isn't an Oregon man, and rumor says the tournament shift hinged on exactly one vote. How can you win against such odds? Better yet, how can you win when guiding hands directing the welfare of our village didn't make a move toward fighting to retain the prep classic?

Those who predicted a bright baseball future for Fletcher (Curiy) Robbe when he was a 16-year-old shortstopper for the townies in '42, recommended by Los Angeles, might like to know Curly is now doing fine in the Pioneer league with Ogden. We hear he's hitting hard and fielding his short patch like a champion Another former Sensior shortstop, Bunny Griffiths, is this year bossing the Hagerstown nine in the Inter-State loop, is playing regularly and is hitting over .300. His club was in second place at last reading Doug Ford, the pitching mighty while at U of Washington before the war, found pro mound work not to his liking. Loser of five straight starts with Vancouver, Ford packed up his satchel and went No Charley Petersen at Bremerton after all, Released by the Seals, Pete was

When a ball club wins eight and loses 30 at the start of a season it isn't a bum guess to figure the skipper as being on the ropes. So the decapitating of Laurel Harney at Victoria comes as no surprise. Perhaps it was a good move in two ways, for Harney who has had practically no experience in professional baseball, has reportedly pulled boner after boner in guiding the

The best we've heard on these boners is that on three or four oceasions with the bases full he had his hitter, loaded with a full 3-and-2 count, taking the next pitch! Stealing bases when four and five runs behind isn't in the manual either. The thoroughly likeable ex-pro ice hockey player is perhaps better off himself now that he's out. He's apt to live longer The only part of it we don't like is that the up-to-now pushover Victorians are strengthening right and left - and Salem goes at 'em for two solid weeks
