Plek Up Paper — Boy Scouts of troop No. 13, sponsored by the First Methodist church, will attempt to beat the record of troop No. 3 in today's paper salvage. Last week, boys of troop 3 collected 13,000 pounds. Persons with 200 pounds or more of paper for salvage should call 3349, the civilian defense circle before noon today for service this afternoon. Paper should be securely bundled and left in porches or curbs by noon. Members of the Salem Junior Chamber of Commerce who Thursday night loaded 12 tons of paper out of salvage depots here declared the work was made considerably greater because much of the paper was not tied properly.

Paul Bloch Dies; Funeral Set Monday

Funeral services will be held at 10:15 o'clock Monday morning from Clough-Barrick Co. chapel for Paul Bloch, 55, Salem merchant for the past 16 years who died early Friday morning following a heart attack.

Born in Strasburg, Alsace-Lorraine, Jan. 15, 1889, he came to the United States in 1906, residing in Kansas until time of his enlistment in the United States army during the first World War. At the close of the war he went to Nebraska, where he was interested in stores in Lincoln and Mitchell until 1928.

With his brother, Marcel Bloch, he that year came to Salem. Here they opened Bloch's Golden Rule store, which they have since operated at 220 North Liberty street.

Although he was seriously injured in an automobile accident in California several years ago, the injuries did not contribute to his death, his physician said here Friday. Bloch worked in the store until closing time Thursday. The heart attack was similar to others he had suffered recently.

A member of Capital post No. 9, American Legion, he formerly held membership in both Elks and Masonic lodges. Survivors, in addition to the brother, Marcel Bloch, here, are two brothers in Europe from whom no word has been received the past three years. Interment is to be in Portland.

Small Business Group Hears Oregon Men

PORTLAND, July 28 — (AP)— Failure by congress to indicate its future tax and labor policies is hurtful to business, the senate committee studying small business was told here today.

The committee, headed by Sen. James E. Murray (D-Mont.) chairman, heard Oregon industrialists and others testify on the postwar outlook and related problems in a one-day hearing.

David B. Simpson, president of the Portland chamber of commerce, told the committee that congress should "indicate clearly and exactly the (tax and labor) program it intends to pursue—a long-term policy should be outlined, not only in fairness to business but in fairness to men who will need jobs."

Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry (R-Nebr.), a member of the committee, agreed, adding "the uncertainty of the tax structure is one of the things that is stopping the venture of private capital."

Michael S. Strauss, assistant secretary of the interior, said the department's program for irrigation, reclamation and power development in the 17 western states would cost $2,952,393,000.

Strauss said the department's plan for Oregon involves 14 projects, costing $59,681,000. It would provide 18,000,000 man hours of labor in construction, bring 266,334 acres of new land under irrigation and provide supplemental water for another 92,770 acres.

Proposed Legislation Would Allow WAVES to Go Abroad

US navy WAVES have won the unqualified endorsement of men of the navy, according to a letter just received by A. C. Friesen, Salem navy recruiter, from Arnold A. Meyer, bkr 1/c, now stationed at an overseas naval base.

News of the formation of Salem's WAVE platoon had reached Meyer several weeks ago, and he commented as follows: "That WAVE deal will be okay and we could use lots of them here. In fact, they have requested a mere 5000 for this base."

Meyer may get his wish, according to a late bulletin from the branch office of naval officer procurement at Portland, which is the final authority on WAVE enlistments in this area. Opportunity for overseas service for WAVES is assured if the current proposed legislation making members of the naval women's reserve eligible for duty abroad, is passed by congress.

Competent observers in Washington, DC, the bulletin said, predict that congressional approval will be given. The proposal already has been approved by the house naval affairs committee, which in itself is a major hurdle surmounted. Further, the plan has the popular approval both of WAVES and of various women's groups in the country.

The navy now, it is revealed, has a real and definite use for WAVES at overseas stations—an estimated 23,000 of them to start—and probably thousands more to follow.

Every provision for the maximum protection, healthful working and living conditions of WAVES who may be selected for service abroad, is made under the congressional measure now awaiting final action.

The WAVES overseas service bill was under scrutiny by the senate naval affairs committee when the solons adjourned for the summer—with every indication it would pass that group as well as the house committee. It is expected to be among the first items of important business before the senate itself as soon as the summer recess ends.

It is specifically provided that navy WAVES shall not be as-

PROBATE COURT
Axelina Lostrom estate; order allowing claim of administratrix for $379.

Peter C. Fresses estate; order appointing T. G. Fresses administrator, naming Zelpha Grover, George H. Bell and Josephine Bell appraisers of estate.

Mrs. Nicholson Gets Estate
The will of James H. Nicholson, leaving to his widow his entire estate with the exception of a nominal bequest of $5 to his son, James H. Nicholson, jr., was admitted to probate in Marion county circuit court Friday and Mrs. Nicholson was named executrix.

Probable value of personal and real property of the estate in Marion county is mentioned at $5000 in the petition for letters testamentary. The will, dated in 1928, pointing out that most of the estate is in money and investments, explains that no special provision is made for the son in the knowledge that Mrs. Nicholson will so provide.

Guy N. Hickok, Fred B. Keeler and C. B. McCullough are appointed appraisers.

Libbey Named State Geology Director
PORTLAND, July 28 — (AP)— Fay W. Libbey, acting director of the state department of geology and mineral industries, was appointed director today to succeed Earl K. Nixon, who resigned May 1.

The action was taken at a meeting of the board of directors here. Libbey, a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has been with the department since 1937.

21 Injured As Bus Skids In Klamath

KLAMATH FALLS, July 28 — (AP)—Twenty-one bus passengers were in hospitals here today after a southbound Portland-San Francisco Greyhound bus skidded on wet pavement and overturned in a suburban front yard.

The bus, rolling into Klamath Falls shortly after midnight last night careened down a two-block incline and crashed against the corner of a nearby house.

Passengers, hurled from their seats by the impact, were released through the emergency door, opened by V. J. Wigglesworth, Eugene, driver. All 37 occupants were taken to hospitals in ambulances and taxicabs, but 16 were released after examination and first-aid treatment.

The injured, none of whom was in critical condition, included: Mrs. Earl Gooch, 128 E. 5th st., Albany; Bernice Graf, Portland; Bruce Hood, Portland; John E. Yarborough, 1787 Lee Ave., Salem; and passengers from Washington, California, Colorado and British Columbia.

Miss Farmer Is Arrested For Vagrancy

ANTIOCH, Calif., July 28 — (AP)— A young woman, identified by police chief Al Leroy as former film actress Frances Farmer, awaited her father here tonight after pleading guilty to a vagrancy charge.

The blue-eyed blonde, wearing blue jeans and a man's work shirt, appeared before justice of the peace Tom Milan, who fined her $10, and then suspended the fine at a brief hearing.

Leroy said E. M. Farmer, Seattle attorney, was enroute from Reno, Nev., to join his daughter. Harry D. Fletcher, Reno police chief, said Farmer reported his daughter missing since July 14.

Farmer had taken his daughter to Reno for treatments after her dismissal from the Western State hospital at Stellacom, Wash., where she had been pronounced "completely cured" of a mental illness.

Leroy quoted Miss Farmer as saying, when offered assistance: "I want to be strong enough to fight myself."

Report Calls CIO Committee Political Army of New Deal

WASHINGTON, July 26 — (AP)— Accompanied by a list of 72 telephone calls, including some from CIO political action committee officials to the White House, a report labeling the PAC as "the political arm of the New Deal administration" was made public today by Rep. Martin Dies (D, Tex.).

It was prepared by Robert E. Stripling, chief investigator for the special house committee on un-American activities—headed by Dies.

In releasing the report, Dies made public a letter he sent to other committee members suggesting that the information be turned over to Attorney General Biddle with the recommendation "that he institute an immediate investigation as the possible violation of the Hatch act." This law forbids political activity by certain federal officeholders.

What action the committee would take, Stripling said, would depend on replies to Dies' letter.

"From examining the personnel of the PAC and considering the constant communication existing between the PAC and certain government officials, I am of the opinion that the CIO political action committee is in reality not so much a labor political committee as it is the political arm of the New Deal administration," Stripling said in the report.

Attached to the document was a record of telephone calls, most of them from the PAC's New York offices to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and high government officials, including Biddle, OWI Chief Elmer Davis, Price Administrator Chester Bowles, and Labor Secretary Frances Perkins. Most of the calls were made between last December and May of this year, all at the expense of the political action committee, Stripling said.

The nature of the calls was not revealed, if it was known by Stripling.

One call to Mrs. Roosevelt, on February 2, lasted eight minutes. It was made by G. B. Baldwin, former director of the farm security administration, and now a PAC official.

Telephone and telegraph records on which the report was based were subpoenaed from the New York Telephone company and the Western Union Telegraph company.

In England's green fields and hedges he saw his home state and now he writes from Normandy that there is considerable rain and that it is not unlike Oregon. Soldiers there are well fed and well cared for, Campbell writes.

Pvt. Don Dill, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dill, 440 South 17th street, has recently been at home on furlough following his graduation from the army air force technical school at Lowry field, Colo. He has been assigned as an aerial photographer to the air service command in San Antonio, Tex. He graduated from University of Oregon in 1943.

Sacramento Puts Curfew On All Youths

SACRAMENTO, Calif., July 28 — (AP)— An emergency ordinance imposing a 10 p. m. curfew on Sacramento youths under 18 years of age was passed by the city council in special session late today and army authorities promptly lifted an order which had made the city off limits for their personnel.

Police chief Alec McAllister said special police squads would patrol the city to enforce the ordinance adopted as the result of a street brawl here Wednesday night between civilians and sailors.

Col. Charles Steele, provost marshal for northern California announced removal of the army ban and declared the navy is considering lifting of a similar order.

The curfew ordinance makes the parents equally responsible with their children for its violations. It will be in effect for the duration of the war.

Steele said the ordinance would be "helpful" in preserving order as military clashes recently have involved the young persons.

Councilman George Watrous, author of the ordinance, declared that young people are "roaming Sacramento streets at will" and expressed the belief this would end "after parents come down and get them out of jail a few times."

Red Spider Appears In Valley Hop Fields

Hop growers in the Willamette valley are reporting that while the hop lice have abated somewhat with the advance of the hot weather, the red spider is making some showing in hop fields. Picking of early hops will begin around August 20, it was believed, and promise of an exceptionally good crop is reported by growers.
