The natives, in hashing out the Louis-Conn smelleroo, couldn't belp but notice in pictures the broad smile on Champion Joe's puss when they were raising his hand at the finish line. Champion Joe's traits usually do not include the exhibition of his ivory. But then wouldn't you smile, even if you had no teeth at all, if you were to suddenly come into a half ucks as easy as Joe did? And me to think of it, wouldn't you let the Bomber tag you with his dukes a couple of times for a third of a million? Even Conn of this. . . . Speaking of the sub-merged Rainiers, while in Spokane other day we were told by one of Emil Sick's relatives in charge of a brewery over there sman Sick is still willing to shell out over $100,000 this year to elevate his nine into pennant contention. Seems Mr. Sick ply cannot stand the nasty letters the Rainier fans have been writing him concerning his ball feam. . . . Sylvester Johnson through as Vancouver manager. That makes five of the league's original eight skippers for the season now gone. The clubs seem to be changing brains faster than they alter lineups. . . . Consider-able talk around the Inland Eme that the league is improving such leaps and bounds that within two or three years its dassification will be raised to "A." From the looks of the salaries some of the current crop is pulldown, the thing is no less than "AAA" right now. For intance, Vic Picetti, Oakland's rized firstbasing 19-year-old sta-oned with Spokane, is pulling down $650 per month! The Spoke portswriters and Vic vow it's make him the highest paid play-er in the WIL. Most of the league nanagers don't make that much ney, and it's over Awice as much as any skipper got in pre-war days. Even baseball feels ina. . . . Although he was handed the post in a moment of dire need when Glenn Wright was fired the day before the season opened, Spoke Manager Mel Cole will likely stay right on through the summer as boss. Own-er Sam Collins doesn't believe in changing horses in midstreamespecially when the club is doing a pretty good job in the-standings and at the gate. . . .

The retake, ordered by the Salem Boxing and Wrestling commission following last week's accident, culminates another 8-man card cooked up by Matchmaker Elton Owen. Two 20-minute one-fall prelims start the show at $:30 p. m., and in McEuin against Jack Kiser and Denied their full chance to Newcomer Mel Peters against bruising Bruno Angello. The Mc-Euin-Kiser shot is also a rematch, as these two did some sterling mat pleasing in their 20minute draw last week. Newcomer Peters will be up against toughie Angello, the unpopular but capable character who lost his coast junior heavy title belt to Georges Dusette a couple of weeks ago in Klamath Falls.

Last week's tag teamer was bouncing along in great shape when trickster A c h i u bounced against the ropes to gain momentum for a ram at Katonen But the ring post cracked in half, spilled wily Walt in a useless heap on the floor and put a quick ending to the brawl. Commission Chairman Harry Levy pondered the situation for a spell and finally called it no contest, hanging a "must" on to-night's rematch. Furses were held up and will be distributed on the winner-loser basis along with those made tonight. Which should be additional impetus for the gladiatops. Grapplers have a habit of busting loose when an extra bean is in the pot.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 .- (P) -A wild baseball fever gripped Philadelphians today as a local major league club for the first time in more than a decade had a fighting chance for the pennant. The sizzling Phillies, winners of 17 of their last 23 games, had the day off, but the city was buzzing with talk.

Sedate women gathered on street corners to discuss the Blue Jays. Youngsters waved pennants bearing the name "Phillies." Oldtimers began digging back into the record books.

Most of them couldn't remember when the Phillies played better ball. And it's problematical if they ever before clipped along at a .743 pace as they have since Memorial day.

While it was virtually impossible to single out any one factor which has given rise to the Phils' spurt, General Manager Herb Pennock credited what he called "spirit and hustle."

Makes Park Pay Off

Owner Collins is making his $51,000 Spokane ball park investment pay off too. He admits he often makes more money renting out the yard when the club is out oft town than he does when the Indiana are at home. For instance. this week the park will house a highly-rated fistic party featuring Joey Dolan, the ex-Portlander who is now booked as the toast of Spokane. Dolan is fighting there is and the e Mexican sharpie and the brawi will be a sellout. Owner Colling was also telling us that Collins was also telling us that his Indians lost $1500 on a recent d trip to the coast, but while they were gone he made $1800 renting out the ball yard. Tiger Jack Fox, the negro fighting ancient who once held the ing Billy Conn's pre-Louis work- Dallas uts, has offered to fight Billy in winner-take-all date in Spokane. The Tiger says: "Man, there's one white boy I know I can whip." . . . Woodburn Joe Kahut's recent successes have reached eastern Washington ears also.
