OUR BIGGEST TRAVEL JOB

is ahead

... GETTING THE FIGHTING MEN HOME

URING December about 530,000 veterans. homeward bound from overseas, will arrive on the Pacific Coast; another 490,000 will arrive on the Atlantic Coast—a total of more than a million service men returning in one month! All of them are eager to get home—all of us are eager to do what we can to help.

The railroads have one thought in mind—to give returning veterans the very best service they can with the cars and engines that are available. This is the situation:

Three-fourths of all the sleeping car space in the country is assigned to movements of our fighting men. Coaches, too, have been taken from regular train service-more and more of themincluding 368 additional withdrawn from western trains early this month.

As you know, no new passenger cars could be built during the war. Even the 1200 government troop sleepers, ordered last spring, have not been delivered because of labor difficulties.

Only a small portion of our passenger equipment is available now for necessary civilian travel, to say nothing of the added demands of the Holiday Season.

Inconveniences, discomforts and delays are unavoidable under these circumstances. No one regrets this more than the railroads. The problem is particularly acute on the Pacific Coast where ninetenths of the returning veterans must make long journeys to reach their homes.

This then is the situation for the next two or three months. We know you understand and will be patient, just as you were during the war years. For nothing is so important to America as her fighting sons.

The returning of these men-a million a month —is the final phase of the railroads' war job. It is the most difficult. But when it is behind us, normal service will be quickly restored, and plans that already are far advanced for many improvements and innovations in railway travel will become realities. But first we must finish our war job!
