

41 Finish Course At Willamette for YM Secretaries

Forty-one persons, including 21 World War II veterans, attended a refresher course for YMCA secretaries last week on the Willamette university campus.

John Leslie, associate boys' work secretary of the national YMCA council, New York, was the leading instructor. Assistants were John Pugh, secretary of the South Bend, Ind. YMCA, James Maxwell, Seattle, and Dwight Welch, Portland.

Local men participating were Drs. John Knight and Lawrence Riggs, Willamette faculty, the Rev. Dudley Strain, Drs. Robert Gatzke, Joseph Adams, Daniel Schilke and Seth Huntington.

Sign With Union

Westside Cafe, 975 Edgewater st., West Salem, and the 12th Street dinette signed contracts with the Salem Culinary Alliance and are now operating as union shops. A. B. Pederson, secretary and business agent for the union, reported Monday. The Westside Cafe is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bartlett and the 12th Street Dinette by Mildred Chastine and John Chastine.

Mrs. Lipps, Resident Here 19 Years, Dies

Mrs. O. H. Lipps, resident of the Salem area the past 19 years, died Monday at the family residence, 365 S. 13th st. She was born May 9, 1880, at Bay City, Mich.

With her husband, now retired after 40 years in the federal Indian service, she came in 1927 to Chemawa, where Mr. Lipps had been appointed superintendent of the Indian school. He had previously served in a number of localities, including Carlisle, Pa., where he had been superintendent of the nation's oldest Indian school, and as superintendent of the Lapwai, Idaho, agency.

Mrs. Lipps was a member of Salem's First Methodist church, and active in one of its women's circles.

Survivors include the widower, Oscar H. Lipps, Salem; six daughters, Mrs. George Seymour, Salem; Mrs. Claiborn Crabtree, Fresno, Calif.; Mrs. Kenneth Leitch, Sacramento, Calif.; Mrs. A. O. Rook, Los Angeles, and Mrs. Morris Carty of San Diego; sons, Homer H. Lipps and Mack Lipps, both of Lewiston, Idaho, and five grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements in the care of the Clough-Barrick company, had not been completed this morning.

Union Promised $10,000 Backing

Salem Retail Clerks' union has a promise of backing from Portland locals to the extent of $10,000, H. L. Edling, secretary of the Salem local, reported Monday after spending a weekend in conferences with Portland local officials.

Raymond E. Rolow, formerly in the shoe business in Salem, will take over Edling's work here when Edling leaves for Astoria soon to launch an organizing campaign for retail clerks similar to the one he carried out in Salem.

O&C Timber Program Told To City Group

Sawmills equipped to cut up to four times the amount of timber permissible under the sustained yield program of the O&C land grants and Coos Bay wagon road program exist (most of them operating) in western Oregon. Harry I. Nettleton, in charge of research and education with the O&C re-vested lands administration of the federal department of the interior, told Salem Chamber of Commerce members and guests at their Monday luncheon meeting.

Nettleton told how through the 18 western counties of the state stretches a strip 60 miles wide and 300 miles long checkerboard with 7000 squares ranging in size from approximately 40 to more than 640 acres, owned by the federal government, O&C and Coos Bay wagon road.

As now administered, timber from these lands may be cut on a sustained yield basis (that is, only the amount which is reproduced in a year may be cut in any 12-month period) by private operators under federal lease. The private operators must agree, in order to obtain cutting rights, to shear their own timber on the same basis.

Fifty per cent of the takes goes to the 18 counties; 25 per cent more to them until a $2,000,000 tax deficit on the properties was paid in 1943; other money now goes to the federal treasury to pay an $8,500,000 mortgage, which has now been cut to less than $7,000,000 and to pay the 18 per cent administrative costs.

WU Law School Will Inaugurate Summer Session

Dean Ray Smith announced Monday that the Willamette university law school will offer an eight week summer session starting July 8 on the local campus.

Present plans call for full courses in both equity and evidence, five days a week. The summer session, first of its kind at the law school, is offered as an accommodation to the increased number of returning veterans now studying legal courses.

'First Citizen' in New UAL Post

W. R. Thigpen, former district traffic manager of United Air Lines at Portland and also as a one-time "first citizen" of that city, has been named a special assistant to the president of United with headquarters in Seattle. It was announced Monday.

Thigpen, with United for nearly 13 years, has been district traffic and sales manager at New York since 1944. In his new capacity, he will represent United in public relations contacts throughout the Pacific Northwest.

Late Members of Bar Here Praised By Circuit Court

Memorial resolutions by the Marion county bar association for the late Otto Marion Bowman and James Mott were entered into the permanent records of the Marion county circuit court Monday by Circuit Judges E. M. Page and George R. Duncan.

Mott died Nov. 12, 1945 and Bowman was killed in June, 1944, in Burma. At a memorial session Monday morning Judge Page offered encomiums for both the dead statesman and the dead soldier who were members of the local bar.

Eagles Plan Drum Corps, Drill Contests

More than 800 members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, meeting in Salem on Sunday to make plans for their state convention June 27-29 in Astoria, scheduled a drum corps contest and drill team competition, annual highlights of the big get-together.

Legislation dealing with juvenile delinquency, aimed at making parents bear a larger share of the responsibility, at providing a home for children and at securing appointment of special judges to try cases involving juveniles will be presented at the conference, members of the legislative committee declared.

In that group, which also met here over the weekend, are Dr. Floyd Utter, Salem, chairman; Gerald W. Mason, Barnett Goldstein and Coe McKenna, all of Portland; John Steelhammer, Salem; John Bennett, McMinnville, and Elvin Alborn, Coquille.

Western States Mining Convention to Be Held In Southern Oregon

The Jackson County Mining association and the Siskiyou Mineral association will have a western states mining convention on June 13, 14 and 15, at Medford and Jacksonville, "Oregon's most historic spot," where gold was first discovered in Oregon. F. J. Hall, Jacksonville, is chairman.

Flax Textiles Firm Officials Arrive Here

Palm beach suits, straw hats and an April breeze of more than usual intensity featured the delayed arrival at McNary field Monday of officials of Oregon Flax Textiles, Inc. and party.

Members of the group indicated they would wear heavier clothing when they take off today for Medford with 15 Salem residents en route to Millar's lodge, "Genelec" at Eagle Point, on the Rogue river.

Clad for the sunny climate they had left in Oakland and anticipated in Salem, J. R. Millar, chairman of the textile firm's directors and president of the National Air Transport company, and B. A. Olsen, Oregon Flax Textiles president, and friends were subjected to unusually cold traveling conditions, they declared. A steam pipe broke Sunday night in the NAT executive's plane, so it was without heat when forced to 13,000 feet in order to get above clouds between Medford and Salem. Bucking a heavy wind their plane, once scheduled for arrival at 2:15, put down here at 3:45 p.m.

E. H. Welker, director of National Automotive Fibres, which is one of the parent firms of the textiles concern, and also president of the Walker Machine company, Detroit; E. A. Nealon, merchandise manager of Electro Auto-Lite company, Toledo, Ohio, and T. H. Brehme of the Walton N. Moore organization which handles the rugs to be produced in Oregon Flax Textiles' new West Salem plant, with Millar and Olsen comprise the inspection party.

CINNAMON CONTROL OFF

WASHINGTON, April 29—(AP)—The government today removed all restrictions on the distribution of cinnamon in civilian stores in this country, effective Wednesday. Pepper and nutmeg are the only spices still subject to distribution controls.

High Court to Open in East

Only two cases are slated for hearing when the state supreme court opens its spring term for eastern Oregon at Pendleton next Monday.

Most important case involves Kenneth W. Bailey, convicted of first degree murder in Malheur county in connection with the slaying of Theodore W. Chambers, state police officer. The murder occurred when Chambers and other state police officers attempted to arrest Bailey in the basement of a schoolhouse in Ontario on April 29, 1945.

The other case is that of Grace Lowe vs. L. P. Harman, involving ownership of mining property. The lower court for Baker county held for the defendant.

WEEKEND SNOW NOTED

More snow in the higher elevations of central and eastern Oregon over the weekend was reported here Monday by R. H. Baldock, state highway engineer. Approximately one inch of snow fell in the Santiam junction area and nearly two inches at Odell lake.

Arnold Davis on Job as New Chief Of Western Union

Arnold Davis, formerly manager of the Western Union at Butte, Mont., has succeeded Eric Butler, who retired after more than four decades with the telephone company, as head of the Salem branch.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis will reside on Evergreen road as soon as their household furnishings arrive.

Davis has been with Western Union for 20 years, starting at Conrad, Mont., and has been located at Bellingham, Roseburg and several Montana points as manager prior to going to Butte.

TO DOUBLE NATIONAL GUARD

WASHINGTON, April 29—(AP)—Plans for a national guard to be more than double its pre-war strength will be outlined by Secretary of War Patterson at the first post-war meeting of the adjutants-general of the United States in Washington, D.C., May 2-4.
