Law Change Sought by Silverton

SILVERTON, March 26—(Special)—Beer parlors do not pay sufficient license fees was the opinion of the Silverton planning commission Monday night when its members voted to recommend a change in the Knox law to give cities the privilege of taking a larger revenue from beer parlors. Members said such business houses paid much higher fees in many other states and that Oregon cities might as well have a bigger share of the revenue. The recommendation will go to the city council with the suggestion that the League of Oregon Cities take up the legislative cudgel.

Another recommendation of the commission is that the city council ask Silverton's Chamber of Commerce to send a delegation to the county court in the interest of extending the new highway across Silver Creek. Present plans call for the highway stopping at McClaime street and to be continued at some future time. This, members of the commission felt, would make for serious congestion on McClaime, a narrow and curved street. The additional quarter of a mile, carrying the highway over Silver Creek to South Water street, would relieve this, it is felt by the commission.

The report by the special committee on the revised budget for the recreational commission, was also approved. This calls for an additional two mill tax rather than the first proposed five mill tax. Members are hoping the measure will come on the spring election ballot.

The landscape plans for the newly acquired city property, known as the old Fischer Flouring mill, were accepted with one revision. This was that the area near the swimming pool, now used by automobiles should be reserved for pedestrians. The recommendation will go to the city council.

Zoning was considered, members discussing what might be done to prevent the building of a number of small unsightly buildings along the proposed new highway into town. The zoning committee, reporting verbally on re-zoning certain sections of the downtown Silverton area, was asked to put their recommendations and findings in writing and report in April. Granting of petitions for change in lots 5 and 10 from zone 1 to zone 3 was recommended.

Stayton Druggist Funeral Thursday

STAYTON, March 26—(Special)—Clarence A. Beauchamp, 66, operator of Beauchamp's Drug store until January 1, 1946, and member of Stayton city council, died at his home here today following a long illness. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday from the Weddie Funeral home.

Clarence Beauchamp was born December 4, 1879 in Junction City, Kans., and came to Oregon in 1881 and to Stayton in 1905. He was associated with the Brewer Drug Co. when he first came and his own store, which was sold January 1, 1946.

Survivors are the widow, Louise Beauchamp; his mother, Mrs. Carrie Beauchamp, Stayton, and a sister, Mrs. W. J. Stevens, Clatskanie.

SMALL TURKEYS WANTED

Just as the growers have worked hard to get great big turkeys, now along comes the fickle public and wants smaller birds. About seven-eighths of the retail demand in recent years has been for turkeys of 15 pounds or less, dressed weight, reports the USDA after a recent survey. The small type turkeys are now available to meet the needs of the average family and include Beltville Small White, Jersey Buff, Royal Palm and Nittany.

Flax Fiesta Plans Made At Mt. Angel

MT. ANGEL, March 26—(Special)—The much-discussed 1946 Flax Festival, after much discussion and contrary proposals, will again be accepted as the legitimate child of the Mt. Angel Business Men's club. And the immediate guardians of the celebration will be the club's executive committee, composed of Walter Smith, president; Francis Schmidt, vice-president; and Walter Kruse, secretary-treasurer, augmented by two public-spirited men, Bill Kloft and William Bean. The dates have been set tentatively for August 8, 9 and 10. A committee meeting called for Monday night was to arrange for committee chairmen and consider the help of Jessie Keeney who has helped with past festivals. The Portland Chamber of Commerce has invited the club to enter a float in the Rose Festival parade. The matter was referred to a committee.

John T. Bauman, legislative chairman, brought up the OPA question and urged farmers and business men to write their congressmen their opinion on the matter.

Lee Withers reported the state highway commission should be notified of the increasing danger of the Mt. Angel-Woodburn highway. The company having the contract to build the Mt. Angel college athletic field has agreed to level the local ball park.
