Realtors Favor Combined City, County Building

A resolution favoring construction of a combination county court house and city hall building for Salem was adopted by the Salem board of realtors at the board's regular weekly luncheon meeting at the Marlow hotel Friday noon.

Drawn up and presented by board member Westley Stewart the resolution called for a new structure housing both county and municipal governments to be erected on the site of the present court house to replace the "outmoded, antiquated and inadequate" building.

Realtor Leo N. Childs expressed hope that the city and county officials would "seriously consider this plan of combining the two governmental bodies in one fine, spacious building." He introduced Henry Crawford, former Salem postmaster, recently returned from an inspection tour of courthouses in western states.

Crawford told the board that several counties in nearby states have a combination court house and city hall. He spoke on such a setup in Maricopa county, Phoenix, Ariz. which he said "worked wonderfully well with all officials unanimous in their system."

Keep Activities Separate He indicated however that in several such combination programs all was not harmony with the two governmental bodies did not keep their activities and functional systems separate.

"It only worked out well in those cases where the two systems, although in the same building, nevertheless remained completely separated in maintaining their own expenses and upkeep," he added.

Warehouse Stocks on Rise

Post-war business stocks are beginning to arrive in volume in Oregon, it is indicated by a survey released Friday by the census division of the U.S. department of commerce.

Oregon warehousemen estimated their warehouses were 97.3 per cent full in February this year, compared with 43.2 per cent occupancy in February a year ago.

J. C. Capt, Washington, D.C., director of census, said the 54.1 per cent increase in Oregon compares with only a 1.3 per cent gain over the nation (from 86.6 to 87.9).

In the modern system of distribution, Capt said, nearly all goods bought or sold pass through public merchandise warehouses.

Christian Endeavor Planners

OPA Stipulates Details of New Rise in Milk, Cream Prices

Prices of butterfat, milk and cream have been increased as a result of a price-raising message received Friday by G. W. King, board supervisor of the local OPA office, from Andrew H. Trice, district OPA price executive, Portland.

"Effective April 1," the telegram reads, "the price of butterfat is raised 6 cents per pound for milk going into bottles and cans for whole sale and retail distribution. As of same date price of all types of milk including sweet milk, butter-milk, skim milk, chocolate milk, etc. was raised one half cent per quart, one-quarter cent per pint and one-eighth cent per one-half pint.

"Sales of single quarts will go to the nearest full cent with multiple sale and charge accounts figured exactly and then rounded to the nearest full cent," the message concluded.

Cream Unchanged

The order also said that cream prices were not changed. However, the local office said, cream prices have been raised because when prices were frozen by the OPA in 1942 a readjustment price was granted on cream. But the local milk control group never took the adjustment until now.

Cream prices now retail as follows: one-half pint at 17 1/2 cents, one pint at 31 1/2 cents, one quart at 60 cents and one gallon at $2.40. For whipping cream the prices now stand at 33 1/2 cents per one-half pint, 42 1/2 cents per one pint and 82 cents per one quart.

Less Effect Here King indicated that the price boost would not mean much to the retailers here because the old price of 13 1/2 cents per quart, which always meant 14 cents per single quart to the housewife, was now rounded out to the same 14 cents.

Portland milk prices which formerly stood at 14 cents per quart now stand at two for 29 cents or 14 1/2 cents per quart which rounds to 15 cents per quart singly, King stated.

The motor vehicle death toll in 1945 was about one-third of the total of all deaths due to accidents.

In another opinion, for district attorney Robert V. Chrisman of Wallowa county, Neuner held that county clerks must charge veterans the 25-cent fee for making certified copies of their final discharges from the armed forces.

A third opinion held that all fluid milk offered for sale in Oregon must be graded, with the grade shown on the labels or caps of the milk containers. Dairymen who cannot meet the grade requirements can be prevented from selling milk, Neuner said.

This opinion was asked by the state agricultural division.

Eight Apply for Personnel Post

Only eight applications have position of supervisor of personnel and training with the state unemployment commission in Salem, officials of the merit system council announced after the first week of a four-week filing period that culminates in the competitive examination April 27.
