Sale of the poultry farm operated on East D street for a number of years by Mr. and Mrs. Theodore G. Nelson to Mr. and Mrs. Hugo S. Rabe, recent arrivals from North Dakota, was revealed here Saturday.

The Rabes have purchased the Nelson place with all stock and equipment and plan to continue the poultry breeding and hatching business established by the Nelsons. During the past 10 years the Nelson family has developed what have become popularly known as Nelson's Multiple Strain Rhode Island Reds by crossing birds from several of the most outstanding Rhode Island Red strains in the United States and by keeping individual performance records of all hens. Rabe, who has had previous experience in poultry farming in the middle west, said Saturday he planned to carry on where the Nelsons left off.

The newcomers have two children, James, who is attending Englewood school, and Marlene, attending Parrish junior high school. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson have bought a residence on North 17th street. Nelson is temporarily managing the Producer - Consumer cooperative market at 13th and State streets.

While the Nelsons lived on D street, their three sons, Manning, Harold and Merlin attended Salem schools, graduated from Salem high school and went on to advanced studies. Manning is a graduate of Willamette university, with a major in social science; Harold completed a mechanical engineering course at Oregon State college and Merlin completed pre-law work in political science at University of Oregon. All three are in the armed services of the United States. Manning is a medical supply officer at the army airbase hospital, Memphis, Tenn.; Harold is in the Southwest Pacific and Merlin is in France.

Gilmore Placed On Probation

R. W. Gilmore was placed on one year's probation Saturday by Judge George R. Duncan after the defendant made restitution to the state of $654.82, the sum which involved him in a charge of larceny of public money, and a charge to which he entered a plea of guilty.

A further condition of the order requires Gilmore to pay to the state the sum of $244 in installments of $44 monthly to cover the expense of Sheriff A. C. Burk in returning Gilmore to Marion county from Chicago following an extradition proceeding.

Gilmore's arrest resulted from a complaint by the secretary of state charging Gilmore with illegally securing gasoline tax refunds. Gilmore indicated he wished to return to Chicago where he reportedly holds a position with the Kaiser Shipbuilding company. District Attorney Miller B. Hayden recommended to the court that leniency be shown Gilmore, stating that there "are extenuating circumstances in this case on the part of the defendant."

Army Dog Reunited With Young Salem Master

City fireman Paul L. Phillips did not have to tell his son, eight-year-old Jack, to smile when he snapped the above picture of the lad and his dog, Nip, in the backyard of their residence at 798 North 14th street a few hours after Nip had been released from the crate on which dog and master perch. Jack, who kept a service flag in the window of his room while Nip was serving with the army, was happy but apparently no happier than the dog when she was given an honorable discharge this fall and sent home after 20 months in the service. The discharge paper this week joins the service flag and the army dog enlistment certificate as a decoration on the wall of Jack's room.

Honorable Discharge Allows Nip to Leave Sentry Duty

By Isabel Childs
City Editor, The Statesman

Before the grey crate marked "US Army Dob 5575" was opened, the living cargo was thumping her tail, and the small blond boy was trying excitedly to peer into the dark traveling kennel.

Twenty months of separation between playmates is a long time when one is eight and the other four years old. Jack Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Phillips, 798 North 14th street, has difficulty remembering a time when the German police dog Nip was not his best friend.

So he sent her off to war in February, 1943, only after giving the matter serious consideration. He put a service flag in the window of his room, asked to have the dog's certificate of enlistment framed so it could be hung at the head of his bed and then consented to care for and love a cocker spaniel—with the stipulation that the spaniel was to be only a temporary substitute for the larger dog that had been his since he was four and she a soft-furred puppy.

Reunion Recently at Depot
Late in October at the Southern Pacific station the reunion referred to in the first paragraph above took place.

The boy's parents, who had consented to Nip's return (warned that she had been trained as a war dog to be aggressive) only after considerable thought and investigation, were careful to follow instructions which accompanied her honorable discharge.

So Nip was released quietly at the white frame house where she had spent her puppyhood. The veteran forgot her dignity, tripped around Jack and Mr. and Mrs. Phillips. She was ready to play. But an order to sit quieted her. She continues to obey army orders but remembers the boys and girls with whom her youth was spent and is at once playmate and watchdog. For in the army she stood sentry duty.
Back on Civilian Diet
Now that she isn't walking so many miles a day, she doesn't get the 3/4 pound raw horse meat (chopped with bone), 1/2 pound cooked horse meat, 1/2 pound cornmeal and 1/4 pound rolled oatmeal cooked in meat broth to make a thick mush, and the 3/4 pound of commercial dog meal recommended by the army for a 60-pound dog.

But she manages to eat. If she didn't the Phillipses are convinced her proud young master would take her his own meals.

Machine Shop Class Opens Monday Night

A new class in machine shop training is scheduled to begin Monday night, November 6, at 7:30 o'clock in machine shops at the vocational school grounds, 14th and D streets. Persons now engaged in machine shop or related work should attend the first session if interested in taking such a course in the near future, representatives of the school declared Saturday night.

Forrest D. Smith, machinist instructor in the daily school program, who has had more than 25 years of experience in mills, production plants, welding fabrication and various types of machine maintenance, is to be the teacher.

The school has recently added a planer, radial drill press and 20-inch shaper to its equipment. There is no charge for the course.

and the school provides equipment, tools and supplies. The class probably will meet three times a week to assist as many men as possible, it was said last night. However, attendance of each person will have to be determined at the first meeting to meet individual requirements.

Another new class to be organized in the near future under instruction of Leslie Starr, will train men for knife-grinding work in the mills, vocational school officials said Saturday.

Shortage of Rain Hits Beet Tonnage

VALE, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Slightly lower tonnage of sugar beets—despite an increase in plantings—was blamed today by growers on scarcity of rainfall.

Growers said about 25 carloads were being delivered daily, with 451 cars shipped out last month. The total is not expected to reach last year's harvest.

Willkie Men Urge Votes for Dewey

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Wendell Willkie's supporters were urged to vote for Thomas E. Dewey today in a statement from Willkie's 1944 campaign executive committee. Dewey's "proven leadership in domestic affairs will more nearly achieve our objectives than the policies of the present outworn and disunited administration," said Ralph Calk, Portland, Willkie's former campaign manager, and other committee members. The statement did not attempt to speak "for our late and beloved friend, Wendell Willkie," the committee emphasized.
