Chester B. Leichty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Leichty of the Howell Prairie district is now livestock inspector in Lake, Klamath, Jackson, Josephine, Curry and Coos county. His headquarters will be at Klamath Falls. Leichty has been with the state police force for nine years.

Oxford Blushing Fawn, owned by George Gntemann of Independence, topped the United States on register of merit testing of aged cows (over five years of age) for the month of January on a twice a day milking. The record was 1593 pounds of milk and 98.77 pounds of fat.

J. J. Inskeep, Clackamas county agent, says to draw a red circle on the calendar around May 24, for this is annual open house day at the Red Soils Experimental area at Mt. Pleasant. Of special interest are the alta fescue fertility experiments, non-irrigated ladino clover for seed production, and depth application of superphosphate on red clover.

coin. Walling has been discharged from overseas service and is now employed at his former job in the Woodburn postoffice.

Harold Ridings of Molalla and Daniel Gingerich of Canby have just completed the job of remodeling their combine harvesters for bulk handling grain. By eliminating the necessity of using sacks, they hope to lower harvesting costs. If their venture is successful, many additional combines will probably be remodeled next winter.

Down toward North Santiam, the reported finds considerable more ground cleared this spring, increasing the crop acreage. Much of this will be put into beans.

At Jefferson this week we found that the Santiam Flax Growers had signed up sufficient acreage to be assured of the continued operation of the flax plant. The plant had just shipped a car of fiber to a large eastern spinning mill and was awaiting returns on the car. The Forano tow machine, the first one of its kind in the United States, is operating day and night. Several carloads of cleaned tow have been shipped to Duluth, Minn., as well as to further eastern mills. The cleaned tow has sold at 12 and 14 cents a pound as against 2½ cents a point if uncleaned.

Plant officials are recommending the use of phosphate and potash as fertilizer rather than nitrogen.

The Mt. Angel Farmers Union Warehouse has added three more World War II veterans to its staff of employees. Included are Virgil Cooley, a navy lieutenant in the new office manager, Merle Jones, a seabee, employed in the feed manufacturing department, and Arthur Hassler, of the navy, who is employed in the general warehouse.

Rhubarb in a bigger way is a new Willamette valley crop. Rhubarb has been grown in the valley ever since the valley planted and grew things. It has been sold to some canneries and a lot of it was sold on the open market, particularly in the sugary days. But now it is being frozen. The United Growers will start processing May 15 and plans to freeze this year's rhubarb crop.

Marion county Jersey breeders will gather Sunday at the Stanley Riches home at Turner.
