L. H. Gregory, whose "Greg's Gossip" sportslinging is known throughout the northwest land, was in his day no slouch at the Albany BRHESalem BRH manly art of making a baseball do nip-ups when thrown from a pitcher's box. And, not unlike any other ballgamer along in years,

Mr. G. is still of the opinion he is no disgrace to the fraternity of fog-ballers. In fact, not too many days ago Greg and his Oregonian writing staff, plus a sprinkling of assistance from Jack Wilson and his Portland I. troupe and the office portion of the Portland Beavers, splattered the Oregon State college coaches. 9-4. in a game at Corvallis, Gregory, cloaked under the handle "Bill," hurled eight solid frames and swears the only reputable base hit gleaned off his nothing ball came from the bludgeon of Kalph Coleman, quite a ballgamer himself in his day.

seeing is believing-especially in Salem-and so a challenge has been thrown. Gregory & Co. has been invited to do battle with the Waters Park Amalgamation of Coaches, Managers, Second - Guessers and Writers. Inc., come any afternoon they desire, at 4 p.m. Now the WPACMSW. Inc., isn't so had off for talent either. Theres H. Maple, still, figuratively speaking, quite a load of catcher. And Spec Keene slants and hitting we'll match against LHG's any time. An infield of merit could possibly be found in the likes of H. Hauk, W. Erickson, F. Schaake, J. Oravec, T. Drynan, G. Flesher and G. Emigh, B. Williams would be a second Dick Wenner and, with a minimum of effort gardening chums could be found to roam with Bruce, Ben Pade, of the State street Pades, who does a pretty good job of it every night from his Waters park box, would be manager of course.

Admission to the epic would be free, for it likely wouldn't draw a drunken fly otherwise. And the only benefit it could be for would be for those afflicted with blended bourbon. So if Infielder Emigh will lend the equipment and the park, and will hide Bill Hanauska somewhere in the stands just in case, the Portlanders have a game. That is, if n they ain't scaird. (Incidentally, Greg told us in Portland Sunday night his charges would consider the challenge quite seriously.)

At Last! Bev's Name Hits a Headline

Not that our mild blast of Sunday bore results, but we see that other sheets managed to get Erixon streets Bill Bevens' name in a headline vesterday after Bill blanked the Boston Red Sox Sunday, 5-0. Verily its about time. That was No. 14 for Willie, and with six weeks more to go he could bring home those 20 victories. Not only did Bey whitewash the hit-happy Sox Sunday, but he also hung the hit collar on Ted Williams. Which is quite an accomplishment all by itself Furthermore, he didn't walk Thumpin' Theodore on purpose. That was Bill's fourth shutout of the campaign, and what a super earned run average he will have!

The Dodgers have moved into Spokane and next year's Inland Empire WII, entry will likely consist of future Ebbetts' fielders in entirety. But he who is being mentioned as most likely to skipper the Spokes a year hence is none other than former villager Dwight Aden, who probably never saw the banks of the Gowanus or Branch Rickey. Come to think of it, bouncing around the league with afternoons off wouldn't be at all damaging to Dwight's insurance business. Ogdahl Headed for San Diego, and Gold
