Attorney Speaks At BPW Dinner

Mr. Bruce Spaulding, Salem attorney, was presented by the BPW, Tuesday night at the November dinner meeting held at the Golden Pheasant, in an address "Good Laws and One Responsibilities for Them." Mr. Spaulding encourage women in tlubs such as the Salem BPW to take definite part in local, state and national legislation and also to make their interests known to our senators and representatives in an honest and professional way. He stated that organizations such as this would offset small and dangerous pressure groups which could become quite apparent. Mr. Spaulding stated that at this time, women of other nations of the world are taking a more active part in their national government than that which is taken in the United States of America at the present time. Publicity chairman for the eighth war loan drive, Mrs. Marion Lowry Fischer, introduced at the dinner Salem's six candidates for the victory queen contest now in progress. Candidates present were: Leona Tingelstad, Betty Lou Kaiser, Faye Larkin, Beth Greenlee and Jean Wollcott. A trip to Hollywood is the prize for the two winners from the state of Oregon. Mrs. Fischer advised the club that Marion county at that date, had not yet met fifty per cent of its bond

Other guests present were: Mrs. Dora Wallace, Miss Lucille Jones, Miss Louella Toevs, Mrs. George High, Miss Vivian Walworth, Mrs. Lena Boone, A business meeting followed

Never Never Land

Peter Pan Performs Before Children From All Schools and Thrills Them

I know how Clyde Beatty must feel when he's bracing himself for the sudden appearance of 40 lions and tigers in the arena, for I sat in the Salem high school auditorium on Wednesday afternoon waiting for 1800 school children to rush in and surround me,

There were 1800 all right, perhaps 1801, but to my surprise the sweet little cubs filed in, in far better order than as many adults coming in all at once knowing voice groaned out from behind me, "Oh no, not that."

On the whole the children seemed entirely taken in with the performance of Peter Pan,

Tinkerbell, the pirates, boys of Never Never Land and Wendy.

The audience grew warmer as the play progressed and by the time it was over, did a good deal in my day. More sophisticated mind of the modern child must see many flaws in the plot, but it manifest itsself only once or twice during the afternoon such as the time, when Wendy says "Petah, when I am gone, will you remembah your flannels?" and a young but

Town and Gown Tea Today

Event of this afternoon is the Town and Gown club tea at Lausanne hall. Members are asked to call between 2:30 and 4:30 o'clock.

In the receiving line will be Mrs. Custer E. Ross, president, Mrs. Stearns Cushing, jr., Mrs. David Eason, Mrs. Melvin Geist, Mrs. Harry V. Collins, Mrs. Maurice Brennen and Miss Lorena Jack.

Presiding at the tea urns will be Mrs. George Rossman, Mrs. Daniel H. Schulze, Mrs. G. Herbert Smith and Mrs. Paul B. Wallace, Mrs. Harry V. Collins is chairman of the tea directthis generation are not too well versed in the realisms of present day screen plays to appreciate the practicability of a dog as a nurse, a clock that ticks even though it's in a crocodile and the fact that a boy thinks a button is a kiss and a kiss a thimble.

Judging from my neighbor on the left who had "read the book" and the girls behind who ohed and ahed a good deal, and even the thick glassed young know it all who sat in front of me, the school children just loved Peter.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Parker had as their guests the first of the week, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hillstrom of Coos Bay.
