Salem Garden Clubs Asked to Give Flowers for Wards at Naval Hospital

Garden clubs of counties adjacent to Camp Adair are being organized to work on the naval hospital program and Mrs. C. A. Kells has received a communication from Mrs. P. L. Hebig of Eugene who is organizing the project. Mrs. Hebig was appointed by Mrs. Hargrove, field director of the U.S. Naval hospital at Corvallis and Mrs. Hallie Huntington of Eugene, Red Cross worker. Mrs. Hebig has requested that clubs in this district be responsible for the flowers in the hospital wards on the first Saturday of every month.

Several projects are suggested by the organizer for the cooperation of the clubs with the hospital. They are: 1. Fresh flowers in the wards, Salem clubs responsible for first Saturday of each month. 2. Plants, shrubs, bulbs and perennials to be used in plantings around the hospital grounds. Rose bushes, rhododendrons, native shrubs and other showy plants are especially desired. 3. Seeds, small plants and shrubs for individual gardens which men in the wards are making. These gardens will be under the supervision of the arts and skills workers at the hospital. 4. Christmas decorations, a part of the project, will be stressed later in the season. Mrs. Kells, president of the Salem Garden club and the Little Garden club of Salem Heights, is announcing that as soon as any amount of shrubs or plants are available and ready for transportation, arrangements can be made through the Red Cross for the Gray Ladies to make delivery. The flowers on Saturday will also be taken to the hospital by the Gray Ladies.

Nuts to Crack

Research on Ways to Remove Kernels Results in Printing Bulletin

By Maxine Buren

Nut growing is one thing, according to a government survey, but cracking them is entirely another.

It takes a different technique to crack a walnut, for instance, than a filbert or a pecan. One would gather, from an informative bulletin that comes to my desk, that it really takes an expert to do a real nice job of nut cracking.

So we'll pass on the information, with the hope that women of the vicinity will not make the mistake of hitting their filberts on the wrong end, for instance, rather than the shoulder—a very bad practice, we find.

If the housewife feels that she is not equal to cracking the nuts without assistance, she may seek them overnight in warm water (says the bulletin).

English walnuts may often be squeezed two together in the hand and broken, says the expert. Or in case one doesn't have two nuts or some other plan is preferred, a nut may be placed on a flat block or board and hit lightly with the hammer on sides or shoulders, "do not hit the ends," warns the bulletin.

Several paragraphs are devoted to pecans, butternuts and hickory nuts but as these concern the Oregonian less than native nuts, we will devote no space to their cracking. However for those women who have such nuts, foreign to the district and find they do not know the scientific way to remove the kernels, we suggest that they write the government for the results of the research done on nut cracking, thereby getting the right answers to their problems.

Black walnut are covered also in the bulletin. Usually the best cracker is one with fairly heavy pressure which forces them apart with lever or screw. A few varieties may be cracked by striking them with a hammer on the rounded edge rather than on the flat side where the halves join.

Filberts, we find "are some of the easiest nuts to crack but cannot be cracked by hand. Hold them in a hard surface and tap lightly with a hammer. They crack best if hit on the shoulder rather than the end."

Carefully checking over the informative material we find that evidently no research has been done on the use of the teeth in cracking nuts. Perhaps that will be the subject for further research.

Today's Menu

Eggplant will make the special dish when served in a casserole today.

- Avocado salad
- Veal steaks
- Eggplant casserole with tomatoes
- Mashed potatoes
- Chocolate cake with marshmallow sauce

Peel eggplant and cut in thick slices, dip in egg and flour and fry in butter. Put into casserole, cover with sliced onion that has been fried in butter and cut up fresh tomato. Bake until eggplant is done.

For the marshmallow sauce to cover the chocolate cake. Whip one egg white stiff (preferably in electric beater) add half cup cornstarch and whip until very fluffy; should be for ten minutes or more. What is left from serving may be put in the refrigerator in a jar and kept almost indefinitely.

A few cut up marshmallows added will give more body to the sauce.
