(Meet the Senators dept: (The following is the first of a series of introductory pieces on Mgr. Frisco Edwards' hired hands, the thumbnail shots to appear regularly in this corner, with pictures.) First, GEORGE STEVE VICO. This large chunk of baseball prize-he's 6-3 up and he hefts 198 solid pounds-is 22 years old and is being looked upon as the broad-shouldered lad who will do most of the fence busting for the locals come summer. Vico hails from San Fernando, Cal. (but has no rancho in that famed valley), and ((too bad, girlies) is married. A Jimdandy of a prospect, George hopped right into pro ball from San Fernando high at the age of 18. A Detroit Tiger hope, he was farmed to the Michigan State and Kitty leagues in 1941 where he banged out a .330 seasonal swat percentage. In 1942 it was Winston-Salem in the Piedmont loop,'a close B circuit in which he clouted .280. Then came the navy and three years as regular first baser with the potent San Diego Naval Training Station nine, the same hot-shot out-(Zoot) Cameron. Vico wafted over 300 every year for the gobs . . . Booked to go to the Beaumont club of the Texas league in 1943, George was instead sold to Portland by Detroit when the Texas wheel folded up. He comes to Salem as a Beaver chattel and, brother, the Beavers believe he will one day be strictly mafor league . . . Those "splits" he does when grabbing thrown balls around the initial sack "just came natural to me," he says. George never practices parting his swing until the ball is practically over the top of the plate. Strong wrists and quick reaction does the rest.

Sportie sorties: Headlines in the Sporting News tell that both Bob Joyce, San Francisco's 30game winner last season, and Mike Budnick, the presvar WIL'er with Spokane, not only are figured by Mgr. Mel Ott as starters for the Giants this year but are actually the 1-2 men in the hurling corps. . . . Although he's playing the first sack for Los Angeles and has been doing okeh at it, the grapevine says Jack Richards, former Willametteer and Senator, will be sent down to Tacoma when the parent Chicago Cubs stock up the Angel nine soon. For the benefit of the late comers, Richards wafted .351 for the Senators in '42 and that was tops in the league. . . . Speaking of Richards, his younger brother Harry, the shortpatcher with Ralph Coleman's OSC Beavers, handles the hit baton as if he knows what it's for also. . . . Salem's big meetminded Trapshooters club, two attractive bang sessions already under its belt, steps out for one of the biggest in the land next summer. The club is to play host we keep hidden. . . . to the Grand Pacific Interna-
