Army Medical Care of Best, Capt. Ebner Assures Mt. Angel

MT. ANGEL — Capt. Clem J. Ebner assured the Mt. Angel business men, at the semi-monthly meeting of the club at the Mt. Angel hotel Tuesday noon, that the men in the service are receiving the best of medical care.

He said that the men on entering the service receive a series of inoculations that give them protection against the various diseases they are likely to come in contact with on any of the fronts since a man might be transferred from one to the other. When he leaves the states for overseas, he is still protected with excellent medical service.

The service units, he said, have access at all times to station hospitals with the best possible equipment. The combat units have their first aid men and the battalion surgeon right on the field with them. The smaller forces have surgical units near by to which the men are later transferred, and regular field hospitals are established where the larger groups are engaged.

The drugs are the best and always available, among the prized penicillin. He spoke highly of the invaluable aid given the men by the blood plasma and said there must be no break in the flow. Though there is sufficient on hand, much more may be needed. He spoke of malaria and other tropical diseases and said the public should not be unduly alarmed about them as every precaution was being taken.

Capt. Ebner is considered in a position to give accurate information on the subject for he spent three years as an army doctor and for the past months has been on the receiving end as a patient in the army hospitals. He is now spending a 30-day sick leave with his wife and children at his home here.

Capt. Ebner is the son of John W. Ebner, Mt. Angel pioneer who died several years ago. His mother still resides here. Dr. Ebner left his practice in Mt. Angel April 5, 1941, when he was called into the army as a reserve officer and in March 1942 was sent overseas. He has been serving as a field doctor in the South Pacific since then and returned to the states May 20; after some time in the hospital in San Francisco, he was transferred to the Barnes hospital at Portland to which he will return after his leave.

S/Sgt. Bill Burger of the US marines, and his wife were likewise guests at the Business Men's club luncheon. He is here on a short furlough. William Bean stated that he
