Eugene Man To Head New Forest Group

The forestry products foundation, a non-profit corporation incorporated here this week, Friday held its organization meeting in Salem and elected Herbert J. Cox of Eugene as president.

Other officers include Dr. Paul M. Dunn, Corvallis, vice-president, and B. T. McBain, Miwaukie, secretary-treasurer.

At another meeting the foundation will outline a campaign to provide funds for the building of a forest products laboratory at Oregon State college. McBain said he expected that the industry at large, timber owners, loggers and lumbermen would finance the project.

"We need proper research so that waste in the industry can be stopped," McBain declared.

Foundation members said that not to exceed 35 per cent of the original tree cut in the woods actually becomes lumber and that more than half of the logs supplied to the pulp mills for chemical pulp now go to waste.

"It is the purpose of the new organization to check all waste and at the same time help scientists at the college to carry on the work that is started," McBain averred.

Buildings required will be built on the Oregon State college campus and the work thereafter will be carried on by the forest products laboratory there.

Cabinet Fight Vies With War For Spotlight

Most people are more interested in who becomes secretary of commerce than in the fact the 38,000 American soldiers lost their lives last week. This was the opinion expressed by F. G. Leserer, president of the Salem Credit Association at the Friday luncheon meeting.

He offered this opinion as his excuse for taking a straw ballot on how the 40 persons present felt about the cabinet controversy. The vote was 35 to 5 against approval of Henry Wallace for the post.

Leserer, at his first meeting as president, re-established a former custom of each person present identifying himself by name and organization. This week the president, who is local manager of Montgomery Ward, identified himself as "F. G. Leserer, the war department."

Pictures of fishing on the Deschutes river from the state fish commission were shown after the brief business meeting.

Derby Estate Left in Trust

Property of the late Frank N. Derby, who prior to his death last Monday had been a large owner of downtown real estate, had been vested in a trust, and so will not be handled through probate proceedings, it was disclosed Friday.

The United States National bank is trustee, and the beneficiaries under the trust are the widow and children and grandchildren of the deceased.

Business property owned included the Senator hotel block, the brick building at Front and State streets occupied by Salem Seed & Implement Co., and the warehouse property on Trade street occupied by Pacific Fruit & Produce Co.

Faculty Given Added Voice In OSC Plan

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Jan. 25—Looking forward to the growth of Oregon State college and to a broader representation from faculty members in determining the institution's educational policies, President A. L. Strand has announced a new plan of faculty organization that will give all members of the staff a greater voice in the welfare of the college.

The new plan is the outgrowth of nearly a year's study by a faculty committee of 18 members appointed by President Strand and headed by Dr. C. V. Langton, director of the division of physical education. Under the reorganization, the present administrative council of 21 members will be retained but in addition a new faculty council will be formed consisting of members of the administrative council and 29 other faculty members elected directly by the various schools and divisions in proportion to the size of their staffs.

The function of the administrative council will be administrative and that of the faculty council legislative. Educational policies of long-term, general interest affecting the college as a whole will be considered by the faculty council, which will have complete freedom in discussing any matter concerning the welfare of the institution.

The plan calls for a faculty council executive committee which after sifting proposed legislation may report to the council with or without recommendation.

Sullivan Gets Position With State Guard

The adjutant general's office here Friday was advised that of the appointment of Frederick C. Sullivan, Salem, as federal inspector and instructor of the Oregon state guard with additional duties as liaison officer with the northern defense sector and northern security district.

Sullivan will be stationed in the adjutant general's office here. Early in the war Captain Sullivan was stationed with the infantry at Camp Roberts, Calif., and later was transferred to tank destroyers, Camp Hood, Texas, for 18 months, as instructor in rifle marksmanship, battle conditioning and tactical training of troops. The past year he was stationed at Camp Adair.

Captain Sullivan is a graduate of the engineers school of camouflage at Fort Belvoir, Va. Prior to the war he owned and operated a decorating business in Salem.

School Raises $13.01 in Drive

Sixty-one pupils of Hazel Green school have raised $13.01 in the March of Dimes campaign for the national foundation for infantile paralysis. The money is in the form of dimes, held together with scotch tape with each child's name affixed to his or her own contribution.

Mrs. Violet Dick and Mrs. Marie Steffer, teachers at Hazel Green school, have sponsored the project. The money makes "eight feet of dimes" toward the mile. It was brought to Salem last night by Mrs. Dick and a few of her pupils. Unable to find anyone at the local campaign headquarters to receive the money, it was brought to The Statesman office to be left in the custody of Al Lightner and Maxine Bureau, staff members who are on the county "march of dimes" committee.

Mountain Sunk To Form Lake Theory True

Indian legend which indicates Crater Lake lies in a sunken mountain in the Cascade range and not in a blowout of volcanic origin has been authenticated by recent scientific reports of Carnegie Institute of Technology, Rev. E. C. Alford told members of the Salem Board of Realtors at their Monday meeting Friday in Marion hotel.

A student of the lake, Reverend Alford has written a technical paper on the subject. The lake was discovered in 1853 by gold prospectors, but lost to the world from that time until 1874 when a company of soldiers from Klamath felled it on July 4 and named it Union peak.

Geologists figure there are 17 cubic miles of material missing from the mountain. This gap in the content of the mountain creates the crater, which is 4000 feet from the rim to the bottom of the water. The water at one place in the lake is 1996 feet deep.

The speaker called the Crater lake surroundings the finest piece of real estate in the world. Without feeding streams, the lake maintains its natural stage at all times. In the lake are two small islands. One of these, Wizard, rises 800 feet above the water and its crater is filled with perpetual snow, the speaker said.
