

World Cruise Near for Most Of Volunteers

By James Burr Miller
SAN DIEGO, Aug. 1 (Special) — At last the finale is in sight. It's almost like bringing down the curtain on a show that you will never forget. Yes, despite all the rumors that persisted, company 48235 probably will begin their voyage home on the morning of August 7. For some strange reason we will all be glad to leave.

But, after all, the fact that boot camp is over means merely the beginning of naval careers. We have been led to believe that only a small percentage of the men at the base will be permitted to go to service schools. The percentage runs something like 2 per cent go to a school and 98 per cent go to sea. This isn't such a bad deal, though, as it all goes on the 18 month world cruise after boot camp.

An Education In Itself
This cruise is scheduled to stop at almost all the important foreign ports of the world and, without a doubt, would be an education in itself. And there is a vast supply of educational facilities that can be counted as college credits after the completion of our two-year service when it should be very nice to be able to take advantage of the GI bill of rights that include college.

The company has really been lucky this latter portion of their boot training. It inherited the job of "marking company." This consists of distributing and marking all the clothes and gear that is given to incoming recruits. This lasts from July 29 to August 5.

As most dip pens on the base are antiquated and misused, the boys have been busy trying to get to a typewriter in the evening so that 50 per cent of their letters can be understood. This requires quite a technique as there are six typewriters in the recreation room for 900 men. To use one, one must stand in line and wait, wait, wait.

It Just Didn't Pay
Upon taking such a stand for two hours regularly, Bob Meyer, past sports writer for the Clarion newspaper and graduate of Salem high, found it just doesn't pay. It seems that Bob had been patiently waiting for his opportunity for quite some time and then . . . it happened! There before him was a typewriter without a blue suit behind it! Controlling his eagerness, he strolled nonchalantly toward the machine, knocking over three chairs, a flower vase, and kicking over a wastepaper basket, but he made it and actually had written two lines when there was a clatter of feet and a thundering command echoed "Fire drill!"

"We'll surely be glad to see you again, Salem."

Steel Freight Drop Sought

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1 (AP) — Western railroads heard pleas for lower freight rates on steel shipped from Utah to the Pacific coast. They came from western industry, trade, and government spokesmen, headed by Utah's governor, Herbert B. Maw.

Representatives of private and public bodies in the triangle formed by Salt Lake City, Seattle and San Diego supported the application of United States Steel corporation's Geneva Steel Hill to the Pacific freight traffic bureau for a cut of one-third in the freight rate. The proposed cut would reduce the freight from $12 to $8 a ton, and would put all coast ports on the same rate basis.

Willamette Valley Farmer

News and Views of Farm and Garden—BY LILLIE L. MADSEN

Picking in Early Hopyards to Start Around August 5

Labor has not been a limiting factor in the 1946 harvest so far, although a good deal of shifting has been necessary for harvest followers to relieve temporary labor shortages. J. R. Beck, state supervisor of extension service emergency farm labor, said Wednesday.

The fact that the Pacific coast states pay the best farm wages in the United States has been a major factor in relieving the wartime shortage of harvest workers. Beck indicated Oregon is getting an unprecedented influx of outside workers this year. Many of these new arrivals are working on farm harvest jobs, Beck said.

Housing is still a major attraction for harvest followers. In this respect, Beck pointed out the migrant camps located in some of the high labor requirement areas are proving valuable in attracting farm help.

Beck also reported that the August harvest slate in Oregon includes the harvesting of snap beans in the Willamette valley counties which will last the entire month. Peas will be ready in Hood River and Medford shortly before mid-August. Hops, a heavy labor user, are scheduled to be picked August 15, although a very early variety, Bohemian, in Washington county will be ready for picking about August 5.

In Columbia county the manager of a pickle factory is looking for 60 family groups to pick cucumbers on a contract basis. Housing is not available and picking will start the last part of this month.

Advice Given for Irrigated Pastures

Suggestions made by farmers who long have used irrigated pastures include special care during August.

Graze after the cows have been taken off the pasture. It is a good plan to clip the pastures, preferably a day or two before grazing as the cows will eat the clippings.

Use an auger or spade to determine depth of water penetration into the soil.

Apply about 20 to 30 pounds of nitrogen to irrigated pasture in early August for maximum production.

Feed Lambs Lead Arsenate to Cure

Lead arsenate fed to lambs in an experiment carried on by the United States department of agriculture in South Dakota cured 92 per cent of the lambs treated for lice. The arsenate, when fed, was nearly always the cause of scouring in lambs during late summer.

The dosage was one gram of lead arsenate in a No. 13 gelatin capsule. Treated lambs showed no ill effects of the medication and had recovered from the scouring and were in an improved condition within a week after the treatment.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking out the waste and poisonous matter out of the blood. They help most people pass about 5 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with straining and burning sensations whether it is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a standard diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood, the kidneys.

Self-Powered Mower Seen on Kenney Farm

Just across the Marion county line in Clackamas is Day Kenney's farm with a Marquam address. On Kenney's farm is a self-powered mowing machine that is drawing the attention of farmers from both Marion and Clackamas county.

Kenney mounted the motor from a standard make combine on a home made truck in front of a power mower of another make. Wheels from the combine are used to carry the motor which furnishes the necessary power. This arrangement makes a complete mow unit with separate cutter bar power.

Advantages, says Kenney, are two: First, the tractor and mower are attached in a matter of seconds, whereas much time is lost in attaching and detaching the ordinary power mower. Second, the cutter bar speed is independent of the tractor speed.
