Ragwort Blooming

Tansy ragwort is nearing the blooming season and farmers are advised by W. G. Nibler, Marion county agent, to make plans now for killing this pest before seed Tansy ragwort is a poisonous weed becoming more and more common in parts of Marion county, particularly Bethel, Turner

Recommendations on killing the plants varies from pulling or digging out a few plants to spraying with chemicals for larger infestations. Most popular in the small spray outfits is a three ing a solution of 112 pounds of gallon hand pressure sprayer ust-either sodium chlorate or atlacide to one gallon water. Plants are given a good wetting with the solution before seed is formed and the action of the chemical
