Royal Cannery At Silverton Changes Hands

SILVERTON, April 18 (Special) — L. E. Kolstad of Seattle bought the Royal Canning company interest in the local cannery at Silverton J. S. Duncan, manager of the Silverton plant said Wednesday. Kolstad owned part interest in the cannery since the Silverton cannery company sold it two years ago.

The name of the cannery will be changed from Royal Canning company to Kolstad Cannery, and expansion is planned. Duncan will be retained as manager.

During the peak season 300 men and women are employed at the cannery. First pack this season, Duncan said, will be beans. Eventually the cannery officials again plan to put up a strawberry pack but they will wait until equipment becomes more available.
