

Nazi Internes Help Harvest Apple Crop

SEATTLE, Oct. 12—(P)—Hundreds of German prisoners of war who a comparatively few months ago were fighting against the allies in Africa and Sicily are being used to help save the record breaking Washington apple crop. Disclosure that the prisoners, who had been interned at Fort Lewis, were in the apple district was made tonight in a story in the Post-Intelligencer.

Two camps of the prisoners are located in the north central Washington—one at Mallot, about 10 miles south of Okanogan, and the other at Peshastin, west of Wenatchee.

Jim Wade, Okanogan district orchard owner, was quoted as being optimistic about the help from the prisoners.

"It must be remembered," he was quoted, "that every apple which the Germans pick would otherwise have gone to waste, because we can't hope to get enough help to bring in the whole crop. The prisoners aren't displacing American workers, they are just doing work that otherwise would go undone."

The group ranges from 20 to 34 years of age and many of them still wear the distinctive caps of the German Afrika Korps. Otherwise, save for the white P.W. on their backs, they dress in regular army fatigue clothes.

The prisoners' picking quota has been set at 65 boxes a day—about a third of the production of an expert picker—for which the government is paid $6.50 by the orchardists. The prisoners are paid by the government in script which may be used in their prison canteens.

The apple picking camps are under the authority of Lt. Col. R. S. Dacey, commandant of the prisoner of war camp at Fort Lewis.

Albania Nazis In Bad Spot

ROME, Oct. 12—(P)—More than 600 Germans and large stores of guns and material have been captured in the allied clean-up of the Sarande (Porto Edda) area of Albania the past two days, headquarters announced today.

Albanian partisans, cooperating with British invasion troops, cleared the Nazis out of Gjashdhe, two miles inland from Sarande, after inflicting severe casualties on the enemy.

With the Sarande area firmly in allied hands, there appeared to be little hope of escape for a German garrison isolated on the nearby island of Corfu. British destroyers were ranging the coast, bombarding enemy batteries and making it impossible for the Nazis to attempt a surface evacuation.

Berlin Gets Stockholm After 100 Hour Blank

NEW YORK, Oct. 12—Direct telephone communication between Berlin and Stockholm was re-opened tonight after a break of more than 100 hours, the British broadcasting company said in a broadcast reported by CBS. BBC said the cause of the break still is unexplained.

Shotguns, Rifles Back But Few for Hunters

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(P)—The war production board today authorized the production of 495,000 new shotguns and rifles for farmers, ranchers, police and other law enforcement agencies.

Sportsmen may get a few toward the end of the production program next June 30.

Idaho Publisher Sees War in Europe

LONDON, Oct. 12—(P)—Mrs. Margaret Cobb Ailshie, president and publisher of the Boise, Idaho, Statesman, arrived in London by air today. She will inspect the war effort under auspices of the British ministry of information.

The first apple tree in Oregon was planted in the yard of the Rev. Gustavus Hines in 1844. The Rev. Mr. Hines was a missionary. In 1854 his brother, the Rev. Harvey K. Hines, harvested 12 bushels of apples which he sold to W. P. Burns for $9 a bushel.

Furlough Ride Plan Evolved

DENVER, Oct. 12—(P)—A program designed to assist railroads in handling furlough travel of servicemen and women and to be applied to discharged servicemen at the war's end was approved today by a group of army and navy officers and western railroad officials holding a transportation conference in Denver.

Lt. Cmdr. J. D. O'Dell, commanding officer of the 12th naval district train patrol, said the plan, involving a system of priorities for servicemen, was drawn up to meet demands of the next two-to-four years.

In order of importance, priorities would be set up as follows: 1. Men returning from overseas; 2. Men within the U.S. on emergency leaves or furloughs; 3. Men wanting leaves or furloughs. The plan will be submitted to Pacific coast railroad officials who will work out details and put it into operation, the officer said.

Mulligan Eyes PCL Changes

SEATTLE, Oct. 12—(P)—Bill Mulligan, business manager of the Seattle Rainiers of the Pacific Coast Baseball league, will head south with several definite things he wants to say at the league meeting in Los Angeles October 20.

Mulligan said he would propose that the draft price on Coast league players be raised from $7500 to $15,000; that the season be opened a week earlier next year and end at the same time. Further he will ask that dates be fixed at the meeting so schedule makers have time to draw up a more balanced schedule.

Nazi War Prisoners Hunted in Badlands

HATHAWAY, Mont., Oct. 12—(P)—A sheriff's posse strung into eastern Montana's badland country tonight, once a hide-out for cattle rustlers, searching for two escaped German prisoners of war.

The men, Reinhold Bohle, 20, and Hans Huhmann, 23, escaped yesterday while working as harvesters.

Sheriff's men said they were investigating a possible clue provided by a stolen rowboat, found abandoned on a bank of the Yellowstone river near the badlands.

Kay Francis Doesn't Want Picture Taken

SEATTLE, Oct. 12—(P)—Putting the situation mildly, Kay Francis, topflight Hollywood star, and John (Hack) Miller, blunt-spoken Post-Intelligencer photographer, don't get along so well.

The mutual lack of esteem was discovered this afternoon, just after Miss Francis learned she couldn't fly back to Hollywood to keep a studio appointment. To use her own words, she was "doing crossword puzzles and stewing," in her hotel room when Hack and Lucille Cohen, Post-Intelligencer reporter, arrived for an interview.

Miss Francis was clad for traveling—which she wasn't going to do—in slacks, sweater and hornrimmed glasses. She opened the conference with the thought she guessed she wouldn't have any pictures taken today.

"Well, you don't look very photogenic, just now, do you?" Hack agreed. But it appeared that kind of agreement wasn't what pleases movie stars and when things simmered down enough for Lucille to take notes it developed that Hack was the rudest man Miss Francis had positively ever seen and should get out of her room and stay, which he did.

The motion picture star came to Seattle on business for the naval aid auxiliary and stayed to tour the naval hospital. Then just as she was to leave for the south, her reservation was cancelled because a group of ferry pilots needed the space. She'll fly back, or go on the train when space is available.

And, in the meantime, isn't having any pictures taken. Thanks.

WLB Will Take Fight to FDR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(P) Labor members of the war labor board laid plans today to take directly to President Roosevelt recommendations for an immediate revision of the "little steel" formula to permit upward boosts in wages.

They agreed on this procedure, but R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO United Automobile Workers, said they were trying to work out something on paper before seeking a White House conference.

Information came from a principal White house adviser, however, that the administration would not risk a change in basic wage policy until victory in Europe is clearly in sight and production cutbacks relieve some of the pressures and bidding for manpower.

Civilians Will Get More Dried Fruits

CHICAGO, Oct. 12—(P)—Immediate release to civilian markets of substantial quantities of dried fruits, including raisins and prunes has been authorized by the war food administration, Donald E. Smith, acting regional director of food distribution, announced today.

With holiday trade demands prompting the action, the WFA authorizations to packers will free approximately 133,000 tons of raisins and zante currants, 95,000 tons of prunes, 5,000 tons of peaches, and 2,500 tons of apricots for civilian consumption.

The statement that all proceeds, whether from games with colleges or service teams, would go to army charities answered questions asked during the past few weeks on why such an aggregation had been assembled.

Say It Over Again Dept.

Yesterday near the bottom of the list in percentage of contributions already made toward its goal of $10,000, the governmental division of the War Chest in the totals listed at today's luncheon held in conjunction with the Rotary luncheon, with its 26 percentage gain over the first day had made the greatest percentage gain in yesterday's solicitations. —CJ, Wednesday.

Salem's War Chest workers were well past the two-thirds mark in their goal of $94,000 today with the reported contributions announced at the luncheon held in conjunction with that of the Lion's club members this noon being $72,034.70, an amount of over $4700 in excess of that contributed at the same time in last year's drive. —CJ, Thursday

Woman Found Dead in Tub

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12—(P)—Face down in a partially filled bathtub, the body of Georgette Bauredorf, daughter of George Bauredorf, retired oil executive, was found in her apartment today.

Sheriff's Inspector William Penprase said that while he believed her death was probably an accident there were sufficient unexplained circumstances to warrant a possible murder theory.

Protruding from her mouth, he said, was a half inch of what appeared to be a piece of wash cloth or towel. The cloth was left undisturbed pending a post mortem examination tomorrow.

There were no marks on the body, clad only in the upper portion of pajamas. There were bloodstains on the tub, which Penprase said were apparently caused when she injured her nose or mouth in a fall.

Jefferson Church Plans For Rally Day Sunday

JEFFERSON—Sunday is rally day at the local Evangelical church. The program will begin with the Sunday school at 10 o'clock in charge of Mrs. John Kihls, superintendent. A short program of recitations and songs by the children, and a message by the pastor, Rev. A. W. Oliver will follow.

A basket dinner will be served at the noon hour. A surprise program is planned for the afternoon.

Rural Division Of War Chest Adds $1240

The rural division of the Salem United war chest added $1204 to its reported total Thursday to tally 49 per cent of its quota.

With $928.54 new money, the women's division had reached the 68 per cent mark; automotive and transportation, $450, for 83 per cent; professional, $341, for 85 per cent; governmental, $237, for 63 per cent; industrial, $225, for 80 per cent; mercantile, $170, for 85 per cent; general gifts, $113, for 67 per cent; contractors and builders, $75.50 for 60 per cent.

Orchids from O. D. (Frosty) Olson went to Mrs. Charles McElhinny and Mrs. Paul Hauser, leaders in north and south districts of the city women's division whose workers were first to reach their quotas.

PGE Willing To Buy Co-op

Portland General Electric company will be willing to buy the distribution equipment of Salem Electric cooperative if the voters of Salem refuse to approve the granting of a franchise to the cooperative, a letter directed Thursday to members of the Salem city council and its public utilities committee by the PGE company declares.

The offer is made public now so that sympathy for Salem Electric may not be based upon a contention that it will lose its investment here should the franchise not be granted, the letter declares.

The company would pay the "reasonable value" of the Salem Electric equipment as determined by a disinterested competent appraiser appointed by the city council, and no matter what the outcome of the election the PGE company will be willing to seek a new 20-year franchise from the city, the letter indicates. A recent committee report intimates that PGE holds no franchise, which the company denies.

Edith Walton Dies Thursday

Edith Campbell Walton, 59, native of Salem, died Thursday night at a Salem hospital.

Survivors include one son, Lt. Dudley C. Walton, U.S. navy, South Pacific; sisters, Mrs. Jack Ralston, Lebanon; Mrs. J. A. Murrey of Washington, DC, and Mrs. O. S. Martin, Salem; and one brother, W. T. Campbell of Salem.

Funeral announcements will be made later by the W. T. Rigdon company.

Sinatra Fans Cause Bedlam In New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 12—(P)—Squealing, shoving — yes, even fainting — youngsters, mostly of the bobby socks persuasion, threw a human wall around a Times Square movie palace today and penned in a slight, tanned young singer by the name of Frank Sinatra.

Twenty five thousand of them, by the estimate of a distraught police detail, took advantage of the Columbus day school holiday to stage New York's greatest mob scene since the last time nylon went on sale.

The Paramount theatre's box office window caved in, policemen's uniforms were ripped, the block was closed to pedestrians. When the doors opened more than 4000 of the sweated and zoot-suited teen-agers surged in, at least 1000 of them to stay all day. Many of the others — bananas and milk bottles bulging from their clothing — didn't even get a glimpse of Sinatra, who peered through the stage door at the forest of bare legs and elected to take his meals in the theatre.

"The crowd is swell," he said, "but I'm always afraid of somebody getting hurt."
