"THE OREGONIAN" tells America about OREGON'S RECREATIONAL ATTRACTIONS

Just as we in Oregon plan to continue our record production in lumber, fishing, agriculture, and other basic industries, so are we set to make the most of another hundred million dollar industry—the tourist business! Oregon's great natural resources—her scenic and recreational attractions—are waiting for travel-hungry Americans. Beautiful Crater Lake, famous Timberline lodge on the slopes of 11,245 ft. Mt. Hood, the gorge of the mighty Columbia river, the rugged Oregon coastline skirted by 400 miles of fine highway—are just a few of the scenic lures of Oregon. With ample resort and travel facilities, with thousands of miles of wonderful highways, out-of-state visitors and Oregonians will share the varied recreational opportunities. The 1,300,000 people in the Oregon market will share the income from this basic industry—another reason why this is one of America's prime markets.

ONE NEWSPAPER ALWAYS LEADS—IN OREGON IT'S THE OREGONIAN

The Oregonian

The Great Newspaper of the West
PORTLAND, OREGON
REPRESENTED NATIONALLY BY PAUL BLOCK & ASSOCIATES

This advertisement currently appearing in Time, Business Week, and other national magazines, is one of a series sponsored by THE OREGONIAN. In publishing this page advertisement THE OREGONIAN has a two-fold purpose in mind:

1. To bring to the attention of business and industrial leaders throughout the nation, the abundance of natural resources of the Oregon Country, and how these will attract the postwar tourist; and...
2. To remind our own people that this is not only a good place to work—a great industrial area—but a good place to live, to get the greatest enjoyment out of life.

It is more than fitting that THE OREGONIAN—since 1850 a leader in the thought and action in the Northwest—should take the lead in telling America about the people and the opportunities of this area.
