twice.

Police investigating the matter believe the locket was probably found, since the fastener is broken.

Snell Makes 3 Selections

Gov. Earl Snell Thursday appointed Kenneth G. Demman, as pro member of the state game commission to succeed Kenneth S. Martin, Grants Pass, who has entered military service.

Demman will serve until such time as Martin returns or until the expiration of his term on February 25, 1948. He was born in Corvallis and graduated from Oregon State college.

Woodson, L. Paterson, Baker, was appointed justice of the peace of district No. 1, Baker county, to succeed the late Judge High Alfrey.

Reappointment of Mrs. Marie Gilbert, Pendleton, as a member of the state board of cosmetic therapy examiners, for a two year term, also was announced.

Hayes to Attend Defense Meeting

Jack Hayes, director of the Oregon state defense council, will attend a meeting in San Francisco starting June 14, when reorganization of this protective agency in Oregon, Washington and California will be discussed.

Hayes predicted that the state defense councils would be kept intact but that some of their functions would be eliminated while others would be strengthened.

The federal government already has taken over some of the activities of these councils.

Women Can't Work Over 10 Hours

The war emergency is not an emergency giving the state wage and hour commission authority to issue permit for employment of women in excess of 10 hours a day or 60 hours a week, Attorney General George Neuner ruled here Thursday.

The opinion was asked by W. E. Kimsey, state labor commissioner, in behalf of the Kaiser company, Inc., Portland.

In another opinion Neuner held that workers transported to their place of employment by the Inland Logging company, under contract, are under the workmen's compensation law, provided they are injured. This opinion was requested by the industrial accident commission.

Cherry Growers Talk Setting of Standards

A hearing here Wednesday to determine whether proposed Oregon standards for sweet cherries for brining and canning should be established was adjourned until next Monday when all briners and canners will assemble in Portland for further consideration of the proposal.

It was consensus of opinion of those attending the Wednesday meeting that establishment of canning grades is desirable.

Pipe Line Approved—Fete Balkeme, route 3, Silverton, received permission from the county court Thursday to lay a 1 1/4" pipe line across county road 735 for irrigation purposes.

School Heads Busy All Day

Receipt of a number of committee reports, address by Rex Putnam, state superintendent of public instruction and the annual banquet, featured Thursday's sessions of the annual conference of the Oregon county school superintendent association here.

The conference opened Tuesday and will continue until late Friday.

One report had to do with the problems and practices of county school superintendents' offices while another dealt with the elementary school fund distribution plan. There also was a report from the testing committee.

Mrs. Ann Sprague served as banquet toastmistress.

Friday's sessions will be highlighted by an address by George B. Cox, professor of industrial arts at Oregon State college.

Pinball Taxes Rolling In

Collection of taxes under the 1943 legislative session law imposing an annual levy of $50 on pinball machines and $10 on juke boxes is now in full swing, the state tax commission announced here Thursday.

Up to Wednesday night these collections aggregated approximately $65,000. Officials estimated that these taxes would total about $200,000 a year.

The law imposing these taxes was attacked in the courts recently but the supreme court held it constitutional with the exception of that section authorizing confiscation of devices on which the tax had not been paid. Three inspectors are now in the field checking the machines and enforcing tax collections.

In cases where the taxes are not paid within a reasonable time suits will be filed against the machine owners, tax commissioners said.

Funds derived from these taxes will be used largely for old age assistance.
