Feed Market Remains Firm On West Coast

Feed markets at Portland and other West Coast terminals continued to display a firm tone during the week ended August 8, according to reports to the War Food Administration. Demand continued good for market offerings of wheat millfeeds and high protein concentrates, although somewhat less aggressive than few months ago. Wheat feeds held at the established ceilings on all items.

High protein feeds also remained unchanged for the period with prices at ceilings on those items for which maximums have been established. The Index number of wholesale feedstuff prices for the country as a whole remained unchanged at 194.0 compared with 187.6 for the corresponding week last season.

Consumption of ground grain for feed increased materially during the past season due to heavier feeding and large number of livestock. Although preliminary estimates placed the production of millfeed for the season ended June 30, at 61/2 per cent above the record of the previous season, the supply has not been equal to demand and feeders have used large quantities of ground grain to supplement wheat offal.

Ground grains are richer in food value but are also more expensive than millfeeds. With larger supplies of some grains this season, prices have dropped below ceiling levels while millfeeds remain at the ceilings.

The average price of ground wheat at the principal distributing markets early in August was $59,35 per ton, or about 40 per cent above the average price of $42.30 per ton for bran at the same markets. Ground wheat made from C.C.C. grain averaged $52.15 per ton, or 23 per cent above bran picking is expected to start in the David Greig patch Monday.

Ground oats at $59.50 per ton is 41 per cent above bran prices, while ground barley at $60.50 per ton is 43 per cent above. Average ton or 18 per cent more than the A medium, 38c; small (pullet), A, 30price of bran.
