HARD OF HEARING?

ASK YOURSELF THIS QUESTION:

Are All Hearing Aids the Same?

You want the finest hearing aid money can buy. Does that mean the most expensive? No. It means the hearing aid that gives you the pleasant, relaxed hearing you want. It means the hearing aid that is scientifically and accurately fitted to your individual hearing problem—for an improperly fitted hearing aid is worse than none at all. It means the hearing aid that is superbly engineered for flawless mechanical operation—incorporating all the post-war discoveries that mean not only the latest in hearing correction, but also the lowest in operating cost.

How Can You Be Sure?

You must realize, for your own good, that all hearing aids may have receivers, transmitters and batteries—but they are not all the same. Just as all automobiles have four wheels, brakes, motor and run on gasoline—but they are not all the same. So you must find out which hearing aid really is best for you—for much depends on your decision. Here's a good way to decide—a few simple questions to ask yourself:
