

Rites Read At Church Today

The Calvary Baptist church will be the setting for a lovely ceremony this afternoon at four o'clock when Miss Ernestine Frederickson becomes the bride of Roy H. Ostrin, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ostrin. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Frederickson.

The altar will be decorated with baskets of yellow and white snapdragons, calla lilies, palms and white tapers. Dr. Charles Durden will officiate at the nuptials. Miss Beth Siewert will sing "I Love Thee" and "Because" before the bridal party enters. Mrs. D. H. Kleihege will be the organist.

Of white satin is the bridal gown. The gathered skirt extends into a court train and the bodice is fashioned with shirring, a sweetheart neckline and a wide girdle. The only trim on the dress is the lace sleeves which end in points over the wrists.

The fingertip length tulle veil will cascade over the bride's blonde hair from a halo of net. Clasped around her neck will be a single strand of pearls. She will carry a white prayer book marked with a purple orchid and white satin streamers. Mr. Frederickson will give his daughter in marriage.

Miss Helen Smith will be the bride's only attendant. She will wear a yellow moire taffeta gown designed with a full skirt and net bodice made with long sleeves and a high rounded neckline. She will carry a cascade of white snapdragons and blue iris tied with satin streamers.

Her corsage will be of red roses and white bouvardia. Mrs. Ostrin has chosen a black silk crepe gown for her son's marriage. She will wear a black straw hat and a corsage of pink roses and bouvardia.

Seen and Heard....

By Jeryme English

NEWS COMES from Cairo, Egypt about a former Salem girl, Ruby Eastman, a clerk in the U. S. legation there. While here Ruby was with the state engineer's office, an active Young Republican and Junior Woman's club member. She is now engaged to a diplomatic courier from New York, who is also at the legation. They plan to come to the states late in the spring and will be married in Portland, where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Eastman, reside.

Ruby writes that she just returned in early March from a week's leave at Luxor and Asswan. A most interesting trip as Luxor is the seat of ancient Egyptian history, having the remains of the old Luxor temple, temple of Karnak on the other side of the Nile, Valley of the Kings, where the ancient kings were buried, and tombs of Ramses VI, Seti, Tutankaman, Queen Hapshesut all well preserved.

Ruby stayed at the Winter Palace hotel in Luxor, a gorgeous place with beautiful garden in back filled with tropical flowers and vines, one mass of color. At the hotel there was music for tea, dinner music and dancing after dinner. Ruby says she is getting used to having tea and cakes every afternoon at 5 and dinner never before 8:30. In Luxor she and her party went by sail boat on the Nile to see the temple of Karnak, crossed the Nile to Thebes and then took donkeys and carriages from place to place.

At Asswan they stayed at the Cataract hotel, which is situated on the bank of the Nile. They saw the oldest obelisk in the world and drove across the Asswan dam, which is two miles long. Another highlight of the trip was sailing around Elephantine island and a visit to Lord Kitchener's gardens, also on an island in the Nile.

In Luxor Ruby chewed sugar cane which she had wanted to try as the natives chew long stalks of sugar all the time. The cane was very sweet and juicy. Other highlights of living in Cairo for Ruby include long bicycle trips, drives along the Suez canal, short courier trips, picnics, fascinating eating places with lots of atmosphere, also fun to attend the movies, as audiences made up of people of every nationality and the talky is one language and three other predominating languages written along the side and bottom of the screen.

A bridal luncheon for Carolyn Brown on Thursday when Mesdames Ralph Campbell, John Minto, Karl Heinlein, Lloyd Ribes and William Stacey entertained at the spacious Minto home. The honor guest in a becoming brown silk crepe gown with side drape on the skirt and a rosebud corsage.

Her attractive mother, Mrs. F. Ivan Brown, in a white wool dress and matching crownless hat wreathed in white flowers. Carolyn, who will be a May bride, visited her fiance's parents in Topeka, Kansas last month at which time she and Charles bought their home and have it nearly furnished.

AT RANDOM . . . News of former Salem residents. Eugene Beall, well known left handed tennis player at Willamette university, was joined in Portland in March by his Australian bride. They were married "down under" over two years ago when he was stationed there. The young Mrs. Beall is a most attractive brunette. It took her over 20 months to get passage to the states. Gene is now with the Hazeltine Heavy Hardware Co. in Portland.

Back in Oklahoma City are Mr. and Mrs. William Walker (Dorothy Blaisdell). He is taking a refresher course in architecture at Oklahoma A and M and Dorothy is taking courses in household arts and ceramics. She writes that it is really warm in Oklahoma in the spring. The mercury rising to 96 last week.

Edith Clement, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L. O. Clement, is now in Oakland, Calif., doing social service work during the war years she was with the USO.

Sally McLellan, daughter of the Dan McLellans, assistant field director with the Red Cross, has been transferred to the naval air base at Whidby Island, Wash. She was formerly stationed in Seattle. Sally is enjoying the lovely spring days and does lots of riding and already has gone on picnics.

House hunting are the Bert Castors, Salem residents prior to the war. At present Helen and the boys, John and Todd, are in Portland living in a housing unit until they can locate in Salem. Bert is back at the county agent's office here as assistant triple A secretary.

TRAVEL NOTES . . . Gala reunion in San Francisco recently for the P. D. Quisenberys, Herbert Darbys of Portland and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huggins, who had all been vacationing in southern California.

Change of weather. When the L. V. Bensons, who have been traveling in the east, left Iowa it wasn't many hours until they had to open suit cases and bring out cottons as the weather was extremely warm, but the next day they hit a snow storm in Wyoming, so back went on the woolens. Even in Atlantic City the weather was beautiful as Speed and Peg strolled along the board walk without coats. In New York they went to many of the famous night spots, popular stage hits of the day and even managed to find time to attend a few radio broadcasts.

St. Vincent dePaul's mothers club will meet Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. A white elephant sale with Mrs. Lyle Shepard in charge will be a feature of the meeting. All members are asked to bring an unwanted article for the sale.
