

Anti-4th Term Demos Veto GOP Coalition

By the Associated Press
The anti-fourth term American democratic national committee first approved, and later killed, yesterday a suggestion that the republicans nominate a coalition ticket such as Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio and Senator Harry F. Byrd, Virginia democrat.

In voting against such a recommendation, the committee headed arguments of former Rep. John J. O'Connor of New York and others that it would be better to exert efforts against a fourth term at the democratic convention.

Winding up a two-day meeting the group voted to call a convention of "all anti-new deal organizations" if the democrats renominate President Roosevelt.

The committee's caucus got no official recognition from republicans already on hand for the party's national convention beginning Monday.

GOP Chairman Harrison Spangler, expressing belief there would be no deadlocked balloting, predicted to reporters that the convention will nominate a presidential candidate on its third day and wind up on its fourth after selection of a vice presidential nominee.

The resolutions committee gets down to work today on a proposed platform. Subcommittees already have done much preliminary work.

In Texas, the state supreme court is expected to rule today on a move by a pro-Roosevelt democratic faction to have democratic presidential electors chosen in the July 22 primary.

Enemy Fleet May Engage Yank Navy

unhappy, even with our plane production."

Nimitz, whose announcements and observations were made at a press conference, expressed conviction that the enemy so far has been able to replace plane losses in the war to date.

In operations of fleet against fleet, he pointed out the Japs have the advantage of land-based air reconnaissance west of the Marianas and the American fleet has as its first obligation the protection of the Saipan invasion troops.

With their reconnaissance advantage, the Japanese decided Sunday they had enough information to launch carrier-based plane strikes on the fleet, the admiral noted.

"They have made a very strong bid but took a very severe beating in losing 300 carrier type planes," he said.

Such carrier planes are most valuable to the Japs because of the long pilot training required for carrier operations.

Concerning the strength of the American fleet off the Marianas, Nimitz remarked:

"I can safely say that there was enough power to be favorable to us in a decisive engagement.

"We hope the Jap fleet will stay in that area. As long as they stay, we have a chance to get at them."

Because of the Marianas' importance in a key defense line for Japan, the China coast and the Philippines, the enemy is making a tremendous effort to hold Saipan, Nimitz explained.

He said the Japanese lacked the sea strength to use the Marianas as a springboard for any strike east at the American force "but the Japs need to hold them to keep us from penetrating west of their island defense line."

"I'm not optimistic enough to say we will finish Saipan in two or three days (it was invaded June 14 and the southern end now has been boxed off by a drive from west to east) but we've made a good start.

"Once we've taken the Marianas it will be like money in the bank and we can project our sea power hundreds of miles to the west of there."

Say what you will, preachers do have lotta fun.

—V—
Take our friend the Rev. George H. Quiley, for instance, who has the honor of being father to the last of that line of gifted men who have been at various times our "major professor."

Nothing, particularly pedantic about either father or son, perhaps that's why I like this wasn't to be about my likes and dislikes but about those of other folk.

A year or two ago, Mr. Quiley senior took a trip and on the little ship he met a charming young woman who asked him if she should marry the man in whom she was currently interested.

I guess he didn't tell her "Yes" and he didn't tell her "No" but suggested some ways to think out the question herself. Last week he went up to Seattle and performed the wedding ceremony.

More recently he went to Corvallis to baptize the first child of the Earl Litwillers at whose wedding he had officiated six years earlier.

—V—
There are those who think newspaper work glamorous, but here I sit, glued to one office and one city, while others travel—I'm positive that preachers, or at least some preachers, have lotta fun.

Great Fleet Of Bombers Slugs Nazis

Calais installations from which the Germans have been launching their winged rocket bombs since last Thursday night.

Forty-seven bombers and 10 fighters were missing from all the day's operations while 88 German planes were shot down, 41 by the big fighter escort.

Between attacks by the largest total force of heavy bombers ever put up in one day, the allies made at least four other assaults against the rocket nests with every type of daylight bombers based in Britain.

American Raiders and Heavies flew against these emplacements twice and returned without loss. The RAF sent Mitchell medium bombers, Boston light bombers and Mustangs and Typhoon fighter-bombers against the same installations.

By dark from 4000 to 4500 tons of explosives had rained down from the bomb bays of at least 3000 bombers and fighters.

As the procession of heavy weights—an armada matching the biggest ever flown,—winged across the channel, the one-ton flying explosives from the Pas de Calais area of France passed far below in the opposite direction, but the German robot attack was on a somewhat reduced scale, possibly the result of 11 heavy allied attacks on the launching ramps since the first robot plane took off last Thursday.

Early this evening another great bomber force was seen streaming over the English coast under a fighter escort in the direction of Calais, perhaps to deliver another crushing blow at the flying ramps.

Sub Grayback Lost at Sea

WASHINGTON, June 20-(P)—The American submarine Grayback which probably carried on her log a record of the sinking of a Japanese auxiliary cruiser and other enemy ships, is presumed lost.

The navy gave no details in announcing today that the 1475-ton submersible is overdue from patrol. It didn't even say where her last mission was carried out.

But her skipper, Commander John Anderson Moore, 34, Lowell, Ariz., holds a navy cross for "extraordinary heroism" as commander of an unidentified submarine, presumably the Grayback.

Court Rules On Folkes

stenographers, four witnesses testified that the defendant voluntarily confessed to the murder in great detail, that no witness at the trial denied that he had committed the murder and no witness denied that he had confessed to the officers, both in Los Angeles and Albany.

"In view of the unimpeached and uncontradictory testimony of witnesses to the confessions, coupled with strong corroborating evidence of passengers on the train, the jury could not have properly arrived at any other verdict. Errors which might warrant reversal under other circumstances did not warrant it here."

The opinion quoted from the state constitution which provides that if the supreme court shall be of the opinion that the judgment was such as should have been rendered in the case such judgment shall be affirmed notwithstanding any error committed during the trial.

Justice Rossman, in his dissenting opinion, wrote that if the defendant is guilty his guilt should have been established in the way prescribed by law.

"He ought not to have been handicapped through placing in the scales of justice prejudicial matter which weighed heavily against him and which consisted of several accusations of crime, including rape, assault, threat to kill and others, of which he was not guilty," Justice Rossman continued.

"He should have had the benefit, uniformly accorded all others accused of crime, of having the accused, jury instructed that his oral admissions should have been viewed with caution. A judgment of death which is infirm through grave error, ought not to be affirmed. The case should have been remanded."

Folkes has been in the penitentiary here since his conviction. The supreme court Tuesday also stayed the execution of Richard Harry Layton, Monmouth, under death sentence for the murder of Ruth Hildebrand, 17, Dallas, last June, pending application for a review of the case in the United States supreme court.

Layton was slated to die in the lethal gas chamber at the penitentiary here on July 7.

The application for stay of execution was filed by Layton's attorneys. Miss Hildebrand's body was found floating in the Willamette river 10 days after she was reported missing.

Layton was later arrested by state police.
