A similar course is to be offered in Portland, beginning early in October, it was said.

Both Major Parties Will Collapse Says Socialist

PORTLAND, Sept. 29—(AP)—A prediction that both major parties would collapse came today from a socialist campaign speaker, Brig. Gen. H. C. Holdridge.

"Both parties are tied so closely to the capitalistic system that they will be finished when the system disintegrates. It started breaking up in 1929 but was saved by the war," the retired army officer told interviewers. "I think it will break up much faster after this war because we are on the brink of a great crisis."

Undeliverable Xmas Gifts

Improperly packed, these items intended as Christmas gifts for soldiers and sailors afar, will not be delivered. A candy bar, a package of cigarettes and a good cigar are among the Yale items found loose in the overseas Christmas mail at the San Francisco postoffice. Some were improperly addressed and will be routed to the dead letter office as "undeliverable." Mail Specialist S/E James A. Wensin, who in civilian life was postmaster at Brownville, Neb., is frankly puzzled at the carelessness of generous senders. (International)

National Newspaper Week Brings Praise for U.S. Press

America's newspapers get a chance to pat themselves on the back October 1 to 8, but for the most part they'll let someone else do it if he's so inclined.

Following are a few of the statements issued in connection with National Newspaper week:

President Franklin D. Roosevelt: "The American press has met the test of our greatest national crisis with courage, loyalty and integrity. . . . The free press of America is a living symbol of democracy, and as such it is in the forefront of democracy's battle for survival. It is helping to win that battle. . . . has upheld the hand of the soldier at the front and the worker on the production line. . . . and has enlightened the minds of the people and strengthened their will."

Gov. Thomas E. Deysey: "To the publishers and staffs of America's newspapers, our people are indebted for a great service of enlightenment. As custodians of a public trust they have given America by far the freest, most interesting and most informative press in the world."

Gov. Earl Snell: "Without the agency of the press, many of the respective war activities and drives in Oregon would have been failures. . . . In covering the war news the press has performed a job never equalled in any previous conflict. It has observed a voluntary censorship. . . . Big and sensational events have occurred in Oregon which virtually every newspaper in the state has knowledge of, but because of voluntary censorship not one line has been printed. . . . The people of Oregon gratefully salute the press of our state—one of the finest in the nation."

George S. Turnball (acting dean, school of journalism, Eugene): "A recent survey indicates that, next to a letter from home, the home-town newspaper is the most welcome reading-matter received by the men on the fighting fronts. . . . The good newspaper, fully cognizant of its duties and functions, with its ear to the ground for reader-response, but not necessarily yielding to temporary majority pressures, is building a useful and prosperous present on a past of which it is not ashamed. A bright future, well earned, is beckoning."

Mrs. Andrews' Murder Trial Moves Rapidly

SALINAS, Calif., Sept. 29—(AP)—A Carmel valley society woman testified in the murder trial of Mrs. Frances Andrews today that she once saw the oil heiress embraced by young Jay Lovett in a cocktail lounge, "and she was sort of snuggled up to him."

Mrs. Andrews, member of a wealthy Titusville, Pa., family, is accused of killing the 19-year-old farm boy July 15. The prosecution says she was motivated by jealousy.

The witness, Mrs. Irene Ball, said she had seen Lovett and Mrs. Andrews together several times, but only once when they were not with other people. That time was at a cocktail bar when, she said, Jay had his arms around Mrs. Andrews and "she was sort of snuggled up to him."

The defense said the youth shot himself, using Mrs. Andrews' .25 caliber automatic, while despondent over lack of money and two draft deferments which his mother had obtained for him, and because of farm difficulties.

Luther Lovett, sr., father of Jay, said as a witness today that his son was a cheerful and normal boy.

Mrs. Nancy Linde, wife of Dr. Frederick Linde of San Francisco, testified she had asked Jay to the Linde residence in Carmel valley the night of his death to fix some electric wiring. Came evening she asked the boy to stay to dinner, she said. While they were eating there was a telephone call for Jay and soon thereafter he left the house.

Mrs. Andrews in a statement before the trial said she had phoned Jay at the Linde home to come to her place to care for a sick calf. She said Jay left her home shortly after 11 p.m., and a few minutes later she heard a shot, investigated and discovered the boy, mortally wounded, by a roadside. Testimony will resume Monday morning.

Police Drop Search For Bank Robbers

CANYON CITY, Sept. 29—(AP)—State police and sheriff's officers have dropped the search for bandits who robbed the Prairie City bank Sept. 20, then hid in mountainous country near here. The men may have left the region in an automobile reported stolen from Theodore Nyes, Prairie City, the night of the robbery, Sheriff J. B. Hazelton said.

not necessarily yielding to temporary majority pressures, is building a useful and prosperous present on a past of which it is not ashamed. A bright future, well earned, is beckoning."

Mrs. Morrow Praises Portland USO Work

PORTLAND, Sept. 29—(AP)—I have examined every piece of work done here and am fully convinced that I was not needed in Portland at all," Mrs. Dwight Morrow, national USO board member, told local volunteers today. USO clubs here are almost perfect as informational centers for servicemen, said Mrs. Morrow, mother-in-law of Charles Lindbergh.

last year's snow -today's electricity

Last winter's snowfall is cooking the meals in thousands of local homes, and is running the flame-shooting welding machines in local shipyards.

For—this snow feeds the rivers . . . which tumble down long shafts to whirl the great propellers of our electric generators . . . which grind out lightning for operating the machinery on our farms, and for operating the vast equipment of our factories.

In the past half-century, PGE has built five water-power plants, at a cost of $18,500,000. This has taken "know-how." In fact, PGE made electrical history by developing the first long-distance transmission of electric energy on the North American continent.

Later, PGE engineers made a river plunge 850 feet straight down a cliff through two huge pipes—to get low-cost power. PGE became the first large distributor of Bonneville power. PGE's water-power plants produce 650,000,000 horse-power-hours of electricity annually. PGE has the know-how for meeting the power needs of the war and the postwar.
