World Famed Iris Win Over Postoffice

Silverton Grower Gives Up Job To Devote Full Time to Flowers

SILVERTON—Rhoin Cooley has resigned his position at the Silverton post office after 22 years of continuous service. Mr. Cooley will devote his entire time to the Cooley Iris Gardens which has, during the past 20 years, gained international fame and brought visitors from all over the world to Silverton.

Mr. Cooley, with his father, C. J. Cooley, started iris growing on a small scale some 20 years ago. He has studied iris culture during his spare time in the post office and devoted his vacation to his gardens which he has steadily increased in size. His father has been supervisor of the gardens during the son's employment in the post office.

In a recent issue of "Horticulture", Mr. Cooley's new catalog received flattering editorial comment: "Cooley's Gardens have issued a deluxe catalog that is almost the last word in color printing. It pictures such irises as Daybreak, Peach Glow, Mexico and Oregon Trail, which stand out as if just gathered in the garden—Daylilies, daffodils, tulips and other bulbs also have a place in this unusual catalogue."

Pickers are receiving 30 cents for a six-box carrier of black caps and 20 cents for a carrier of boysenberries.

Pickers are receiving three cents a pound for pie cherries which are just beginning to ripen.

Silverton to Have Bowling Alley

SILVERTON — R. L. Garling, formerly of Portland, has leased the E. W. Garver and Mrs. Pearl Porter building on North Water street and plans to open a recreational center aimed especially for the youth of the town.

Mr. Garling had applied for card table and pool hall licenses but as city ordinance provides for only three card table establishments in town and that number is filled, Mr. Garling decided to have pool, billiards and bowling instead. The bowling alleys will be arranged in the basement of the building. Soft drinks will also be sold, but Mr. Garling says he has no intention of selling beer or any other liquors.

The new owner hopes to have the place ready by August 1.
