

Miss Wilma Matthes a Bride

Coming as a surprise to the couple's many friends is announcement of the marriage of Miss Wilma Matthes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Matthes, and Mrs. Harvie A. McCaffree, radio technician, first class, United States navy, son of Mrs. Ethel McCaffree of Newberg, which took place Tuesday night at the First Evangelical church.

Although the engagement of the couple has been known for some time, plans for the wedding were not made until Monday when the groom arrived by plane from New York.

Rev. J. Kenneth Wishart performed the ceremony at 9 o'clock before members of the immediate family and a few friends. The church was lighted by candlelight with tapers arranged in each window and at the altar. Bouquets of white carnations, chrysanthemums and ivy decorated the altar and chancel rail.

For her wedding the bride chose a white gown fashioned with a full skirt of bridal illusion and a satin bodice. The skirt was enhanced with white satin applique. The sleeves were long with points over each wrist and the neckline was sweetheart shape.

Her fingertip length veil of illusion was arranged in a coronet. During the ceremony she wore the shorter veil over her face. She carried a round bouquet of white carnations and paper white narcissus encircled with smilax.

Today's Garden

By LILLIE MADSEN
Mrs. D. F. G. Salem, asks how late in the spring roses may be planted.

Ans.: February is considered one of the best rose-planting months of the year by many gardeners. Some plant them successfully in March and even April. One Portland commercial rose garden has the bushes growing in pots and advertises that they may be planted any month of the year. My personal opinion is that late November, December and February are the only REAL rose-planting months. After all, one wants them to start blooming in late April and the roots should be established sometime before blooming starts.

D. D. D. writes that he saw in a recent national farm magazine that "Baldwin apples were found on an old farm in New England. The author writes in the same tone of voice as my wife speaks when she has found a bit of sandwich glass. I thought Baldwin apples were rather common. I have three trees myself."

Ans.: I believe I saw the same article and wondered at it at the time. There are a number of Baldwin apple trees here in the Willamette valley orchards, but most of them are growing in the older orchards. In the opinion of many, the Baldwin is still one of the finest flavored winter apples.

Rail Tickets Black Market Curb Sought

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Legislation to curb what was called a widespread "black market" in railroad tickets was urged upon the senate judiciary committee today by Attorney General Francis Biddle.

Chairman McCarran (D-NeV) said the committee will inquire into this and other black markets when hearings start on the bill Biddle promised to send up to the capitol.

"He cited instances where he said bell hops have paid railroad ticket agents high prices for tickets which they later sold to hotel guests for even higher prices," McCarran told reporters.

"The legislation would provide for criminal prosecution of the ticket agent, the bell hop and possibly the ultimate purchaser."

When the hearings on the bill start, the chairman added, the committee will investigate also a rumor that there have been black market sales of railroad Pullman reservations.

While the committee voted to continue its inquiry into the liquor situation if the senate will provide $15,000 for expenses.
