

Volcanologist Skeptical of Crater Activity

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 19.—(AP)—More than a little smoke above the waters of Crater lake will be required to convince Dr. Howell Williams that Mount Mazama has resumed activity, the California volcanologist said today.

"It is hard to imagine steam or other gas coming to the surface through nearly 2,000 feet of icy water without a violence that would result in discernible wave action," he said. "Gas issuing forth so gently as not to cause wave action likely would go into solution with the water before reaching the surface."

Williams was interested in reports that several persons have seen "clouds" over the surface of the lake. But such smoke, if it did come from the dormant volcano on the floor of the lake, would kill the water's fish and cause the lake to lose its business, accounted for by the purity of its water, he said.

He advanced a theory that submarine volcanic activity might heat the water sufficiently to form convection currents, which would account for the "clouds."

The pine industrial relations committee announced in Klamath Falls AFL negotiators in 14 California pine operations—Westwood, Susanville, and Feather River canyon areas—had okayed the compromise. Northwest strikers who want $1.10 hourly and a 20-cent boost in higher brackets have refused similar offers.

With a strike threat over their heads, these operators now are paying $1.12 1/2 or more, he said, and the R. E. Martin lumber company, Missoula, Mont., has consented to pay $1.25.

Christenson reported that AFL locals at Seattle, Albany, Longview, Dallas, Lebanon, and Toledo have announced they will further tighten up the "hot" lumber program.
