

New Cut Back In Aluminum Is Ordered

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (AP)—A new cut back in aluminum production, involving the closure of two plants and curtailment of a third, tonight followed a war production board announcement that 48 per cent of the entire 1944 armament program was completed at mid year.

The new pairing of aluminum output, which came within a week after announced reductions in submarine, magnesium and aircraft production, was attributed by WPB to "an increasing surplus" of ingot aluminum. Other slashes in aluminum production were made earlier in the year.

The three plants, all government-owned but operated by the Aluminum Company of America (Alcoa) are at Riverbank, Calif., and Burlington, N. J., both going out of production entirely, and that at Los Angeles, trimmed by one-third.

WPB said comparatively few workers would be laid off—an estimated 300 at Burlington, 130 at Los Angeles and 275 at Riverbank. In each case, work opportunities are plentiful nearby, WPB said. At the same time, Alcoa notified WPB it is voluntarily closing one production line at Alcoa, Tenn., but releasing no workers.

The June production report, released by WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson, was slanted two ways: In general, it said, a creditable effort by industry put most of the urgent programs "in schedule or ahead," on the other hand, big increases in military demand for some land-fighting weapons and vehicles are not being met.

Production was one per cent behind May's total and three per cent behind schedule—a comparatively slight lag in view of the Tuesday report by Lt. Gen. Breton Sovereign, commanding the army's service forces, that shortages existed in 320 categories of ASF supplies.

Sailors Reminded Of Home by Native Mother and Babe

ABOARD A COAST GUARD MANNED ASSAULT TRANSPORT AT SAIPAN (AP)—Brought aboard for medical attention during the initial stages of the assault on Saipan, a native-born 20-year-old girl and her 10-day-old son won the hearts of everyone aboard. Both had brawny sailors stumbling over one another to wait on them.

Doctors were in a dilemma as to how to feed the baby. A barrel-chested, tattooed cook suggested a can of milk from his galley. A pharmacist's mate tried his hand at fashioning diapers. Coast guardsmen stalked along on tiptoe in their clumsy work shoes and a marine guard was posted outside the stateroom to keep away the curious, including the ship's mascot, a small black dog named Skipper.

There was an air raid alert shortly after the guests came aboard. The dog barked and the baby cried. The mother "shushed" him. Amidst the din of the clanging battle alarm a lanky bosun's mate turned to a companion and wistfully remarked: "Just like home, ain't it?"

War Correspondent Can't Find Front Line in Guam Battle

By WILLIAM L. WORDEN Associated Press War Correspondent

AGAT TOWN, on Guam, July 22 (Delayed) (AP)—The front line is up here somewhere but it takes a better man than I am to find it.

This town is a pile of rubble. It supposedly fell to our troops late yesterday. I think it did—but I'm not sure.

A colonel told me that all Agat has fallen and the troops are fighting on the other side. He ought to know. But how can he explain those nine marines a half mile ahead on the outskirts, running bent over and weaving like swivel-tipped football halfbacks?

The second fellow I asked, a young corporal, said: "Japs Over Rise."

"Oh, no. Nothing is safe up there. The Japs are just over that rise."

He was talking about a point a mile back of Agat.

A marine lieutenant told me it was all right up to the bridge 100 yards ahead. I'm beginning to doubt him. I went ahead and there wasn't any bridge.

A 37 mm. battery has added to the definiteness. One gun went forward to back up battalion headquarters, which a lieutenant said he knew was 200 yards to the right and ahead. Other guns went off toward the rear because a lieutenant there was sure he'd already come too far east toward the line and might be past it.

Some experts claim the certain way to tell where the front line is located is to keep going until you see men running bent over behind you. Then you're on it.

That is very interesting right now because there's a whole platoon of men running bent over 50 yards behind us. To the right, two men are shooting rapidly down into a pile of rocks with a hole under it. Something is shooting back.

Stop Running. But up ahead those nine marines have stopped running now, are standing straight up and giving each other lights for cigarettes.
