

War, Peace Talked by Scientist

That "cultural lag" between discoveries and their application to everyday living has been destroyed temporarily by war, but there are reasons why many scientific developments have been slow, Dr. Robert Tschudy declared as he addressed Salem branch, American Association of University Women, Saturday afternoon at the Salem Woman's clubhouse.

Speaking on "Biological Problems of War and Peace," he used as an illustration the insecticide DDT. Lives of many fighting men have been saved by its power, but "we still do not know" how satisfactory it would be in peacetime, he explained. By destroying not just insect pests but all other insects, the poison may be killing a very important party of the soil's value; it may prove too toxic to serve as a practical spray for garden vegetation, the speaker pointed out.

Dr. Tschudy urged the organization to consider among the great postwar problems the needs of persons who will be thrown out of work, particularly young persons and women. Such persons should be urged to prepare for fields of service where they are especially fitted to serve, he declared, citing the continuing need for trained nurses and doctors.

Red, white and blue, the color theme was carried out in still life arrangements of glass and pottery articles, scarlet berries and candles at focal points around the room. Baskets of greenery decked the platform.

A trio of graduated candles and berries arranged in a Bellique teapot formed the interesting centerpiece on the long tea table where Mrs. George Roseman and Miss Eleanor Stephens poured. Mrs. Kenneth Manning was responsible for the decorations. Miss Ola Clark was chairman of the tea arrangements. She was assisted by Miss Beryl Holt, Miss Mabel Robertson, Miss Laura Hale, Miss June Philpot, Miss Carolyn Wilson, Miss Isabel Goodenough, Miss Irene Hollenbeck, Miss Mary Eyre and Miss Ada Ross.

SILVERTON—E. J. Church, Salem, will be speaker at the annual Masonic father and son banquet to be held at Silverton February 21. Church has announced his subject to be "Your Son's Vocation."

W. Clark Bachman is general chairman of arrangements and reports that all Masons, whether they are members of the local lodge or not are invited to attend the banquet, provided they purchase tickets in advance.

The Eastern Star is serving the dinner and Mrs. Lloyd Larsen, worthy matron, has asked Mrs. W. Clark Bachman and Mrs. J. E. Stoy to serve as co-chairmen.

Leslie ninth Girl Reserves spent the afternoon bowling Thursday. A committee has been appointed to plan the business meeting which is scheduled at school next week.

Seen and Heard....

By Jerome English

A ROUND OF PARTIES the past week for the legislative contingent with many Salem friends attending... First on Sunday was the at home which Judge and Mrs. James T. Brand had for Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Cutlip of Coos Bay... Several hundred called to greet the guests... Mrs. Cutlip was charming in a spring green suit and fetching hat of green, with cluster of rose and purple flowers in front... pinned to the shoulder was a bunch of violets... Mrs. Cutlip enjoyed meeting those she knew while here two years ago as representative in the house... Mrs. Brand wore a black silk crepe gown and a lovely white orchid with purple throat... Beautiful spring flowers about the rooms... on the mantle pink roses and blue iris... Centering the serving table a crystal compote of pink roses, heather and snapdragons...

Amidst the crowd noted Rep. and Mrs. Ralph Moore and their daughter-in-law, Mary Jane, who wore black with a red yoke. Mrs. Moore, sr. was smartly dressed in black with a white bodice enhanced with jewels... On Valentine's Day Mary Jane was all smiles wearing a corsage of white baby orchids sent from her army husband, now in New Guinea... Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huggins, Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander, all former Coos Bay residents... Coming in with the Robert Farrells were Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Hoyt of Portland... the latter striking in black with a luscious sailor of feathers in flame red... New spring hats we spied... Mrs. Ralph H. Cooley wearing a brown straw with feathers in front... her two piece suit of grey wool with horizontal stripes of white... Mrs. Roswell Beach's pink lace straw sailor... Mrs. Homer H. Smith's straw sailor of raspberry red... Mrs. Arthur A. Rogers wearing a small black hat with varied colored bows on the crown... and we especially liked Mrs. Eugene E. Marsh's black felt "bloomer girl" hat worn with her black tulle with white stripe and silver fox furs... The party continued on for several hours as the Brands served a buffet supper to the Cutlips and those who assisted during the at home.

LUNCHING at the Marion on Tuesday when two senators' wives, Mrs. Merle Chessman and Mrs. William Walsh, entertained for fifty friends... Valentine decorations with large red lace hearts on the walls... Mrs. Walsh attractive in a chartreuse suit with matching straw hat... and Mrs. Chessman wearing a navy blue print silk jacket frock with tiny clusters of pink flowers and a navy blue hat... Others we noted... Mrs. Albert Wickman of Seattle, smartly attired in a brown suit with cerule blouse and pert shiny brown straw sailor with wide bow in front... Mrs. George Rosman wearing a becoming black hat with feathers in front in a tangerine shade... Mrs. Asabel Bush's chic hat of pebble sand and veil with green, purple and fuchsia dots... Mrs. Burt Snyder's black hat trimmed in rose and pink flowers in front... Mrs. John Hall wore a turquoise blue felt hat with her grey suit...

LARGE PARTY of the week was on Wednesday when Rep. W. W. Chadwick, Loyal Warner and his chamber of commerce board of directors entertained legislators, their wives, secretaries, the press and lobbyists at a buffet dinner at the Marion hotel... Mrs. Chadwick and daughter, Mrs. Cedric Reaney, receiving the guests with the other directors' wives... A lovely buffet table with acacia and camellias forming the centerpieces... The chef did himself proud with large platters of salmon... the plate edged in mashed potato, which was colored red, white and blue... At the other end of the table a huge plate of celery, olives and radishes, one of the largest we've ever seen... Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Kern and Mr. and Mrs. Allan Bynon down from Portland... We must mention Mrs. Ray Edwards again, (Peg Conley)... she was wearing a large red heart on a red chain, which she has worn every Valentine Day since her mother gave it to her when a girl... very striking on her black silk dress with sequin trim... Catching our eye were the many orchids, gardenias, camellias and other corsages worn by the feminine guests... gifts from their husbands, sweethearts and bosses... Noted for her clever hats is Mrs. C. J. Humphrey of Portland, who comes each session... at the dinner she wore a striking black and white striped chapeau... We're always writing about women, but for once we'd like to mention the men... Our hosts were all good-looking in their dark suits and camellia boutonnieres.

RED CROSS WANT AD... The words "help wanted" apply to most everything these days... but the latest need is for workers to participate in the coming Red Cross war fund drive, according to Mrs. Douglas McKay and Mrs. James T. Brand, chairmen of the women's division... They have spent many hours on the telephone seeking volunteers, in fact they are urging you to volunteer, if only for a few hours... The Spinsters, for the first time this year, are taking charge of a district, with Sybil Spears, president, in charge... House-to-house solicitation starts Thursday, March 1.

AT THE LAUNCHING of "Paducah Victory" were Sergeant and Mrs. James H. Nicholson, jr., Corporal Douglas Drager and Mrs. James Nicholson, sr... A marine and his wife from Kentucky sponsored the ship which was launched last week at Oregon Shipbuilding corporation... Later the Salem folk attended the luncheon and were photographed with the launching party.
