Cash Wheat Prices Steady In Portland

PORTLAND, May 14 -(AP)- Cash wheat prices remained comparatively steady here last week although ordinary classes ranged from unchanged to one-half cent lower compared with a week ago, the war food administration reported today. Trading was light, demand from buyers lacking and offerings by mills for 11 per cent or more protein small. Inquiry for other wheat classes lagged markedly. Current bids are below loan values and growers offered little wheat. Portland had 210 cars of 775 at Puget Sound and Columbia on earlier purchases. Midwestern inquiry for northwestern wheat was very light and the box car shortage prevented shipment of Montana grain. California buyers took only a few lots of milling types.
