They'll Make Best Main Dishes

By MAXINE BUREN
See if we care if we must serve eggs as a main dish to save the country's crop. There are a mighty lot of very good recipes that depend upon eggs as the main ingredient. Look what we find in our notebook of recipes:

BAKED DEVILED EGGS
Sprinkle grated cheese on the bottom of a greased baking dish, carefully break eggs in the pan and sprinkle with salt and pepper, add a mixture of 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1/4 cup cream and bake in a moderate oven until firm. Serve on buttered toast points.

RICE RING WITH CURRIED EGGS
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons each flour and butter
1/4 cup grated cheese
1 teaspoon curry powder
3 hard cooked eggs
Seasonings
Melt butter and add flour, then milk, cook to a medium thick sauce. Add salt and pepper to taste, add curry powder and cheese and when melted, add sliced or dice eggs. Pack hot rice in a buttered mold and turn out on a platter, or press rice into a ring on the plate and fill with the curry mixture. Use about 1/2 cup raw rice.

BAKED EGGS WITH PIMIENTO POTATOES
2 cups hot mashed potatoes
1 can pimiento
4 eggs
Chop pimiento fine and fold into the potatoes. Put in a buttered baking dish, make cavities in potatoes with a spoon big enough to hold an egg. Drop in egg and bake until set.

There are dozens of other good recipes for eggs as a main dish, and be sure and remember among other ideas, that souffles use lots of eggs and can be the most elegant of main dishes, that omelets are an excellent way to utilize eggs and that good old fried eggs with ham or bacon won't set too badly as an occasional main course for the family.

Look into your own old cookbook, or better still, into your mother's for other good recipes using lots of eggs. There are millions of dozens waiting to be used and it's our job right now to save the situation.

Horses Arrive At Monmouth

Ray Adams Receives 50-horse Consignment

MONMOUTH—Ray Adams, local horseman, received a consignment of 50 horses this month from eastern Oregon. A group of sorrels, some with flaxen manes and tails came from Redmond, and were already broke. The other 30 were wild horses of the range from the John Day country. Mr. and Mrs. Adams drove in there, and secured the animals through Doug and Art Martin of Dayville, who have a large ranch in that area.

Adams says the price for saddle horses continues good and the demand is continuous. Among Polk county buyers this month were Hardy and Harold Smith of Smithville who took four Palominas; and Mrs. W. C. Leth, wife of the Polk county agent at Dallas.

Another load is now on the way to Adams due to arrive here this week. He has them trucked here by a Prineville transfer company. Out of this group, six will be selected for use as bucking horses at the horse show to be sponsored Saturday night and Sunday at the state fair grounds, sponsored by the Salem Saddle club.

Several riders have indicated their desire to try out these wild steeds, and Ned Bottenburg of Redmond, a good bareback rider who has appeared in several western Oregon rodeos will be present to do some stunt riding.

Adams, who was born and reared at Dallas, Oregon, is one local native who has made horses his lifelong enterprise. A natural horseman, he devotes his time largely to buying and selling and breaking horses, with specific interest in the saddle animals. He does considerable general farming, aided by his three sons, but his chief interest is horses. He has formerly sponsored rodeos on his own initiative and capital, at Molalla, Siletz and Independence. He is a member of the Governor's Guards at Salem.

Rev. Russell Attends Linn County Meet

SILVERTON—Rev. Russell Myers and Mrs. J. W. Jordan attended the joint meeting of Willamette Missionary district and Linn county quarterly convention at Albany Monday as delegates from the local First Church of Christ.

The theme of the meeting was "Witnessing for Christ" and Mrs. Jordan, state secretary of missions, was one of the speakers, having for her topic "Witnessing for Christ Through Oregon Christian Women's Missionary Societies."

Considerable stress was placed on the centennial of the Christian church in Oregon, which will occur in 1946. Rev. A. C. Bates, Klamath Falls, has been appointed by the church to bring this centennial before the Christian churches of the state during the two years preceding it, and he was present to speak on the subject at the convention.

Mrs. Darpella of Lebanon was the song leader for the day. Speakers other than Mrs. Jordan included Rev. O. F. Mick, Albany; Rev. Holly Jarvis, Lebanon; C. V. Swander, Portland; and William Sleske of Eugene. Ivan Correll of Albany was soloist.

Mrs. Jordan was also a recent speaker at the Federation of Women's councils of the Missionary Society of Oregon, Portland area, at Portland. She was accompanied to Portland by Mrs. L. R. Neal.

Grand Shows "Up in Arms" As Bond Premiere Tonight

With its hilarious action filmed in technicolor, "Up in Arms," Samuel Goldwyn's new RKO Radio release, stars Danny Kaye and a brilliant cast of favorites in a rollicking tale of a hypochondriac elevator-operator who is drafted into the army. What happens to the army is sad indeed, but it all makes for one of the funniest musical comedy offerings ever screened. Dinah Shore, Dana Andrews, Constance Dowling and Louis Calhern have the other chief roles in the laugh-bit which opens in New York City and winds up on the mythical South Pacific island of Bagoona from which the Japs are to be chased by Uncle Sam's armed forces.

Danny Weems, who thinks everything in the world's wrong with him, and his pal Joe are drafted. When they complete their basic training they find their nurse girl friends, Virginia and Mary, have joined the army too, and are now lieutenants in the medical corps. All four of them head for the South Seas aboard the same transport, although Mary is a stowaway, thanks to Danny's maneuverings.

Danny gets into plenty of trouble with his buddies and with his commanding officer as a result, but shortly after landing at Bagoona he is captured by the Japs, and after an uproarious mix-up comes out of the jungle with a string of captured Japs. Nobody quite knows how this happened, but anyhow, Danny turns out to be a hero and all is forgiven in a tuncful, spectacular finale.

The versatile Danny Kaye makes his screen debut in the offering as the neurotic Weems, and Dana Andrews portrays Joe, with Miss Shore as Virginia and Miss Dowling as Mary. A glamorous newcomer from Broadway, as Mary, Calhern is seen as the boy's spoilsport colonel, George Mathews, Benny Baker, Elisha Cook, Jr., Lytle Talbot, Walter Catlett and George Meeker are also in important roles.

Clyde Beatty Circus Coming To Salem Tuesday, Wednesday

Forty wild, ferocious Nubian lions and Bengal tigers, male and female, comprise the vast group of snarling, treacherous, man-eating beasts which Clyde Beatty, king of the steel arena, will face when the newly combined Clyde Beatty and Russell Bros. circus comes to Salem, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 27 and 28. Although still a young man, Beatty is unchallenged as the greatest wild animal trainer the world has ever known. He has been bitten, clawed, and mauled by the most vicious animals on earth, but this nerveless man of slight build still defies his ferocious charges twice daily.

Once Nero, a huge Nubian black-maned lion, beat off an enraged tiger which was mauling Beatty during a performance. Strange to say, just one year later Nero himself leaped from his perch, attacked Beatty, and sent the famous trainer to the hospital with a body ripped and shredded by claws and fangs.

Continually augmenting his startling arctic exhibition with new features and thrills, Beatty this season added to his display King and Kitty, huge lion and tiger, which sit up on their haunches at his command and wave their big front paws to the circus crowds. He also presents the world-famous "Nigger," a Bengal tiger which rolls over and over like a kitten, then flies into a tornado spin.

Swegle Bond Drive Opened

Procedure Explained For District Citizens

SWEGLE—Frank Corfield of the East Salem Four Corners district is again rural chairman for the fifth war loan drive and he has appointed Mrs. William McKinney chairman for this district. With the schools closed, the districts will have to raise their quotas by the work of each chairman and what helpers she may have volunteer to help.

As most of these helpers will be busy housewives with the older children away helping with the harvests every member of the family who can possibly buy a war bond is asked to see that their district gets the credit for the bond purchase. If the bond is bought at the bank, see that they write the name of your district on your application, and if bought at the place of business, do the same, as in most places it can be done if the one making the purchase makes it plain that their district must have the credit.

Swegle district was one that did not get credit for several thousand dollars worth of bonds bought in the fourth drive. The school was working on the purchase of a jeep and parents went there and bought bonds and no credit was given the district. Records are kept of what each district buys and this district will do its share, only help must be given the chairman and her helpers.

Keizer Elects Rehffuss School Board Director

KEIZER—A close contest was staged at the Keizer schools' annual budget meeting on Monday night, when Herman Rehffuss received 19 votes and A. E. Woldorf 18 votes for the three-year term as school director.

Hugh Adams, present clerk, was unopposed. The clerk's annual salary was raised to $400 per year. The amount to be raised above the 6 per cent limitation was carried, but had two opposing votes.

Fred Rose was the outgoing director and a vote of thanks was extended to him. Chairman for next year will be I. W. "Doc" Lewis and the other member is Harvey McLaughlin. The janitor's salary was raised to $1800 per year and is a full-time job. This vacancy is still unfilled.

Mrs. Charlie Weathers is at the Deaconess hospital, where a major operation was performed, on her, on Tuesday. Her many Keizer friends hope for her speedy recovery.
