

Salem Craftsmen Commended For Aid to Crippled Children; Machine Tool Class to Reopen

Braces for crippled children will be bettered and expedited as the result of the work of the future craftsmen club at the Salem high school.

Presented to the University of Oregon medical school this week was a machine designed to cut braces of all shapes from hardened aluminum.

This machine will make braces for the crippled children of Doernbecher hospital. In making it Salem vocational students learned to use a milling machine, radial drill press, machine lathe, surface grinder, planer, metal shaper and bench tools.

The presentation (the original announcement of which was carried in an Associated Press story yesterday from Portland) was by William Saponic, club president, to Dean Baird, dean of the medical school who expressed his appreciation and declared the gift constituted one of the first ever offered by public schools for such a purpose.

The machine was made in the Salem high school shop of which Forrest D. Smith is instructor. Taking the device to Portland were E. T. Barnett, high school supervisor of vocational education; Smith, and William Saponic, Paul Harris, Alan Singleton, Roy Vibbert and Daron Dirks. Other boys who aided in its production included Carl Goldsby, Marvin Saul, Bob Charlton and Bill DeLap.

The machine was designed by Smith and his class, which also has designed and produced drill presses and parts for all kinds of machinery. The project was evolved by Smith last year after he had visited the hospital in Portland and noticed a shortage of equipment. Materials were paid for by the boys.

Barnett, who previously announced his resignation as vocational education supervisor, is entering the machine tool designing business and is being succeeded by Carl Lindstrom, previously with the Boeing Aircraft company and more recently auto mechanics instructor at the high school.

Night classes in machine tools, which closed May 30, with withdrawal of war production training funds, will reopen July 16, on a tuition basis, for Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights, under a self-financing plan projected by the students themselves.

Operator of Academy Here To Stand Trial

Cecil F. Sharp, who was known in Salem as James Bell when he was operating the Wagon Wheel Riding Academy in 1938-39, will be brought back here to stand trial on the charge of larceny by the bailee in connection with the theft of a $500 oriental Sarouk rug from the late Dr. G. E. Prime, owner of the Wagon Wheel property.

District Attorney Miller B. Hayden received word Thursday afternoon from Warden Clinton T. Duffy, San Quentin prison, California, in which he said Sharp was to go on parole July 7. He reminded the Marion official that the prison files held a detainer from Oregon and wanted to know whether Sharp was still wanted in Marion county. Hayden in his answer asked the warden to query Sharp as to whether he would waive extradition. If a waiver is refused, Hayden said, we will start proceedings to extradite and told the warden in his reply that a Marion county officer would be at the prison gates July 7 to take Sharp into custody.

Sharp, or Bell, as he operated when coming to Salem, and a woman he called his wife entered into a lease with Dr. Prime and established a riding academy at the Wagon Wheel in August, 1938. In July, 1939, a bad check was passed at the Safeway store here for $100. About the same time Bell and his "wife" disappeared. Inspection of the premises at the Wagon Wheel disclosed a fine oriental rug, property of Dr. Prime, was missing.

In November of 1939 authorities almost nabbed the pair in Tallahassee, Fla. They were next heard of in Los Angeles where they were convicted of a felony charge, Sharp, as he was then identified, going to San Quentin, and the woman, then as identified as Ruth Alberta Lee, going to the women's correction institution at Tehachapi.

Later the mother of the girl made restitution for the bad check in Salem and because of the girl's health got her paroled. Hayden said he believes she can be located and said there was an understanding when the Marion detainer against her was waived that she would testify against Sharp.

Lamb Surplus Again Useless

PORTLAND, Ore., June 14.—(AP)—Unless OPA restrictions are withdrawn immediately, the 250,000 lambs now ready for market in the northwest will again be wasted, a livestock exchange officer warned today.

R. L. Clark, secretary of the Portland Livestock Exchange, said announcement that army acceptance of all top grades would relieve the situation is "mathematically absurd" since no provision is made for "federally inspected packers to increase the kill."

"They will be wasted just as they have the last two years," Clark asserted.

Edmund Clark Dies; Funeral Set Saturday

Funeral services for Edmund L. Clark, 59, 245 East Superior st., who died Thursday afternoon at a Salem hospital, will be held Saturday at 1:30 from the W. T. Rigdon chapel. His death followed an illness of several weeks.

Clark, a native of Lincoln, Neb., was a merchant in Lebanon from 1910 to 1927. Since that time he has been associated with the Mishawaka Rubber company covering Oregon and Washington, with his residence in Lebanon most of the time. For the last six years, prior to September, 1944, he travelled out of Seattle, but at that time the family returned to the Willamette valley and have since made their home in Salem.

He was a member of the First Methodist church and the Masonic lodge. Survivors include the widow; three sons, Reed Clark of Walla Walla; Hunt Clark of Salem, and James Clark, chief storekeeper in the U.S. navy and formerly of Portland; one daughter, Lt. Flora Jean Clark, with the army nurse corps in France and five grandchildren.

Concluding services will be held in Beicrest Memorial park. Dr. J. C. Harrison will officiate.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 8 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging headaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up night, swelling, puffiness under the eye, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or steady passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there's something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Filio, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Filio.

Salem Girl to Be Queen of St. Paul Rodeo

ST. PAUL, June 14.—Five western Oregon cowgirls will begin their reign over the 10th annual St. Paul rodeo Friday night when Queen-elect Rose Mae Franke, Salem, receives her crown - - a cowgirl's hat - - from Secretary of State Robert S. Farrell, jr.

The coronation program is planned for 9 a. m. at the St. Paul city hall. Music will be provided by the Salem Top Hatters.

Queen-elect Rose Mae I, who was named queen during a selection dance May 29, is a member of the Salem Saddle club and a graduate of Salem schools. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Franke, Route 2, Salem.

Serving with her on the royal wild west court for the rodeo July 1-2-3-4 are Princesses Carol Chambers, McMinnville; Betty Lee Wirth, Salem; Dorothy Rolston, Tillamook; and Mary Lou Manegre, St. Paul.

The queen-elect and her court recently took part in the Monmouth rodeo, and later this month will be guests during the Phil Sheridan day celebration at Sheridan.

A complete program of roping, riding and bulldogging has been planned for the four-day St. Paul rodeo this year. President Ray Manegre of the rodeo association announces that afternoon shows are listed for 2 p. m. on July 1 and 4, and evening performances will be at 8 p. m. July 2 and 3.
