Now There's Dog Problem—Lots of Them

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McClung have a dog problem, in fact, a six-dog problem.

They own an acreage in Polk county on which are several buildings but no house, and raised a garden this year.

Recently, arriving on the place, they were met by a definitely unfriendly dog. After a few minutes of growling and barking the dog retreated under the garage and the McClungs found that she had five new-born pups.

For almost two weeks the McClungs have made trips to the farm with food and water for the dog and her family. But they have no way to keep them permanently, because the mother is obviously a country dog and the McClungs are really town people.

The dog, according to her benefactors, looks like a shepherd or collie, is brown, black and white and has good markings. The McClungs say she gives indications of being a good stock dog and now is friendly to those who have befriended her. She and her family seem in good health.

Mr. and Mrs. McClung believe that she was either abandoned by itinerant farm workers or ran away from some nearby camp. They would like to find a good home in the country for the family, hoping that perhaps her original owners will claim them. The McClungs live at 1865 South Church street, telephone 9385, and would welcome a visit from anyone who would like to make a home for the dog family.

Free Training For Tab Jobs

A limited number of key punch and tab operators will be given a free two-weeks training course at the offices of the State Unemployment Compensation commission, it was announced yesterday.

Women who complete the key punch course satisfactorily will be given professional jobs at $105 a month with the commission, while men trained for tab operation also will be taken on temporarily. Permanent appointments later under the merit system will depend upon passing a civil service examination.

Training classes will be given both in the evening and during the day. Those applying should be high school graduates and key punch operators should have some knowledge of typing. Applications should be made next week at 206 old high school building.

Nine Marion County Boys Enter U. S. Navy

A. C. Friesen, recruiter-in-charge of the Salem navy recruiting station, announced this week that the enlistment quota for the navy is still on an "unlimited basis" and will be through-out the month of September. Those 17-agers enlisting this week through the Salem office are: Russell F. Kretz, Jr., Orrie N. Dehut, Charles W. Smith, Robert K. Hamilton, Norman W. Reiling, Dean E. Blakely, all from Salem; Robert O. Mickel, Mt. Angel; Donald L. Marshall, Woodburn, and Edgar G. Wright of Brooks.

Ralph W. Carney, whose reputation as a speaker of rare humor and ability travel before him, will be speaker at Monday noon's meeting of Salem Chamber of Commerce.

Carney to Talk Winning War

Ralph W. Carney, rated by leading businessmen over the United States as the nation's No. 1 salesman, comes to Salem on Monday to address the chamber of commerce on a subject pertaining to the winning of the war.

Since Pearl Harbor, Carney, who is vice president and sales manager of the Coleman Lamp & Stove company, has made more than 350 war addresses to great audiences in this country. He has traveled 150,000 miles a year within the boundaries of the nation and has visited also South America, Mexico, Cuba, the West Indies and Canada.

From chambers of commerce and service clubs over the country have come reports of the enthusiasm which Carney's appearances have met.

Francis W. Smith, manager of the Salem Credit bureau, who heard Carney at a national convention recently, declares him one of the most powerful speakers of this generation.

Arrangements have been made to provide extra tables at the luncheon meeting, Clay Cochran, chamber manager, said Saturday.

McCallum Services Are Held Friday

Safety Confab Set for Salem Next 2 Days

Advance registrations for the first annual Oregon industrial safety conference here Monday and Tuesday indicate that all sections of the state will be represented.

Group section classes will take up accident prevention work under the headings of accident investigation, plant inspections, organization and administration of safety committees and stimulation of interest in safety work.

Roy Carr, Portland, former regional director of the national safety council, will be the featured speaker at the opening session.

Dr. O. R. Chambers, Corvallis, head of the department of psychology at Oregon State college, will address Monday night's session, while Robert M. Evenden will serve as director.

Sectional training classes will be conducted by Charles M. McBee, Charles F. Bollinger, John Carter and Russell Jones, members of the division staff.

Cabinet Split On Wiping Out Nazi Industry

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—(AP)—President Roosevelt's cabinet committee on German peace policy has split wide open, it was learned today, over a plan sponsored by Treasury Secretary Morgenthau for completely destroying Germany as a modern industrial state and converting it into an agricultural country of small farms.

Morgenthau's plan, drawn up after his recent return from European battlefronts and England, is reported to have had the general approval of the president since before his Quebec conference with Prime Minister Churchill. It has failed to win support, however, from Secretary of State Hull and is violently opposed by War Secretary Stimson.

Here's a Prediction We Hope Won't Be Too Long Delayed

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 22—(AP)—A traveler from Berlin today said a typical story going the rounds in the reich capital was that after the war was lost Hitler and Reichsmarschal Hermann Goering were hanging side by side from a gallows, convicted as war criminals. Goering turned to Hitler and said: "Didn't I always tell you, Adolf, the war would be decided in the air."
