Imperiled by this push from the northeast, the Germans began pulling their forces back into Caen from positions guarding the road to Bayeux, and Spitfires dived and attacked them. Authie, just a mile north of this road fell to the British tightening their arc of steel about the city.

Other units of 10 to 20 vehicles were seen moving out of Caen on the south and southwest, indicating that the Germans were beginning the withdrawal that will push them out into open country with no substantial communication center before Falaise, 20 miles south. British and Canadian units seized hill No. 64, dominating all enemy positions above Caen, where from trenches and pillboxes suicidal Germans were trying to bar the way to the British who at no point were more than 21/2 miles from the city's perimeter.

Canadians on the west kept up the relentless pressure by striking out from north of Carpiquet toward the heap of rubble that now marks the ancient cathedral city which once boasted a population

BRETTON WOODS, NH., July 8 -(AP)- The United Nations monetary conference was urged today to take intensive action to prevent nazi leaders from cashing in on the looted funds of occupied countries after the war.

At the same time the conference received a proposal from the Norwegian delegation calling for an investigation of the bank for international settlement at Basle, Switzerland, which now is under nazi domination.

The proposal asked for the liguidation of the bank with the appointment of a commission to examine the management and all transactions during the war. The bank has been under control of Germany since the war started and its assets today are believed to be between $150,000,- 000 and $17,000,000. The United States has no official connection with the bank, but Great Britain is understood to be represented through proxy.

The demand for action against the nazi raiders came in a resolution presented by Poland, which also asked for a commission to inquire into the disposition of looted funds. The proposals were sub-mitted to a committee for recom-

Behind a mildly-phrased adment to travel rules effective Monday, it was learned today, is a bad case of irritation on ODT's part against what it considers the too-lavish use of Pullman accommodations by the war, treasury and some other departments.

Specifically, the ODT order is

1. The use of special cars or trains, or extra sections of trains, by the armed services to take groups of contractors, manufacturers, publicists and others on "inspection tours," demonstrations and pep sessions at war

2. The scheduling of extra railroad equipment for meetings like the present international monetary conference, in which Pullmans are hauled to Bretton Woods. NH, brought back empty, then sent up again empty to return the delegates and official staff.

3. The possibly too liberal use of special accommodations by the treasury department for such indirect war activities as carrying stage and screen stars to war loan which is is "stripping for action," evacuating more children and loss of life.
