

Don't Look Now...

but... The machine age has eliminated another art, swallowed another personality, killed another friend of our youth. The professional pretzel twister no longer exists, but has been supplanted by a machine. With the twister went the glamour of the pretzel, leaving only an ishy stick or three circles, flattened out, and all exactly alike; all perfect. Anyway, they're an obvious steal of the Odd Fellows emblem.

One thing or another... There are two classes of people, those in a hurry and those not... and the two never get together. The Impatient wait in line while the Easygoers take their time... Those who don't care a darn, lounge around while the Hurryers try to get it over with.

Never again... will I let any man ridicule the women for standing in nylon lines, since advertised sale of shotgun shells at a hardware store the other day.

Dilemma... We haven't yet decided whether it's worse not having any sheets or having some, not being able to find a laundry to wash 'em.

Mamma's girl... She wanted to be helpful, and though very young, knew some of the difficulties her mother undergoes in keeping house these days. Looking over the stock at the small coast town, where she was vacationing with friends, she found just the thing for mother's gift. So with her own pennies, she bought them... a package of jello and a roll of toilet paper!

Miss Speer Now Mrs. Weitman

STAYTON — Miss Marilyn Jeanne Speer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Speer of Aumsville, became the bride of Stanley H. Weitman also of Aumsville, Saturday night, September 21, at the Stayton Methodist church. The Rev. R. T. Cookingham officiated. Mrs. P. B. Collins played the wedding marches and Mrs. D. George Cole, accompanied by Mrs. Lawrence Lierman, sang.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown with short train. Her veil was finger-tip length with a crown of orange blossoms. She carried pink rosebuds and white gladioluses.

Attendants were Miss Florence Dalke, Aumsville, Miss Alice Kippenhan of Newberg. They carried pink and white gladioluses.

Maxine Weitman and Margaret Speer lighted the tapers.

Attending the groom were Gordon Weitman and John A. Speer. Viders were Ernest Weitman and John A. Speer.

A reception was held in the church parlors following the ceremony. Serving were Mrs. Alfred Rabde and Mrs. Robert Reynolds, both of Newberg, and Mrs. George Hann of Aumsville. Mrs. Robert Kray, Coos Bay, passed the guest book.

After a short trip to southern Oregon, the couple will be at home in Aumsville.

Dairy Cattle to be Auctioned Monday
SILVERTON—An auction sale

The Statesman, Salem, Ore., Sunday, September 29, 1946—11

of dairy cattle, chiefly Holsteins and Guernseys, will be held Monday at the Wayne A. Percy ranch in the Abiqua district. The sale begins at 10:30 a.m., and Ben Suddell of Albany is the auctioneer. Some dairy equipment, horses, machinery, hay and grain will also be auctioned. The farm itself, consisting of 307 acres, is also for sale. Percy, owner, is selling because of ill health.

"Holly" Says:

We Sell Only FIRE PROOF INVESTMENTS

No sir, you've never heard of a diamond being lost in a fire. All you have to do to recover your diamond from a fire is wait until everything (including your wife) cools off. Then start at one corner of where the building used to be and sift all the ashes through a flour sifter. You will have to eliminate burnt nails, door knobs, hinges, old forks, belt buckles, broken dishes, etc., but eventually you will find that diamond and it will be 100 percent intact and you will still have your investment. By the way—there is only a remote chance you will even have to dig through the ashes because you'll probably be wearing your diamond and you won't be in the fire anyway (we hope). That reminds me of a story, call me up, I'll tell it to you.
