New Postwar Buick Goes on Display Today

Today the new postwar Buick automobile goes on display in the showroom of the Otto J. Wilson company.

The Otto J. Wilson company holds one of the oldest Buick dealer franchises of any automobile franchise in the United States, dating from 1907 when it was taken over by the late Otto J. Wilson, pioneer auto dealer in Salem.

Remodeling Underway
In anticipation of resumption of automobile sales the Wilson company is engaged in extensive remodeling of its building at the corner of Commercial and Center streets.

Three Series in Line
The 1946 Buick line will consist of three series of eight-cylinder cars. Besides the Super series there are the 40-Special on 121-inch wheelbase and the 70-Roadmaster on 129-inch wheelbase.

Salem Credit Association Discusses Parking Meters

Other cities have found parking meters a satisfactory solution of the parking problem, Salem should try them. This was the opinion expressed by the group at the Salem Credit Association luncheon Friday noon.

The situation in two other capital cities, Boise, Idaho, and Sacramento, Calif., was outlined by Dr. A. D. Woodmansee and F. G. Lerner. Woodmansee told his experiences in the Idaho capital city where he was not acquainted and while seeking several pieces of merchandise. Lerner told of the parking problem in the California capital while he was in business there and conditions there now as indicated on a recent trip.

Sales People Problem
The big difficulty in the present parking problem is furnished by sales people in the stores who go out each hour to "change the car," Homer Smith gave as his opinion, saying "I know they do it, for I have seen them."

Pianist to Play Concert Here
"Brown-haired, blue eyed, pretty and completely without affection" is the description of Dorothy Eustis, young American pianist, as it appeared recently in Mildred Norton's column in the Los Angeles News. Miss Eustis will come here from Hollywood to play a concert here on Tuesday, November 20, at 8:15, under the auspices of the Salem high school Crescendo club.
