EN ROUTE WITH DEWEY. Nov. 2 (AP)—In a hotly-worded reply to President Roosevelt's self-acknowledged membership in the $1000 club, Governor Thomas E. Dewey declared tonight he had learned the society offers something more than "special privilege."

Something, he said, that it "doesn't dare put in writing." The republican presidential nominee, in prepared excerpts for a speech in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., denounced what he called the "very brazenness" of the "most corrupt offer made by any political party" and said:

"Mr. Roosevelt admitted last Tuesday that it was he himself who thought up the idea of the notorious one thousand club. This is the organization which offers in writing 'special privilege' and a voice 'in the formulation of administration policies' together with a chance to visit with the president on Thursday afternoons—all for one thousand dollars."

"I now have another letter, sent out by Mr. Roosevelt's 'special privilege' in government society. It was written on the stationery of the democratic national committee to a select list in Kansas and tells a little more about this $1000 club. It ends up by saying 'membership in this group will be a badge of distinction forever. There are other advantages which I can explain to you when we meet. Instant action is necessary.'"

Without identifying the author of the letter, he went on to say: "Mr. Roosevelt's club offers in writing to give 'special privilege' to a select group of men who can afford a thousand dollars for a campaign contribution. Then it offers something more—something it doesn't dare put in writing."

Nine Measures Up for Vote In Oregon Election Tuesday; Six Would Alter Constitution

(This is the fourth in a series of five articles on the candidates and issues of the November 7 general election.)

By Paul W. Harvey, Jr. Staff Writer, Associated Press

Nine measures, six of them to amend the state constitution, will be before the voters next Tuesday.

Two of them, referred by the legislature to the people, would give benefits to returning servicemen.

One of these so-called "GI-bills" would amend the constitution to allow the state to issue bonds to loan money to servicemen so they can buy farms and homes. This is what was done after the last war. The amounts of loans and interest to be charged are not fixed in the bill.

The other measure would enact a property tax of two-tenths of a mill to help provide college education for veterans. The benefits would be $75 for the first month, $50 for each of the next eight months, and $35 a month for nine months in each of the next three years.

Opponents say they are not needed because the federal GI bill of rights will take care of Oregon's 100,000 veterans. The bills do not allow benefits to a veteran who gets similar aid from the federal law.

California wine manufacturers are waging a battle against the Burke Bill which would limit the sale of wines containing more than 14 per cent alcohol by volume to the state liquor stores. These wines now may be sold in privately-owned stores.

After battling in several legislatures, Sen. W. E. Burke, Sherwood, finally got his bill through the 1943 legislature, but the wine interests filed a referendum against it.

Burke, who is supported by many doctors, claims the bill would reduce the sale of these wines and thus reduce the number of "winos," or persons who get drunk and insane from wine. The wine manufacturers claim the bill is a "prohibition measure."

The constitutional amendment to relieve stockholders of state banks from double liability in case of bank failure is on the ballot again, having been defeated several times. There never has been spoken opposition to the bill, but the people just wouldn't go for it. Sponsors of the bill say the provision no longer is needed, because deposits now are insured by the federal government against failure. They also claim state banks are handicapped in competing with national banks, which don't have double liability any more.

Another constitutional amendment would allow the legislature to restore voting privileges to ex-convicts who have completed their prison sentences. There has been extremely little opposition to this. It was defeated two years ago. The state parole board appealed for passage, asserting convicts should be given the voting franchise after they have paid in full their debts to society.

Voters in any county would be allowed to establish a county manager form of government under a proposed constitutional amendment. This bill merely is a permissive one, leaving the final decision to the voters of any county.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 2 (AP)—Thomas Midgley, who invented ethyl gasoline and did some of the first synthetic rubber research, died at his home near here today, apparently strangled in his sleep by a harness he had devised to help himself in and out of bed.

Midgley, who was 55 years old, had been an invalid for four years after suffering an attack of infantile paralysis.

Warren, Ill., to Vote An Absentee Ballot

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Nov. 2 (AP)—Gov. Earl Warren was returned to his Sacramento home from Sutter hospital today after a checkup and continued treatment for an infected kidney but will not be able to go to Oakland to cast his ballot in next Tuesday's election. He will vote by absentee ballot.

Mott Sees High Priority Ahead For Job Here

The Willamette basin flood control project has been given the highest priority by army engineers for postwar work, Congressman James W. Mott told the Salem Lions club at its Thursday luncheon meeting.

That $100,000,000 expenditure will not only protect rich valley lands from flood waters, but will almost double transportation possibilities of rivers in the area and will provide considerable electric power, he said.

Oregon will share in tax loss reimbursement for the 8,000,000 acres of land purchased by the federal government for army uses during this war and for the 3,000,000 bought for naval development, Mott predicted.

The naval establishment in Oregon which he foresaw when he introduced the first Tongue Point bill in 1935, is now permanent and places Oregon on a par with other coastal states, Mott said, explaining that that establishment reaches from Astoria to North Bend and into eastern Oregon.

"The 78th congress has gone a long way toward restoring representative government in the United States," Mott declared.

Mott outlined the pattern of legislation since 1935 when, he said, "the executive commenced to assume the powers of legislation," told how the tide had turned two years ago with members of the majority party working to legislate against unauthorized executive orders.

Oregon is due to receive 20-30 million of dollars under the federal roads appropriation for postwar construction which may yet be voted, Mott said, declaring that the bill, once passed, would return to both house and senate shortly after congress reconvenes this winter in the form approved by authorities in the highway building field. Another several million dollars would come to this state from forest road funds, he said.

Goebbels Still Telling Germans Victory Ahead

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (AP)—Nazi Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels declared today that the German people would be victorious in the war, which he said would see a triumph of the "virtues of national socialism" over the various "bourgeois class - ruled states."

As broadcast by the German agency DNB and recorded by the Associated Press, Goebbels asserted in his weekly newspaper, Das Reich: "Nothing has been won and nothing lost in this war. The last battle alone will decide."

ON the HOME FRONT

By ISABEL CHILDS

Turning her talents to the task at hand:

Remember Frankie Schmitz? She was a supervisor here last year (and, I think, for a while before that, but I knew her just for a few months) with the state department of vocational education. And how, you ask, could someone trained in retail selling apply her skills to war work today, with more need for goods than customers?

Well, for months I have been wondering if maybe the Puget Sound Navy yard at Bremerton wasn't wasting its paper and postage sending its weekly SALUTE to us. Read it as I would I could find no Salem—or Marion county—Polk, Yamhill, Linn or Clackamas county names.

But the new edition fell open at the picture of a smiling woman beneath a plaid tam-o-shanter and it was Mrs. Schmitz.

She has just completed a series of three lectures at the feminine personnel training course at the yard.

When she was here, Mrs. Schmitz was in charge of setting up the training program in Washington and Oregon for distributive education (selling over the counter to you) and has done the same job in Washington state and is now superintendent of distributive education in Seattle public schools.

Oh, you think it would be easy to dash from Seattle to Bremerton for three lectures?

But Frankie Schmitz learned more than how to smile so she would never forget her when she was studying retail selling. Before she delivered the three lectures, or even outlined them, she worked a full month as a helper shipfitter, her identity unknown to the shop. She prepared a report offering "invaluable suggestions on the training and supervision of women," says the Salute and from her findings, the yard command's decisions and her own knowledge of how to make oneself laugh built the series of lectures.

British Take Rail Center

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, Nov. 2 (AP)—British troops spearheading the new allied drive in northern Burma to clear a land route to China have captured the town of Mawla, on the Myitkyna-Mandalay railway 65 miles southwest of Myitkyna, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's command announced today.

The town was taken by troops of the British 36th division under Maj. Gen. F. W. Festing, with few casualties, the daily communiqué stated. The bulletin stressed that Mawla was just 18 miles north of the railway junction of Naba, from which a spur line leads eastward to Kitha on the Irrawaddy river, backbone of the Burmese transportation network.

Canada Over Cabinet Crisis

OTTAWA, Nov. 2 (AP)—A cabinet crisis over the Canadian government's compromise conscription policy, resulting in the resignation of Defense Minister J. L. Ralston, apparently was weathered today by appointment of Lt. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, widely regarded as the country's most popular soldier, as his successor.

The crisis capped a controversy which has persisted since the beginning of the war over the question of drafting men for overseas duty.

Under the policy of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, devised as a concession to Quebec and its historic tradition of opposing fighting in overseas wars, draftees may not be sent outside the western hemisphere unless they volunteer to go.

Italy Bread Rations Will Be Increased

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (AP)—President Roosevelt has asked military authorities to increase the bread ration for all areas of liberated Italy to 300 grams a day, the war department announced tonight.

Last summer allied officials ordered the bread ration increased to 300 grams, but because of the supply situation this could not be accomplished in all the liberated territory.
