

Election Parties Slated

Popular on tonight's social calendar are election parties arranged by several Salem couples. Congressman and Mrs. James W. Mott have invited a group of friends to their country place at Zena. Coming from out of town will be Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin E. Whisenand of Bend and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Glatt of Woodburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Cooley will be hosts for an election party at their home on North Summer street. After listening to the returns a late supper will be served by the hosts.

Making up the party will be Mr. and Mrs. William McGilchrist, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Needham, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Seelars, Mrs. Flora Thomas, Mrs. James H. Nicholson, Mrs. U. Scott Page and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McCulloch.

A number of Salem folk have been invited to an election "open house" at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Crider in Dallas. Over thirty guests will be motoring to Dallas for the affair, which is always an event of election year.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Butler will be hosts for a buffet dinner at their country home tonight. During the evening the guests will listen to the election returns.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Parker have invited a group of their neighborhood friends to a dessert supper tonight at their home on Rose street. They will listen to the returns during the evening.

Jean Swift Fetes A Visitor

Miss Lois Frink of McMinnville was the weekend guest of Miss Jean Swift at the home of her parents, Rev. and Mrs. George Swift.

Friday night Miss Swift entertained informally at dinner at the Swift home on Chemekele street in compliment to Miss Frink. Later the guests attended the Salem-Astoria football game and high school dance.

Covers were placed for the Misses Lois Frink, Margie Cooley, Helen Shepard, Marjorie Lundahl, Jean Swift, Jack Stein, Gordon Hewitt, Frank McGee, Arthur Englebart and Leonard Fry.

Luncheon at Myer's Home

Mrs. Frank G. Myers presided at a smartly arranged luncheon Monday afternoon at her home on North Winter street in compliment to members of her club. Bouquets of autumn flowers provided the decorative note about the rooms. Contract bridge was in play during the afternoon.

Special guests were Mrs. W. H. Darby, Mrs. M. P. Adams, Mrs. Sam J. Butler and Mrs. Jesse Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. David H. Cameron were in Portland for the weekend as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Greve, who entertained in their honor Saturday night.

Molded cranberry salad is always a holiday favorite. This year serve it with a mustard mayonnaise dressing and hear the murmers of praise. About one tablespoon of prepared mustard to one half cup mayonnaise goes fit.

Service Women

What they can do
What they're doing about it
Cpl. Eva M. Koessler of the women's army corps is at home on an extended furlough from her duties at Columbus army air field, Columbus, Miss. Her original 23-day furlough was extended to 33 days because of illness in the family. Corporal Koessler is visiting her mother, Mrs. Rose Koessler of Woodburn. Miss Koessler, a former Salem secretary, is now serving as a military court reporter for the courts and boards section at Columbus air field, where pilots receive their advanced flight training.

Prior to her enlistment in the WAC, Miss Koessler worked for the public utilities commission and for the motor permit department.

While visiting the army recruiting station in the Salem postoffice building, Corporal Koessler told Lt. Di Re, "I never dreamed that I would get to be a real, honest-to-goodness court reporter. My army training, which started with administrative specialist's school at Denton, Tex., has been invaluable to me. It will also mean a great deal to me after the war."

Luncheon At Fitts' Home

Mrs. Ira J. Fitts was hostess for a lovely luncheon Monday afternoon at her home on South Commercial street in compliment to Mrs. Wendell Webb, who moved to Salem this summer.

Guests were seated at a large table centered with a bouquet of rose chrysanthemums flanked by blue candles. Other arrangements of autumn flowers were used about the rooms. Contract bridge was in play during the afternoon.

Miss Sally McLellan of Corvallis spent the weekend in the capital at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan McLellan.

Today's Menu

Beef appears as the meat for today's dinner. Artichokes are on the markets now and will make their debut as a salad tonight.

- French artichokes
- Mayonnaise
- Beef bundles
- Buttered cabbage
- Chocolate bread pudding

BEEF BUNDLES

- 2 pounds beef steak (chuck, sirloin, shoulder, or round)
- 2 cups cooked whole green beans
- 1 medium onion
- Salt, pepper
- 1/4 cup flour
- 4 tablespoons fat
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/2 cup water

Cut steak into six servings. Place green beans and a sliver of onion on each serving of meat. Season. Roll and fasten with toothpicks. Roll each bundle in flour. Melt fat in skillet and brown the meat bundles. Combine Worcestershire sauce and water and add to meat. Cover skillet and cook 1 1/2 hours, or until the beef is tender. Serve 6.

New Fall Faces

Dissatisfied Folk Will Find General Tuneup Will Help the Appearance

By Maxine Buren

Something ought to be done about faces. Of course we don't recommend that everyone have a complete facial overhaul, but everyone can give himself a little tuneup job almost anytime now.

A change of expression is what most everyone needs, and that's going to take a little time and thought and will power.

We have been looking at faces lately—collective faces—studying the reason why they are that way, and have decided that the place to start is inside.

We watched faces at a banquet, where mouths were going open, standing open, or on the way closed. Certainly a trying place to look for attractive features.

We watched faces at a meeting and found that the men chew angrily on a cigar, but the women have no recourse but to sit and screw up their faces and take whatever comes.

We watched people in church, and noticed that faces are improved by the repose that comes in a place like that. We were almost sure we could tell the people who were listening to the music and the sermon, from those who were sorry about how they'd asked Cousin Emma for dinner or how mad because the laundryman hadn't gotten back with the clean white shirts.

So the gentleman who said that beauty is only skin deep was entirely wrong, an attractive face depends more upon expression than features, and has to come from inside.

Take Johnny's face for instance, Johnny who has no inhibitions to influence his facial expressions. The little boy who looks mean and very very unattractive when he's mad inside, but who can change to the face of an angel in a fraction of a second—almost because he gets cheerful inside.

Repose is a very handy thing to cultivate. It rests one and adds attractiveness to the expression. Some of the most attractive faces are far from the prettiest, but they are the kind that people like to see and many persons would give money to own. We do not recommend a perpetual smile, but merely that a pleasant expression be cultivated and kind thoughts predominate. And oh, by the way, remind me to get myself a new fall face!

Dorothy Mickelson, Portland homemaker, demonstrates how to peel or skin onions without shedding a single tear, by holding them under water. Miss Mickelson is just one of the thousands of Oregon consumers now helping the state WFA food industry advisory committee with the distribution of the surplus northwest onion crop.
