Along the Union Pacific Strategic Middle Route, uniting the East with the Pacific Coast, stretches a vast network of telephone and telegraph wires. Over these wires go the orders controlling the movement of all trains.

To insure efficient and safe operation, extreme care must be taken in transmitting. For example, the Union Pacific "book of rules" gives the following instructions for the transmittal of train orders by telephone . . . "time will be spelled and then pronounced, thus: t-w-o t-e-n 2:10 pm."

Union Pacific's efficient operation has been developed throughout seventy-six years of service to the nation in peace and in war. A tremendous amount of "know how" has been accumulated during those many years.

In the postwar era when travel conditions have returned to normal, you can continue to depend on Union Pacific for dependable transportation . . . for the utmost in rail travel comfort and enjoyment.

THE PROGRESSIVE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

THIS IS YOUR JOB—AND OURS!

THERE is heavy emphasis on home building as the main crop for a sustained harvest of postwar prosperity . . . providing good jobs to millions of returning veterans and others for years to come.

A big share of the home building wood will come from the West Coast—right here. And this wood will be better than ever before because intensive war production has improved manufacturing methods—and developed many new wood products. We will offer the world's finest building wood, graded and inspected by trained and experienced men—assuring a highly uniform standard everywhere.

There is not a timber shortage on the West Coast. Enough wood is ready for harvest today to rebuild every home in America! The industry has over two million acres in tree farms—and most of the logged-off land is naturally reseeded.

The protection of these new timber crops is an important task of everyone in the West.

The West Coast can and will produce the wood to supply sustained postwar building prosperity and will grow trees for tomorrow. We owe it to our veterans—and to America. The job is yours—and ours.
