Tank Clears Mine Fields

This British tank, called a "scorpion," beats the ground with chains to clear a path through a German mine field in Normandy. A boom holds a rotating cylinder out in front of the tank to which lengths of chains are attached and which lash the ground to explode anti-personnel mines to clear a path for advancing ground troops. This is an official British photo. (AP Wirephoto via signal corps radio.)

Our Pledge...

In assuming the management of this famous restaurant and confectionery, this pledge is made: "The traditions of THE SPA will be carried on as it has for over half a century in Salem, a friendly place where friends can meet and visit or talk business as they, always have in quiet, pleasant surroundings."

The same employees you have known for years will continue to serve you, with Mr. Frank V. Brown continuing as assistant manager, a position he has held for 20 years. Mr. Brown, who is a candymaker, will also supervise the SPA manufacturing plant which produces SPA fine candies and old-fashioned ice cream.

The new management holds in high esteem the patronage THE SPA has enjoyed so long and feels highly honored to continue the tradition with every friendly service you have received and to add any new modern improvement as fast as possible.

Gratitude...

I wish to thank you, friends, for your patronage and companionship through the 45 years you have so loyally supported me as I "grew up" with you and your children in The Spa. You have granted me countless favors; may I ask you for another: that this same patronage and friendly helpfulness be given to the new manager, Mr. Robert M. Lehman, and to my faithful employees of many years.
