A Garden Wedding...

At a garden ceremony Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock Mrs. Alice Bretherton Brown became the bride of Mr. Keith Powell. Only members of the immediate family witnessed the exchange of vows. The Rev. George H. Swift, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, read the ritual. The wedding took place at "Deepwood", the bride's home.

For her marriage Mrs. Brown chose a handsome model of pastel pink marquisette fashioned with a floor length bouffant skirt. She wore Cecile Brunner roses and bouvardia in her hair and a corsage of the same flowers. The couple was unattended.

A wedding supper was held immediately after the ceremony. The bride's table, set in the dining room, was covered with a lavender damask cloth and centered with a low bowl of pastel gladioluses and asters.

The couple will make their home at "Deepwood". Mr. Powell is president of the Salem Federal Savings and Loan association.

Domona College beckons these three girls, all of whom are going on scholarships. Left to right are Rosemary Gaiser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Gaiser, Nancy Brown, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Earl T. Brown and Lois Barrick, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Barrick. (Kennell-Ellis)
