Meet the "workhorse" of the railroads

Not glamorous, not a "show-off"—the unpretentious box car. You never see it bristling with Sherman tanks, 105 mm howitzers, 10-ton trucks and jeeps, like the flat cars and gondolas. It's just a modest workhorse—doing one of the biggest war transportation jobs of all.

When you see a mile-long string of box cars, just think of this. These plain, unassuming cars are carrying the war to Japan. Inside are airplane engines, parts to outfit ships, medical supplies for our men in the Pacific, millions of tons of foodstuffs and ammunition and small arms.

For nearly all the war cargo that goes to sea, goes by rail first. And this huge transportation job is just as important as fast production in our war factories.

The humble box car best symbolizes the fact that transportation is not the job of one railroad. It's the job of all railroads working closely together—pooling their resources and exchanging equipment and facilities.

That is why you see on Southern Pacific rails the box cars of nearly every railroad in the country—New York
