More Prisoners Will Help With Oregon Harvests

CORVALLIS, Aug. 9.—(Special) With the assignment of an additional 500 German prisoners of war to assist with hop picking, the total number of PWs helping with Oregon's harvest will be about 1500 by the last of August, according to J. R. Beck, OSC extension service farm labor supervisor.

Marion and Polk counties have been assigned 250 PWs each beginning the last week in August and extending until September 25. Three hundred more PWs will be moved into the Medford area the middle of August to pick pears. Meanwhile a considerable number of the 3750 Mexican farm workers now in Oregon are helping temporarily with seed cleaning, food processing and other similar jobs in Linn, Polk, Marion, Yamhill, Umatilla and Walla counties during the low period of employment in seasonal crops until the big fall rush starts, Beck reports.

Realism on the Roman stage was carried so far that Emperor Domitian staged a real crucifixion at the end of one of the productions, using a prisoner as a substitute for the actor who played the part of the victim.

Firefighting By Air Studied By Foresters

The feasibility of using airplanes with chemicals as a means of combating forest fires is now being studied by the state forestry department here, Gov. Earl Snell announced Thursday.

The governor said some laboratory experimentation and research, with particular relation to the most effective use of chemicals and equipping airplanes for such service, already has been completed.

Development of this method, Snell declared, would be effective in extinguishing forest fires of early origin or in connection with the suppression of spot fires which break away from major fires such as have been raging in various sections of Oregon during the past few months.

The state forestry department reported that it has been using insect chemical-operating airplanes this summer in treating an infested area in Clatsop county and that these operations were successful.

The radio industry this year is 600 per cent larger than before the war.

Hawaii Feels War Effects

PORTLAND, Aug. 9.—(P)—The war has left its most serious effect in Hawaii on the chief industries, sugar and pineapples, F. D. Lowery, Honolulu, legislator and lumberman, said today.

He reported farm workers have dropped from 36,500 to 21,300 since 1939 and military services have taken over thousands of acres of cane lands for air fields and other installations.

Lowery predicted a great increase in postwar travel to the islands, with marked improvement in freight service. Several plane companies have applied for postwar island routes with fares at $125 compared with the present, $300, he said.

Landing Strips Start Planned

Construction of new landing facilities at McNary field, Salem airport, recently accepted from the civil aeronautics administration by the city council, will get under way within less than 60 days, officials announced here Thursday.

The engineering details, now worked out, provide for an instrument landing system of four or five units of radio installations, new runways, lights and other improvements.

Circuit Judge Walker Given Klamath Case

Chief Justice Harry Belt of the state supreme court Thursday assigned Circuit Judge Arlie G. Walker, Yamhill county, to preside at the trial of four cases involving former Chief of Police Heuvel of Klamath Falls. All of these cases involve moral offenses.

Judge D. R. Vandenberg, Klamath county, disqualified himself in these cases and an affidavit of prejudice was filed against Judge Charles H. Combs of Lake county. Judge Walker also will hear the divorce proceeding of Whitlatch vs. Whitlatch, which originated in Klamath county.

Circuit Judge George R. Duncan, Marion county, was assigned to Yamhill county to hear the case of B. A. Kicks against the City of Amity. This case involves the action of the city in shutting off water from an apartment house.
