Bear Hunt Attracts Men and Hounds, But Yields No Bear

SCIO — Recent depredations on sheep and goat flocks in the Lacombe area led to a search for a black bear that had left large tracks in the neighborhood. The hunters gave chase but were unable to get a shot. Those from Scio taking part in the quest included Jack and Oral Bates and Leslie Thayer. The Bates took a number of trained trail hounds which, while they frequently overtook the bear, were unable to tree the animal. In years past several bears have been crowded by Bates hounds and killed by hunters after the predatory animals had taken refuge in trees. Fall of the year finds bears stalking among livestock and poultry in Scio foothills and many have been killed in this area. Orchards and beehives are particularly attractive to bears and fresh lamb and poultry likewise are relished by bruin. Later hunts are contemplated by men of the community in the hope of saving livestock from attacks. About 80,000,000 gallons of oil were destroyed at the Rangoon refineries in Burma when the Burmese destroyed their oil kingdom upon the invasion of the Japanese.

West saw service in the battles which re-took the Philippines, being stationed there many months. His division was among those who landed at Tokyo bay at the same time General MacArthur arrived there.

They were stationed near the city and had time to really see the city. As he has returned to civilian life he will again take up his regular work of drilling wells which he and his father and brother Roscoe have been doing for several years. Kufner is returning to his farm home where his mother is still living, his father having died during his absence.
