

Korean Speaks Sunday in Polk

Lee Guest Preacher At Presbyterian Church in Dallas

DALLAS — Rev. and Mrs. T. Samuel Lee and son, Earl, of Wellpoint, Wash., were weekend guests of Dr. and Mrs. Earl Benbow, Lee, a Korean, and a missionary to the Indians while awaiting the time that he will return to his native land, occupied the pulpit at the Presbyterian church here Sunday morning and spoke at an informal meeting at night. He came from the Christian church in Korea and was trained under the Presbyterian mission schools there. He is a graduate of the Theological seminary at Louisville, Ky., and speaks Korean, Chinese, Japanese, English, and the language of the Sioux Indians. He learned Sioux while working with the Indians in South Dakota during college vacations.

Lee has had no contact with his home in Korea for five years so does not know how his father, also a Presbyterian minister, and his brother and sisters have fared under the Japanese regime. Mrs. Lee is an American born Korean and is also a missionary.

Korea, according to Lee, is about the size of Kansas, mostly mountains, with hundreds of small islands along the coastline. A better grade of agricultural products are grown there than in most of the Asiatic countries. It is the only country in Asia that can be called Christian and this has been accomplished through the efforts of missionaries over the past 61 years of its 4000 years existence.

Lee gave a simple rule by which Korean names could be distinguished from those of other oriental countries. All surnames are a monosyllable such as Lee, Kim and Song. The Lee and Kim families comprise three-fourths of the population of 75,000.

★ The recent introduction of AROTANE—the Dual Octane Quality premium gasoline—has made motoring history. For AROTANE brought to automobiles an entirely new, perfected road performance long sought but never before achieved. On hills for example, AROTANE gives you full power without even a trace of knock or ping.

This is because, in AROTANE, all component parts—even those providing extra power and mileage—are high in octane (anti-knock) rating. Thus AROTANE is a gasoline which gives you, for the first time, more power and more mileage—at the same time assuring easy starting and freedom from vapor-lock. The volume production of these all-high-octane components is made possible by Associated's operation of the world's largest Fluid Catalytic Cracking and other modern refining units.

Whatever your experience with new premium gasolines, we invite you to expect a new and better all-round road performance with your first tankful of AROTANE—on sale at your nearby Helpful Associated Dealer's.

Here's What Dual Octane Quality Is—and What It Does for Your Car: Aviation and automotive technicians alike have determined that one octane test of gasoline is not enough, because engines differ in design, and operating conditions vary widely. The requirements to satisfy these extremes were determined through the two recognized octane-testing methods. Thus, AROTANE—the Dual Octane Quality Gasoline—was developed to guarantee top road performance under all conditions, in all cars at all speeds. These recognized test methods used by Associated employ extreme and critical conditions of speed, load and temperature to measure gasoline performance. AROTANE's octane measurement by both tests assures Dual Octane Quality.
