

Portland Rabbi To Talk Here

Rabbi Irving I. Hausman of Portland will represent the Jewish Chautauqua society at Wilamette university, January 9 when he will give an auditorium address on the subject "The Meaning of Good Will" at Waller hall.

Rabbi Hausman, an outstanding speaker who has represented the Jewish Chautauqua society on numerous occasions, is now the spiritual leader of Temple Beth Israel in Portland.

Hausman graduated from Western Reserve university at Cleveland, Ohio, in 1935 and he was ordained a rabbi at the Hebrew Union college in Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1940.

Donations for Norway Ready To Be Packed

Clothing and shoes, donated in response to the appeal from the local Sons of Norway lodge to help the people of Norway, will be sorted and packed for shipment next week at the home of Mrs. Louis Rudie. Thor lodge undertook the job of sponsoring in Salem and vicinity the nationwide effort to help the people of Norway with clothing and shoes.

The drive for clothing and shoes will be completed this week. Those who have volunteered to knit and help send infants' garments will be contacted as soon as the material for that work arrives.

Theodore G. Nelson, Marion county representative of the national organization for American Relief for Norway, said Saturday "The response to the appeal for clothing in the Salem area has very greatly exceeded our most optimistic expectations. Many good men's and women's suits and overcoats, even women's fur coats, were donated. We want all who have made donations of their own and who have otherwise interested themselves in this drive to know that their contributions and help is very greatly appreciated."

The night in 1934 Lillian Hellman's play, "The Children's Hour" opened on Broadway, the author's bank account was down to $55.

Appeal Made For Women To Join WAC

"The grave and acute situation on the western front caused the war department to issue a nationwide appeal for more women to join the WAC and announce continuation of recruiting for 1945 with emphasis on obtaining trainees for hospital jobs," Lt. Edith DiRe, enlistment officer at the Salem postoffice stated today. The lieutenant went on to explain that this news will be of particular interest to those students preparing for the medical field in hope that their training can be utilized by the army medical department as soon as such interested persons reach the enlistment age.

Lieutenant DiRe stated that four years of high school will be required for all applicants seeking work with the army medical department. Enlistment with the army service forces, and the army air forces still requires two years of high school she pointed out. It was made clear that several factors were responsible for resumed emphasis on WAC recruiting; the most important of these being the acute manpower shortages, increased job quotas, and high casualty figures.

"The shortage of hospital technicians has assumed a situation of such gravity," Colonel Lawton of the ninth service command said last week in a release bulletin, "that special emphasis would be placed on recruiting for the army medical department, and qualified women will be given thorough but speedy condensed specialized training before being assigned to army hospitals, where they will participate in the army cast program for the rehabilitation of our battle-wounded men."

This urgent appeal is made to all women between the ages of 20 and 49 with high school education or the equivalent; for specialized training, to report in for a check up on their qualifications. The speed-up system of interviews and physical examinations will be put into effect immediately in order that qualified applicants may leave for training centers with a minimum of delay.

"Not the army hospitals alone, but all branches of the army need women and there is a need for every kind of skill and for those willing to learn," Lieutenant DiRe said.

A number of Salem Jaycees were unable to obtain tickets for the dinner, but will eat at home and then go over to the hall to hear Gates' speech.

Close to 20 members of the Portland Jaycee chapter will come to Salem for the occasion. Representatives from Jaycee chapters in Eugene, Bend and Tillamook will also attend the dinner and program. NEW YORK, Jan. 6. (AP)—The stock market today finished one of its liveliest weeks in several years on a slightly sour profit cashing note.
