PAGE FOUR

"No Favor Sways Us; No Fear Shall Awe" From First Statesman, March 28, 1851

THE STATESMAN PUBLISHING COMPANY

CHARLES A. SPRAGUE, Editor and Publisher

Member of the Associated Press

The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for publication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this newspaper.

Full-time USO

End to Subsidies?

News that the USO is to be reopened on a full-time basis with Bob Boardman again in charge is welcomed by all who are concerned with soldier welfare. Camp Adair is again filling up with troops. The hospital there is taking care of many navy men who are sick or wounded. The Corvallis navy air base has many men who like to get 40 miles off base to see the sights. This means that there is ample "traffic" to keep the USO functioning.

As a replacement depot Camp Adair will receive and hold army ground forces for a time and then ship them out when the call comes for men to go overseas. The turnover there is expected to be rapid. Men may be there for just a few weeks or for a longer period, but not for the intense training session which was true when divisions were formed and trained there.

These men are expected to have more liberty time, which means more of them will be free to come to Salem. The experience last week when the men in khaki and GI boots swarmed into town and swamped all facilities shows we must do a better job of preparation.

Open full time, the USO will be a clubhouse for visiting service men. It will be a center where those willing to help provide entertainment for soldiers may report. Salem citizens should respond as they did before and give these boys a cordial reception. After all, they are going out on a long voyage, in our behalf. They deserve the best of everything before they shove off.

Army of Wives

English girls are not without a degree of charm, for thousands of them have succeeded in capturing American GIs for husbands. It is reported that 10,000 English and Welsh wives of American soldiers are now registered and waiting for travel accomodations to the United States; another 20,000 brides have made application; and the Red Cross estimates there are 20,000 more who haven't made application yet. That would total to 50,000 persons, no small army in itself.

To this number should be added the Australian wives, and later probably some French wives and maybe some German wives as the non-fraternization rule is relaxed. The total may easily run into six figures. out this is tough competition. Absence may a permanent resource of the ocean off the make the heart grow fonder, but many times it makes the heart wander.

The AP had a story early in the week about how the department of agriculture hopes to ease the government out of the subsidy business on foods. The plan is to let the government slide out of paying subsidies to producers of meat, butter, milk, flour, soybean products, etc., etc. and let the consumer pay the bill. Ceiling prices would be permitted to increase and wages might go up to permit workers to absorb the increase in cost of living.

The theory is that with the war tapering off by 1946 the fear of inflation will not be so great and prospect of overproduction will serve as a deflationary influence. At any rate Secretary Anderson is said to favor getting the government out of granting subsidies, which now cost a billion and a half.

A year ago many farm organizations fought for just this: no subsidies and a freer market. Now that they have enjoyed subsidies they may not like being cuffed away from the crib, especially when they may foresee sagging prices from shrinking of wartime demands.

The story may have been a trial balloon to get public-and farmer-reaction. We hope the plan is carried out, though with reasonable protection to the farmers against too sharp deflation.

Inquisitive Ickes

Secretary Ickes, so we are informed, will seek to have his status clarified by President Truman. Unless there is a clear invitation for him to remain as head of the department of the interior, he will ask that the resignation previously filed be accepted. Ickes may learn the old truth that "curiosity killed a cat."

The general impression is that Ickes will get about the same response that Morgenthau did when he got irked over rumors and put his case up to the chief. In other words Ickes will be next to leave the cabinet.

When this happens it will take the last of the 1932 Roosevelt cabinet appointees, the great hatchet-men of the new deal. With Ickes out the Washington scene will have something missing, though in many quarters not missed!

Tuna are again running northern waters and the fishing season off the coast is resuming for the season. Tuna has displaced salmon as the big fish crop down at Astoria. Once regarded To American girls who are sitting the war as a stray migration, tuna are now considered mouth of the Columbia.

Distributed by King Features Syndicate by arrangement with The Washington Star

By W. G. Rogers

SIX OF THEM, by Alfred' Neumann, translated by Anatol Murad (Mac-millan; $2.75).

The expatriate German writer, now in this country, has taken for the subject of his latest novel six persons in Munich who are foes of Hitler and versity students and a professor and his wife have been arrested. They are Sophia, her brother Hans, Christopher whom she loves, Alexander and Karl and Dora von Hennings.

They are grilled by secret po-

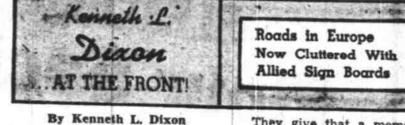

As the story opens, four uni-

The Literary

Guidepost

nazism.

It Fizzled Out

PARIS (delayed) -(AP)- The Allied armies, which always go in for countless signs wherever they travel, now are taking advantage of the lack of combat activities really to turn their sign-painters loose.

Kenneth Dixon

Driving from Biamen, Germany, to Paris we found highways through Germany, Hol-local language.

The British go in for plenty of "Warning: bad road surface."

comes a huge billboard saying flatly, "Warning: death trap road hands of you with: "You have suddenly you are confronted highway casualties in this sector during the last week.

with signs listing the number of Lulled by an absence of signs been warned."

lice and taken before the dreadland, Belgium ed people's court for trial. The action lasts only a day or and France dotted with so. But in the course of the state's inquisition, their lives signs in a manner reminiscent unfold against the tragic backof the billboard ground of the Germany which they love so passionately and business back which has been betrayed so vilehome We see first the circumstan ly. ces of the police roundup . . . They concern occupation regulations, conduct the six were involved in writfor soldier traffic, instructions ing and distributing a manifesto and other subjects. Since teractually issued by Munich sturitories involved often are jointdent two years ago. Next we see ly operated, the signs are somethe homes from which they times American and sometimes came and the paths they fol-British-and quite often give the lowed to reach hostility to Hittranslation into whatever is the

They give that a moment to sink in before unleashing a printed lecture series on speeding, which usually begins gently with something like this: "Speeding is dangerous" or "No overtaking" (British for passing).

Then they warm up to their work. "Drive slowly-save lives, save equipment," is the next reminder. If there is road work ahead or a dangerous intersection they slap a bold black, "Danger: dead slow"-which is offense." A third sign then de- $200 scholarship award. In 1944 livers the blunt order: "Watch

Brownell Says GOP Will Win Control of Congress in '46, Nation in '48 Election

DENVER, July 19.-(P)-National Chairman Herbert Brownell, ir., Iold approximately 400 Colorado republican leaders and members today the party would win control of congress in 1946 and "we shall have two years in which to audit the new deal" to prepare for a pational triumph in 1948. The New Yorker attacked what he described as the administration's method of political publicity through the hiring of many publicists at "the people's expense."

More Poultry Sought for

The republican national committee, he said, is preparing for the 1946 elections through establishment of press and radio in-

For example, he explained, the committee has engaged Hugh Wilson, former ambassador to Ger-

"Our senators and congressmen have no facilities for research

Of the next off-year campaign, control of every committee. Then we shall have two years in which to audit the new deal and open the way for a return of the republican party nationally" to direction of the country's affairs.

The democratic party is made up of three groups, Brownell said.

He described them as the "southern bloc, which maintains itself in power by denying the fran-

Need More Publicity

that work."

Armed Forces

WASHINGTON, July 19-(AP)-Agricultural department officials conferred today with members of formation departments and rethe national poultry advisory com- search staffs to keep republicans mittee on government plans for in congress informed of new deobtaining greater quantities of velopments in foreign and domestic affairs. poultry meat for the armed serv-

The proposal considered, but not acted upon, would require producers and processors in the mid- many, to direct its foreign affairs west to set aside about 50 per office. cent of the production for the military services.

Under a similar plan now in effect in major producing areas and publicity, said Brownell, "We of the east and southeast, 70 per are building a year-round organicent of the poultry marketings zation of competent people to do goes to the armed forces.

Recommendations of the poultry officials will be laid before the speaker said, "we have only to Secretary of Agriculture Ander- elect 28 more representatives and son, probably Saturday or Mon- we shall have control of the house, day.

Silverton 4-H Winner Given Gold Watch

Richard Krenz, Silverton, winner of the 1944 4-H club regional chise to a very large segment of award and now a member of the the population, black and white; armed forces, was presented with the big city machines, which bea gold watch Thursday noon at lieve in politics for the benefit of the Salem Lions club, a gift from private property, and the extreme Mrs. Wahlgreen, Chicago head of left-wing group, which has built chain drug store system. The the legislative program for the award was made by Gov. Earl new deal." Snell at the request of H. C. Sey- Luncheon Guest mour, state director of 4-H clubs. Brownell will be guest at a Specifically the award was luncheon tomorrow in Pueblo, made for Krenz' leadership in a Colo., after which he will go to home beautification project in Salt Lake City for a meeting with which youth from the entire na- republican chairman and vice Limey language for: "Better this tion participated. Krenz, Seymour chairman of 11 western states. His pointed out, has been in 4-H work trip also will take him to Los

After a few of these they get for eight years and taken part in Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, terse on the subject. A first 50 projects. In 1943 he entered a Ore., Seattle and Spokane, Wash., sign says, "Speeding," a second handicraft project and was one of Boise, Ida., and Cheyenne, Wyo, continues, "is a court martial two boys in the nation to win a.

There's nothing we can do about it, though, so we will just have to greet these numerous "in-laws" and welcome them as new Americans. One can understand their eagerness to come to this country in view of its fame as a land of plenty and of freedom.

Go to Halifax is an old expletive which has kept the name of the Nova Scotia port alive. Its other claim to attention seems to arise over its explosions. A tremendous explosion occurred there in the other war when a munitions ship in the harbor blew up. Now a jetty fire has set off other explosions of munitions. As a great shipping depot for Canada, Halifax has handled enormous quantities of high explosives, so it sits literally on a powder keg. Fortunately the present blasts caused few casualties.

At least OPA's failure cannot be attributed to lack of advice.

Editorial Comment

ARGENTINA

Something is rotten in Argentina-and it smells powerfully like the Farrell-Peron government. Despite all the mouthings of this regime in behalf of democratic methods, Fascist practices remain. That government not only signed the Act of Chapultepec but is pledging an early signature to the United Nations charter, and still American newspaper men are being hounded in Buenos Aires like common criminals.

One week Vice President Juan Peron announces that censorship has been lifted. The next week it is back again, unannounced, with a squeeze tighter than ever. Individual liberties are so far curtailed that the once great dailies of La Prensa and La Nacion are completely hamstrung and ineffectual.

The people in control-Farrell, Peron or the army behind them-have discovered that they cannot forever hold American correspondents incommunicado. These reporters have succeeded in telling the world outside exactly what is going on in Argentina. Sometimes their stories have circumvented censorship. At other times they have been passed by the censors only to have the government attempt reprisals for something that was written. The old method of threatening correspondentsholding them responsible when they wrote something detrimental to the government-has given way to a reign of terrorism against them.

Arnaldo Cortesi of the New York Times and Joe Newman of the New York Herald Tribune have been threatened with bodily injury. They, and others like Ernie Hill of the Chicago Daily News and Virginia Prewett of the Chicago Sun, have been followed and hounded by the local "gestapo." Needless to say these reporters have not, and will not be intimidated.

Of course, Peron and his henchmen deny any part in the campaign against these newspaper men. But whether they are directly responsible or not they certainly know what is going on. If any harm befalls these American citizens they should be held

There are many places in this hemisphere and around the world where American reporters are not permitted to function. But Argentina is the only spot where our correspondents are getting kicked around in this manner. It is time our own government made vigorous representations to Argentina against this treatment.-Editor and Pub-

Silem filled up with soldiers over the weekend, who came from reactivated Camp Adair. Judging by the number of strolling couples we would say that Salem girls are certainly fast workers.

The glee with which naval airmen spotted and pounced on holed-up Japanese warships hiding out at the Yokosuka base just inside Tokyo Bay can be imagined. It gave them their first opportunity to repay Pearl Harbor debts in kind.

It seems wholly unlikely, however, that any major element of what is left of Japan's surface fleet was moored under camouflage at Yokosuka. The whereabouts of such enemy battleships, plane carriers and heavy cruisers as are still afloat is yet to be revealed. By every rule of logic and military axiom they must be elsewhere, probably in the Island sea. The fact that sea-mining operations at the wide twin southern entrances to the inland sea have been the frequent mission of B-29 bombers sufficiently indicates the view of the American high command as to where Japanese big surface craft are sweating it out.

Tokyo Bay under present circumstances is no more than a trap for any part of Japanese surface naval power holed up there.

Such Japanese ships as are lurking under cover in the inland sea could presumably effect suicide GRIN AND BEAR IT sorties through either of the two passages leading into the Pacific when the moment for that comes. Assuming that the initial phase of invasion of Japan should come on bomb-blasted Kyushu, the southernmost island where there is indication Japan's military rulers expect it, any enemy fleet remnants in the inland sea will continue to represent a real threat to successful landings until they are disposed of.

Closer-up advance air bases than have yet been acquired would seem to be an urgent allied necessity in preparation for a full scale invasion. The closer those bases can be established for tactical air support purposes to the selected main invasion sites the lower will be ground force casualties.

Aside from the Amani islands, half way between Okinawa and Kyushu, there are no island steppingstones in the south that could materially advance the site of tactical air force takeoffs and refueling centers. Southeastern Kyushu, however, does contain a considerable stretch of low-lying shoreline and potential landing beaches not covered by island outposts as are the Kyushu shores on the west facing the east China sea.

Those eastern beaches are of at least sufficient extent for landing operations to secure advance air bases in southern Kyushu. Close up air support for main landing forces aiming at Japan's industrial and military and political nerve centers on Honshu would be posible from southern Kyushu. That probably is just what Tokyo war leaders expect, a two-phase invasion beginning on Kyushu and expanding later to Honshu. If so it is obvious that the shattered fleet strength they have been reserving so carefully for many months for sea as well as air attacks against invasion convoys must be in the inland sea.

Immediate invasion moves against Honshu are highly improbable due to weather and redeploynevertheless, that limited purpose amphibious strikes into Kyushu might not come at any time.

fectiveness, the verdict is pronounced. traffic signals-often obscure to Yanks even yet-and when they These are six out of six milthink a road is dangerous they lion, Karl boasts. As the story make no attempt to keep it a develops, it is plain that there are more at least than six. They secret. carry on the old Germany which will read the first sign of a won the respect and admiration series. Following it will be sevof other peoples. That there survived even under Hitler persons of their intense devotion to liberty and freedom has been proved in the last decade by nazi newspaper reports of trials that may be repeated a few and convictions. But if there had times. been six million, with the invincible determination of this band, it seems likely that they are properly impressed, so next ler's third reich. And finally, depicted with great dramatic ef-

might have stopped der fuehrer by their own efforts. surface." And a few hundred The extent of opposition to Hitler in fact does not of course yards farther, they wash their affect the value of the novel itself, which abounds in exciting situations and mounts to a gripping climax. But the story of for the next few miles you may such bold rebellion is not new. shift into high gear again, when and in the specific case of Christopher, I get a faint whiff of the melodramatic. I'd rate it all a B plus.

ment dircumstances. Tokyo can feel no assurance "-And with fearless courage we must root out these subversive was the town's hero today after nevertheless, that limited purpose amphibious elements who seek to undermine our jobs-Oh-Abers-our Constitutional form of govern

he was the regional winner in a your speed

Those are only a very few of a $100 war bond. the literally hundreds of traffic Unable to attend the national signals alone, not to mention the meeting of the winners in Chicago even greater number of varied because of being in the service he directional signs. But most of was awarded war bonds to the ex-this stuff is standard operating tent of the cost of the trip. procedure in any army. It is on-

SHHI

(Continued from page 1)

present issue arose. Is it not better to look at national defense from more of a fresh viewpoint, studying our needs for adequate preparedness in the One fact will stand out that until the world commotion sublight of probable conditions?

ly when they begin to discuss soldiers' garb and conduct that a new crop of signs begins to show.

One roadside series tells passing doughboys: "You wear the 'uniform of a liberator." Farther along: "Wear it proudly." And then more suggestively: "Wear it properly.'

Then, in case he did not get what they are driving at, the eral more merely repeating that warning, then the wording will last sign threatens: "Improper change to, "Warning: surface uniform is a court martial ofslippery when wet." And then fense." Signs at city limits remind entering soldiers that "Summary court martial is now in session," and details a list of Apparently there remains a doubt in their minds that you offenses for which they might be punished.

> "Curfew starts . . ." says another sign, giving the hour, and another warns grimly: "Get out of town before it, is too late." More personal are the signs referring to venereal disease. Even in Allied towns, signs say, "There is venereal disease here, too." Just in case the GL might have thought that was strictly an Axis ailment.

Taxpayers will be glad to know that one sign which recurs throughout Allied areas says: "Warning: Drivers must not carry civilians in war department vehicles" - indicating the army has no intention of having all that equipment and gas frittered away in fanciful pursuits.

The main difference between British and American wording in signs comes in such as these, which endeavor to keep traffic moving: The British sign says, "If you must stop please get off the road." The American, "Keep moving or get off the road."

Portland Eyes Elevated Roadways to Bridges

PORTLAND, July 19 -(A)- A preliminary study of plans for two elevated roadways connecting Hawthorne and Morrison street bridges with southeast Portland was authorized today by the city

Mayor Riley said the project, if concluded, would realize "the prayers of 80 per cent of the population of Portland for the past 40 years." Commissioner W. A. Bowes was instructed to apply for a $40,000 FWA loan to help finance the plans.

Robert W. Taylor, 15, of Murphy,

0 1 food production project, securing Salem Soldier

Loses Claim

WASHINGTON, July 19-(AP) President Truman has vetoed a bill proposing to pay Philip Kleinman, Salem, Ore., $450 to cover medical and hospital treatment.

Kleinman, who served eight enlistments in the army, claimed damages for injuries suffered in a service baseball game. The president was advised by the war department and the veterans administration that the injury did not appear to have been incurred in, or aggravated by, military activities.

The president said he was informed that the legislation, if approved, would give a special benefit to one veteran not granted others and would establish a precedent for "thousands of similar claims" for non-service-connected disabilities.

STEVENS'

sides we will need to keep a substantial military force. Emo-46 AAA Program Set tions stirred by war do not easily cool; and we will need ample CORVALLIS, July 19-(A)-Orestrength until the cooling off gon's AAA 1946 program will be period is over. We will have the. strongest navy and the strongsimilar to this year's, Chairman R. B. Taylor, back from Washest air force in the world, and ington, said today. Farmers will we should plan to keep them on have the same goal-all-out prothe same comparative level. Likewise we do not want to let. duction, he said.

our army dwindle down to a paltry 130,000 men. Instead we should keep a trained regular army of from 500,000 to 1,000,-000 men for some little time after V-J day.

single year of military training so far as defense is concerned. It may have disciplinary values, but I think we would find that the year's training of youth would be quickly lost, and soon the demand would be for two or three years of such training.

Moreover the tendency will be to train in terms of old wars, rather than new. Military drill and manual of arms have received scant attention when men were being trained for the real business of fighting. The emphasis was put on physical and mental conditioning, and specialized training which would have to be repeated from scratch in event of war.

I believe we would do a better job if we put more money into research and testing of weapons, if we built up our reserve force with annual training periods and our national guard. It was not so much a lack of trained manpower as ships and equipment which delayed us in this war. A strong enough army to serve as a holding force upplemented with a powerful airforce and navy to control the sea and air would seem to be the better defense plan. We do not want to be unprepared, but I believe there are better ways to provide for our defense than by running youth.

Diamonds cleaned and checked regardless of where purchased.

Modern, Streamlined

Diamond Duo

GRANTS PASS, July 19-(P)

Youth Rescues Man

I do not put much faith in a

